'WORK OR JAIL' BILL BEATEN

SENATE DEALS '46 TO 29 BLOW TO F. D. R. AIMS

21 Democrats Help Defeat Plan

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 3—The New Deal's compromise "work or jail" bill was defeated in the senate today by a 46 to 29 vote. By its action the senate rejected administration schemes, already approved by the house to control employment in any business or industry and to impose heavy fines and prison terms on workers and employers who violate government job decrees.

Twenty-one Democrats, including such New Deal stalwarts as Senators Pepper [Fla.] and Green [R. I.], teamed with 24 Republicans and one Progressive to turn down the administration's bid for more bureaucratic power which had been urged by President Roosevelt on four occasions since congress began the consideration of man power legislation early in January.

Senators of both parties hailed the vote as a victory for the people and as a sign that the senate will resist further New Deal efforts to regiment the nation's labor and business interests.

New Conference Sought

After defeating the bill, the senate by a voice vote decided to ask the house to reopen man power conferences with the senate in the hope of reaching an agreement on a milder job control bill passed by the senate a month ago. The house can take no action on the senate invitation until April 10, when house members return from their unofficial Easter recess.

Three actions are open to the house—[1] To agree to a conference. [2] To reject the senate's invitation, or [3] to agree to the original senate bill, which would authorize employment ceilings and regulate or prohibit the hiring of workers.

Today's vote came suddenly during the fifth day of senate debate on the compromise bill. Sen. Donnell [R., Mo.], who had not previously stated his position, was speaking on the bill. As he neared the end of his talk, it became apparent he was about to announce his opposition to the measure.

Barkley Told He's 'Licked.'

Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, who had on his desk a long speech in defense of the bill which he intended to deliver when Donnell concluded, then began a hasty canvass to determine how the vote would go.

"You're licked," he was told by leaders of both parties, according to one senator with whom he conferred.

As Donnell finished his talk with the assertion that the man power bill was not necessary for the prosecution of the war, Barkley rose and announced, "I was about to speak on this measure, but I will not because I understand many senators are anxious for an immediate vote."

Vice President Truman thereupon ordered the clerk to call the roll. Bells rang thruout the capitol and senate office building and senators, who had not expected a vote today, rushed to the senate chamber to an-

F.D.R.'s Envoy Seeks to Stop Big 3 Brawls

Washington, D. C., April 3 [Special]—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, personable United States ambassador to China, has been intrusted by President Roosevelt with a delicate mission to Prime Minister Churchill and Dictator Stalin to try to end their bickering over votes in the proposed world peace league, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

The special assignment was disclosed shortly after the President had administered a lethal slap at Stalin's demand for three votes at the San Francisco security conference by the expedient of waiving the reservation Mr. Roosevelt made at Yalta for three votes for the United States.

No Delay of Conference

In making known the President's maneuver, Secretary of State Stettinius proclaimed there definitely will not be any postponement of the conference, scheduled to open April 25, and asserted the rapid tempo of military developments had increased its necessity.

Gen. Hurley's task will be to carry the personal plea of the chief executive for a full understanding and complete harmony among the Big Three on the San Francisco conference on the ground that any differences among them may imperil future world security.

The special envoy, who was secretary of war in the Hoover administration but has been a New Deal stalwart since Pearl Harbor, will leave on the personal mission in a few days. He will go first to London and then on to Moscow. He will report by diplomatic pouch on his conferences and is expected to return then to Chungking, capital of Chiang Kai-shek's government in China.

Faces Warsaw Issue

In addition to asking Churchill and Stalin to stop quarreling over votes in the proposed league, Hurley has been instructed to call upon the Russian leader to abandon his demand that the Warsaw provisional government of soviet-selected Poles be invited to represent Poland at the San Francisco meeting.

It is expected he will ask Stalin, as evidence of good faith, to reverse his decision not to send Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov to San Francisco. Altho it was promised at Yalta that Molotov would attend the conference, within the week it was announced in Moscow that he would not go to the meeting and Russia's delegation would be headed by Andrei Gromyko, soviet ambassador to the United States.

Seek Eden's Presence

It is also expected that Hurley will urge Churchill to send Foreign Minister Eden for the opening of the conference by President Roosevelt. The British had promised at Yalta that Eden would attend the opening session then bow out later to leave British Ambassador Halifax as head of the British delegation. But it has since been report-

ROLL OF HONOR

A Z-Z-ZERO HOUR FOR MOSQUITOES

Their Love Song May Become Dirge

New York, April 3 [Special]—Haunting, rhythmic melodies resounded today thru the austere halls of Cornell university medical college. They had a conga like hum suggestive of southern nights and tropical jungles; they had characteristic beats not unlike some modernistic music.

Students and professors not in on the know paused in surprise at the strange sounds. A new kind of jazz? Those who inquired found Dr. Morton C. Kahn, bacteriologist, playing records on a phonograph. Two motion picture sound engineers were standing by. Faces of the trio radiated satisfaction.

Sound Mating Call.

Science, Dr. Kahn explained, pointing to the phonograph, has learned to make a noise like a love sick mosquito. The sound coming from the record, he said, was the mating call of a female mosquito, amplified from a hundred million to a billion times.

To those who expressed polite interest in a "yes, but what of it?" tone of voice, the professor announced triumphantly he has hopes the mosquito love call may eventually lure all the male mosquitoes in the world to their destruction.

Dr. Kahn said that he and his associates began their experiments several months ago. They made records of the songs of all varieties of mosquitoes they could find, particularly the four that carry malaria, yellow fever, dengue fever, and filariasis, the most serious tropical diseases affecting mankind.

Right Into a Trap.

The plan is to play the love songs in mosquito infected areas, Dr. Kahn said. Male mosquitoes, hearing the female call, emit an answering call of their own, but, more important, take prompt wing for the source of the song. Traps will await them. Soon no more males. When the existing female generation dies, no more mosquitoes.

The doctor said a field test will soon be made near Tallahassee, Fla.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BAD ORB PRISON CAMP, Germany, April 3—Conditions of captivity more appalling than found at the Heppenheim hospital last week were disclosed today by the emaciated, lice-ridden allied soldiers held by the Germans in this wired inclosure on a hill above Bad Orb, 20 miles northeast of Hanau.

Sixty-five hundred soldiers were imprisoned here. There were 3,200 Americans, 2,200 British, 450 French, 450 Russians, and 200 Serbs.

The Bad Orb story is one of the most sordid and shocking we have encountered. Here were fighting soldiers starved down to feeble caricaturps, with lusterless eyes, with arms and legs like pipe stems, and with insect ravaged torsos. They were packed like cattle into quarters designed for a fourth their number.

33 Americans Die

In the last few months 33 Americans died of malnutrition. Three other Americans were killed when allied planes strafed the camp Feb. 6, not knowing what it was.

The Americans were forced to pay exorbitant sums or part with treasured possessions for American cigarets and German black bread at black market price scales set up by the guards and some well situated French prisoners.

Some of the Yanks captured in the Ardennes were taken first to the Limburg and Gerolstein camps in Germany.

Ailing Yank Is Shot

Those who had been at Gerolstein told of being routed out of bed before dawn on cold, snowy days and forced to labor until they dropped in their tracks. They told of one ailing American who was unable to get up from his cot, and who was shot to death by a German sergeant.

Those who came to Bad Orb from Limburg had to walk 145 miles in five days. They were herded thru the cold and snow by German guards who beat them with rifle butts to make them keep up. The prisoners had no water and only an occasional cup of ersatz coffee to drink, or a crust of black bread to eat.

"At Bad Orb, we were assigned at first to mess with the French," one American related. "We had one-seventh of a loaf of black bread daily. We were supposed to get two canteen cups of thin soup each day. Actually, we got one canteen cup full. The French withheld the other to supplement their own rations. We also got a piece of cheese every day—a piece about the size of your thumb."

The Americans were kept in 18 barracks buildings. One of the wooden structures, built for about 40 persons, contained more than 160. The stench inside was nauseating.

Bodies Pocked and Bleeding

Some of these Americans showed their pitiful figures. Their emaciated bodies were pocked and bleeding from the bites of lice.

Two American medical officers captured in the Ardennes were given permission to care for their countrymen and were joined later by an army dentist and 10 medical aid men. They had only one forceps, one needle holder, and one scissors. There were no drugs or anesthetics.

The liberated prisoners shouted and wept with joy when the American rescuers arrived. The attitude of most regarding their future was summed up by one soldier as follows: "We don't know what the army is going to do with us. Maybe they'll make us civilians again. But if they keep us in uniform, the job we want is guarding prison camps for Germans in America."

YANKS HAMMER A NEW WEDGE THRU OKINAWA

Japs Still Putting Up Feeble Fight

GUAM, April 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—American marines and infantry men, still finding negligible opposition, drove another wedge across Okinawa yesterday. They took firm control of that strategic Ryukyu Island's south central section.

On the southern flank of the east coast of Okinawa, which is only 325 miles south of Japan proper, American infantry men were six miles from the town of Naha, principal city of the Ryukyus with a population of 66,000. Near by is one of the best airports in the entire chain.

In the north the marines were crossing difficult terrain. They were slowed more by hills and dusty roads than by Japanese snipers.

Unable to Plot Positions

Headquarters officers said the advance was so speedy and the situation so fluid that they were unable to plot positions accurately on their maps.

Opposition to the Americans, who invaded the island on Sunday, was confused because of the rapidity of their advance.

Yesterday's advances over-ran scores of little towns and engulfed hundreds of more civilians, but still there was no mention of taking Japanese prisoners.

Adm. Nimitz, in announcing the details of the new success, said Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger's marines had cut off the Katchin peninsula by reaching the east coast.

Push 8 Miles Southward

Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th corps doughboys, who hit the east coast of Okinawa one day ahead of the marines, drove eight miles southward along the shores of Katsuren bay, a small inlet within Nakagusuku harbor, one time anchorage for the Japanese fleet.

Fought Together on Leyte

The navy disclosed that Maj. Gen. Archibald Arnold's crack 7th infantry division is fighting on Okinawa with its battle companion of the Leyte campaign—the 77th division under Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce.

The 7th and 77th battled the Japanese in the Ormoc corridor of western Leyte—a fight which went far toward deciding the tide of battle in the Philippines.

M'Arthur Hits Sulus 30 Miles from Borneo

MANILA, April 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Veteran infantrymen of Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's 41st division on Monday invaded Tawitawi at the south end of the Sulu archipelago, 30 miles from oil rich Borneo. This was a 200 mile leap southwestward from captured Zamboanga on Mindanao.

The 8th army Yanks seized the vast Tawitawi harbor, former Japanese naval base, and two small islands at the southwestern end of Tawitawi, Sanga Sanga, and Bongao, along with two air fields.

Base at Jolo Menaced

Gen. MacArthur today said the enemy port and air base at Jolo, in the middle of the archipelago, is seriously jeopardized by the leapfrog landing.

Guerrilla forces aided in the landing, which was made at little cost to the Americans.

The 41st division, which has taken part in more than a dozen invasion operations in the Pacific, began its move toward the Sulu archipelago when it invaded Palawan Feb. 28. After a quick cleanup on that island, units of the division landed on Mindanao, near Zamboanga, March 10.

Captured Two Days Later

Zamboanga was captured two days later in a quick campaign that caught the enemy by surprise.

MacArthur said the invasion of Mindanao gave control of the "entire length of western shores of the Philippine Islands, a distance of approximately 800 miles."

On March 22, the 41st division completed three years of overseas service. Twenty-two months of this was in actual combat. It had seen more service than any other division in the Pacific theater.

Move Along Peninsula

On southeastern Luzon, invaded at the big port of Legaspi Easter morning, one column of the 14th corps drove 22 miles northwest along the Bicol peninsula while other columns moving eastward seized San Pablo City, capital of Laguna province.

MacArthur reported, his 40th division troops on Negros Island captured Bubug and were approaching the southern edge of Silay air field. The Americal division on Cebu Island destroyed 58 enemy pillboxes and emplacements driving northwest from captured Lahog airdrome.

MacArthur said the Americans have all of Negros except the northwestern tip from Silay to Fabrica, and the town of Damaguete on the southeast coast. Panay Island is now "practically cleared" of Japanese, and Cebu is under Yank control except for the foothills northwest of Cebu city and the northeast coast.

Heavy and medium bombers switched their pounding of Formosa to the eastern coast, hitting the town of Giran and the Karenko and Kegami airdromes. Fuel dumps were left burning. Fighters hit rail installations, factories, and a power plant with good effect.

Gen. MacArthur said Australian ground forces, with tank support, repulsed a two day enemy attack "on our positions east of the Puriata river in southern Bougainville," in the Solomons.

Rope Persuades Nazis to Fight On

ASCHAFFENBURG, Germany, April 3 (AP)—The diehard Nazi garrison in this German barracks city on the banks of the River Main surrendered today to the 45th infantry division of the United States 7th army after a week long battle in which German civilians and soldiers fought the Americans.

Shortly after 9 a. m. the ruthless German Maj. von Lambert, who had hanged two of his officers in the streets of Aschaffenburg during the peak of the fighting, led his troops in a white flag parade from the old four towered castle.

An Answer Is Found

And here, in the flaming, smoking rubble heaps of a city that once had sheltered 40,000 Germans, the G. I.s found an answer to the oft-repeated question, "Why do these guys keep on fighting?"

It was not, as some had guessed, those 40,000 cases of cognac and liqueurs stored in a big German army warehouse down by the Main river.

It was not because of the German army's supply dump. The Germans kept on fighting after both these prizes had fallen.

Sign Tells Why

There in front of a wine shop hung the body of a young German lieutenant. His hands were tied, but he was not blindfolded.

Civilians said he was hanged on the orders of Von Lambert, who had dictated this text on a garishly painted placard tacked to the front of the wine shop:

"Here hangs a coward in officer's garb because he betrayed the Fuehrer and the people."

PARIS, April 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Patton's United States 3d army tank columns smashed into the outskirts of Gotha yesterday in a 19 mile sweep within 140 miles of Berlin. Canadian troops in the north were only 20 miles from closing a trap on the bulk of 90,000 Nazi troops in western Holland.

Striking across wooded Thuringia province, Patton's flying columns drove within 65 miles of Czechoslovakia and were three-fourths of the way across the "waist" of Germany. His men were reported within 160 miles of the Russian lines [less than the air line distance between Chicago and Springfield, Ill.].

Sixty miles northwest of Gotha other 3d army units battled deep inside the great arsenal city of Kassel, which one German broadcast said had fallen in a mass of flaming ruins.

75 Miles from Leipzig.

At Gotha the famous 4th armored [Breakthru] division had carried within 75 miles of the big Saxony city of Leipzig and within 26 miles of Weimar, birthplace of the German republic.

The Germans said 3d army troops were storming Suhl, 68 miles from Czechoslovakia, putting the Americans within 168 miles of Prague, Czechoslovak capital.

A monocled German major named Von Lambert, surrendered Aschaffenburg to the 7th army after publicly hanging two of his officers who first had suggested that he give up when the Americans turned their big guns on the city six days ago.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army troops also fought their way into Wuerzburg, swept around that city, and were less than 40 miles from Nuernberg, Nazi city covering the northern approaches to Munich.

Repel Break-Out Attempts

Other units fought their way into Heilbronn, an important communications hub, and also reached Bruchsal, only 10 miles from the Rhine river stronghold of Karlsruhe.

In the north Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army beat down Nazi break-out attempts from the Ruhr pocket as allied planes showered surrender leaflets on the troops, estimated to number 110,000.

In Holland and northwest Germany, the British and Canadian armies drove toward the Zuider Zee and the North sea Nazi ports. The Germans in Holland already were in flight by horse cart, trucks, and anything that would move. The British beat down the last 58 miles or less to the North sea in efforts to spring a double trap.

Would Cut Off Rotterdam.

The Canadian-British moves threatened to seal off the big Dutch cities of the Hague, Amsterdam, Haarlem, and Rotterdam.

The Canadians crossed the Twenthe canal between Zutphen and Hengelo, and apparently by nightfall had cut the main Hanover-Holland railway which is the major enemy escape route out of the area south of the Zuider Zee.

[The Paris radio said today Canadian troops had reached Zwolle, 10 miles from the Zuider Zee.]

The Canadians fought within three miles of the big Dutch Rhine city of Arnhem, capturing Huissen and Angeren on the so-called island between rivers north of Nijmegen. The Canadians bridged the lower Rhine twice.

[The Free Netherlands radio said allied troops captured Hengelo, 19 miles northeast of Arnhem. Hengelo is a Dutch city of 40,000 population near the German frontier west of captured Rheine.]

At last reports, the Canadians were within eight miles of Deventer on the main traffic line to the V-bomb launching sites on the Dutch coast between Rotterdam and The Hague.

The British advanced 17 miles north to Nordhorn and on beyond there. Gains of up to eight miles were commonplace.

The British 11th armored division burst into the traffic center of Osnabrueck and fought within 60 miles of Bremen and 87 of Wilhelmshaven, naval bases of Germany's still dangerous U-boat squadrons. The heaviest resistance around Osnabrueck was from a battalion of officer candidates.

Muenster, ancient cathedral city and capital of Germany's Westphalian province, was captured by the United States 17th air borne division and British tanks. Siege troops moved on two miles beyond the ruined town.

9th Army Drives for Weser.

Lt. Gen. Simpson's American 9th army tanks racing for the north German flatlands were less than 175 miles from Berlin and five miles from the Weser river.

The 5th armored division of the 9th army was nearest the Weser, which with the Elbe are the last barrier streams on the high road to Berlin. The 5th made 25 miles on Monday on the first day of its attack east of the Rhine.

The 2nd armored [Hell on Wheels] division of the 9th army laid siege to Bielefeld, approached what may be a German defense line on the Weser, and cut roads from Bielefeld to Paderborn and Osnabrueck. The 2d had cleared the last of four passes it faced in the Teutoberger wald, a wooded ridge defending Bielefeld and the approaches to the Weser.

The 1st and 9th armies tightened their ring around the 3,900 square mile Ruhr, where 110,000 Nazis threshed about, looking for a weak spot thru which to escape. All German counter-attacks were smashed, the 1st army pressing in for the kill from the south and east; the 9th army striking down from the north.

Fight Holdouts in Hamm

The 9th army captured Recklinghausen, a munitions producer of 87,000 population and fought the last Germans in Hamm, eastern exit of the Ruhr and Europe's largest rail center. A small counter-attack was easily repulsed.

The 9th was less than 50 miles from Hannover, 114 from Hamburg and 80 from Brunswick.

The main counter-attacks from inside the Ruhr pocket were around Winterberg at the eastern rim. One officer said the Germans appeared to be building up for "a major attack."

The 9th infantry division of the 1st army, took the initiative late in the day and started advancing. Others of Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army units crossed the Sieg river on the south, compressing the Ruhr box. In a four mile advance, mechanized cavalry fought thru Altenburen, Rizen and Scharfenberg, all 20 odd miles southeast of Paderborn.

Bitterest Fighting in Kassel

The street fighting in the ancient Hesse-Nassau capital of Kassel, 165 miles southwest of Berlin, was the bitterest yet for Patton's shock troops. The enemy kept his aircraft and tank plants working, even tho the city of 217,085 population was being conquered and American guns sprayed the factories with massed bombardments.

The perimeter defenses of Kassel were taken after three days of savage battling and the 80th [Blue Ridge] division began moving into the streets after dawn. Tanks ran around from the southwest and came into the city from the northeast.

A great explosion shook the center of Kassel at noon. The Germans were believed to have blown up munitions stores preparatory to retreat.

The 3d army's 11th armored division crossed the Werra river anew and advanced nine miles across Thuringia to the area 17 miles south of Gotha.

Another of the division's combat teams advanced 11 miles to a point 27 miles south of Gotha and 65 northwest of the Czechoslovak border. The 26th division cleared Fulda, a city of 27,000 population. The division then moved on five miles to the northeast.

Capture Bridge Intact

One column of the 6th armored division reached the sector 18 miles southeast of Kassel and infantry reached the Werra river 18 miles east of Kassel.

Another 6th armored column captured a bridge across the Werra and drove eight miles beyond to a point 27 miles southeast of Kassel.

The city of Aschaffenburg fell to the 45th infantry division of the 7th army after a week long battle and 35 miles to the southeast two units of the 42d [Rainbow] division fought into Wuerzburg.

Considerably more than 10,000 prisoners were counted on Monday with only a few of the nine attacking armies reporting. The 1st army took 4,821, the 7th bagged 3,789, and the British 2,000.

U. S. FLYERS AID REDS 4TH STRAIGHT DAY; CHICAGOAN BAGS FOE

ROME, April 3 (AP)—While United States 15th air force heavy bombers were grounded by weather today, fighters and fighter bombers of the 15th and 12th United States air forces for the fourth straight day struck at German communications in Austria in support of the Russian armies.

Thunderbolts of the tactical air force, which alone flew 1,300 sorties Monday, shot down 13 German planes near Verona, while over southern Austria Mustangs and Lightnings destroyed four more enemy aircraft in combat. Lt. George Amedro, 1602 E. 77th st., Chicago, was credited with one.

ILLINOIS YANK'S GUN KEEPS NAZIS AT BAY IN WOOD

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LIPPSTADT, Germany, April 3—When Pvt. Vernon Stratton, a machine gunner, fired a burst into a wood south of Lippstadt, where Nazi snipers were lurking, I stopped my jeep and asked if the road were clear, and when I identified myself as a Tribune reporter, he said, "I'm from Hettick, Ill., and my dad reads THE TRIBUNE."

While I wrote his name in my notebook an adjacent machine gunner yelled, "I'm Pvt. Martin Blakeman of 3636 Montgall st., Kansas City, Mo.—put that in the paper, too."

I told him Kansas City was a long way from Chicago, but he replied: "My folks get THE TRIBUNE every day, too, and I want them to know I'm all right."

ZINK, CHICAGO CHAPLAIN, WINS A VALOR MEDAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 3—Capt. William J. Zink, a Chicago chaplain attached to the 8th air force, has received the United States soldier's medal for valor, it was announced tonight.

When a bomber crashed in flames at his base, setting fire to a barracks, Chaplain Zink rushed into the building to search for victims. He was forced to leave because of the dense smoke and fumes, but altho his hands were burned he reentered the building with a gas mask and helmet in an unsuccessful attempt to reach a trapped man. Then the clergyman gave the last rites to the men who were fatally injured in the bomber crash. He helped medical personnel remove the bodies from the plane's wreckage.

Chaplain Zink was assistant pastor of St. Nicholas of Tolentine parish in 1941-'42 and previously was assistant pastor of Mary Queen of Heaven Catholic church, Cicero.

ICELAND GROUP ASSAILED OVER MOSCOW RADIO

LONDON, April 3 (AP).—A soviet spokesman today denounced what he termed trouble makers in Iceland and asserted Iceland had no one to blame but herself for failing to get an invitation to the San Francisco conference.

Mikhail Mikhailov, in an English language commentary over the Moscow radio, said certain factions in Iceland were spreading propaganda that the United States and Great Britain wanted to make a special case to give Iceland a conference seat without a declaration of war but that Russia prevented them.

"The stupidity of such a claim is self-evident, as is the fact that the decision of the Crimea conference on Iceland's conditional invitation was perfectly unanimous," Mikhailov said.

SOMETIMES IT'S SAFER UP FRONT, WRITER LEARNS

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

U. S. 1ST ARMY ADVANCE HDQ., Germany, April 2 [Delayed]—Germans ambushed one of our supply columns today along the road from Medebach to Korbach. The road supposedly was clear but a German force worked into our lines in an area where the situation is still "fluid." We lost some trucks.

Two days ago I crossed that same road in another convoy. We were coming back from the 3d armored division in the Paderborn area. Nothing much happened on that trip. We shot one German who nipped out of the woods, but none of us was hurt. Yet it served again to emphasize the wide open manner of tank fighting.

It means that often you are safer up with the leading tanks. There you have the protection of their fire power. If you are in the middle of the column you are not likely to be ambushed altho you may have some hair raising moments.

Convoys Are Protected.

But when you start back, then you know that you are almost on your own. That is why we never travel by ourselves if we can help it. The road may have been cut in several places by by-passed groups of Germans.

That is why we travel if possible with supply convoys. They must make that run every day, but they do it with the fire power of half-tracks or armored cars or light tanks in order to be able to blast their way thru unexpected road blocks.

We were 18 vehicles, headed by Capt. Marlow C. Dearden, Salt Lake City, Utah, of the 704th tank destroyer battalion. As convoy commander he led off in his bantam. We were right behind him where he could keep an eye on us, for our gear box was jammed and our little jeep had to travel in low gear at a maximum speed of 30 miles an hour—30 when every nerve urges you to go 60. Behind us was an armored car.

Not Bad for Awhile

For the first few miles it was not so bad. On both sides of the road the woods or thick brush were filled with various parts of Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose's 3d armored division. There were car parks for the big tank wreckers, bivouacs of medics, and camps of service personnel. Then suddenly we were on our own.

Our trail at first wound over freshly planted farm fields, then back onto the main roads as we flashed thru villages. Village life, at first stunned by the unexpected sweep of our armor into their peaceful countryside, was beginning to stir again. Already German kids were standing beside the road smiling, waving and begging for candy and chewing gum.

Out thru the hills again our convoy roared at its maximum 30 mile speed, churning up dust clouds. And then, just as we dipped down thru a wooded pass, Dearden's jeep slowed to a halt.

German Gives Up

I had not seen a German soldier, but Dearden's driver, Tech. Sgt. Harold W. Betzold, St. Louis, Mo., had seen him among the trees. Before their jeep had stopped both Dearden and Betzold were firing their pistols slowly and deliberately.

The soldier came out running with his hands raised. Blood dripped from one thumb where the crack shooting had nicked him.

The convoy was off again and 62 miles from the tank front we saw familiar red and white signs tacked to trees which said "Road clear of mines to hedges." That meant doughboys were not far away, and every one breathed easier. And as our convoy roared past magnificent forests and thru lovely river valleys, my companion, Harold Austin, an Australian war correspondent, said:

"This is magnificent country. It reminds me of parts of Australia. Why would these awful people ever want to leave it and conquer some one else?"

Report Execution of 6,000 for Vienna Defeatism

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—Swiss reports said today the Nazis had executed 6,000 persons in the Vienna area for defeatism, sabotage, and demonstrations as the high command struggled to keep resistance alive. Ten thousand persons were reported arrested in the Munich area for defeatism, hiding food supplies, and acting against the reich. The city's food situation was reported critical.

VATICAN PAPER URGES GERMANS TO GIVE UP FIGHT

ROME, Italy, April 3 [Reuters]—An urgent plea to the Germans to lay down their arms was made today by the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano, which warned against the belief that the end of the struggle was merely a question of hours.

"Apart from German military capacity and the vast territories still in German hands, there is the fact that some authority having the power to order and guarantee its execution all along the front must ask for an armistice," the paper said.

Decision Up to Army

"Such an authority could only be the government and general staff. These are practically identical in Germany, but they are not in the position to treat for terms and do not intend to surrender unconditionally.

"Unconditional surrender, therefore, can occur de facto only by the German army suddenly laying down its arms.

"Who could promote or guarantee such an event? Single units whose commanders consider further fighting impossible may leave the fight. But when will it happen on a whole front, let alone all fronts?"

Nazi Idea of Honor Absurd

The paper adds that altho Nazi propaganda itself now concedes that the war is lost, the Germans, rather than yield, are plunging themselves into an abyss of suffering that will destroy all recuperative powers.

"Their justification for this is honor," the paper asserted. "What is the meaning of such a sentiment when it implies exacting the supreme sacrifice from millions of helpless, harmless, and unarmed people? Judged by any standard, logical, political, Christian, or human, such a conception of honor is an absurdity. In God's name, end this bloodshed!"

8TH ARMY HITS BEHIND GERMAN LINES IN ITALY

ROME, April 3 (AP).—Eighth army troops, striking behind German lines at the extreme eastern end of the Italian front, drove up the narrow finger of land between the Adriatic and the Po di Primaro river yesterday and captured more than 200 enemy troops. Landings on the eastern shore of the Valli di Comacchio lagoon made up one phase of the action, allied headquarters announced today.

While described only as a "successful local operation" the action was the most aggressive undertaken on this front since the United States 10th mountain division seized Monte Belvedere last month.

On the 5th army front, where the long stalemate has heightened tension on both sides, the Germans in recent nights have been firing many flares—apparently looking for the start of the action promised by Gen. Clark.

GERMANS SHIFT FORCE FOR BLOW TO ESCAPE RUHR

Yanks Build Up Strength All Along Ring

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

RECKLINGHAUSEN, Germany, April 3—Field Marshal Kesselring from dusk last night to dawn today launched the expected coördinated German counter-attacks attempting to extricate the German army trapped inside the Ruhr.

Troops deployed from Neuhaus, northeast of Paderborn—outside the encircling ring—attempting to batter their way thru and form a corridor for the 20-odd surrounded divisions to escape. Simultaneously from an opposite point inside the pocket panzer [armored] units repeatedly swept forward attempting to hack a path thru our barrier.

United States 2d armored and 83d division cavalry units surged back and forth during the night, and by morning had hurled back the last desperate charging enemy attacks and riddled and dispersed their tanks by gun fire.

Move to Northeast Corner

The best units from the German divisions in the Ruhr along the Rhine between Duisburg and Cologne are being withdrawn toward the northeast corner of the pocket for an attempt to break out if the American ring can be broken.

There are still inside the trap a half dozen German divisions, commanded by fanatical Nazis and dominated by SS men, which are expected to form a battering ram for an escape attack. Gestapo agents and Nazi party leaders may still exert sufficient terror to force less fanatical units to participate in a break out attempt.

Besides seeking to open the trap, Field Marshal von Model, commanding German army group B, is attempting to recapture Senne Lager, the principal tank refitting station on the western front, and also to regain possession of the Paderborn air fields north and south of the town, which are the finest luftwaffe installations in western Europe.

By seizing Senne Lager the 2d armored captured a battalion of brand new tanks awaiting delivery to the SS [elite] panzer Viking division, a part of which came all the way from the eastern front to obtain new equipment. The Viking unit was thrown without armor into a counter-attack against the 83d.

Yanks Build Up Strength

Every hour, day and night, the American forces in the sector which closed the ring around the Ruhr are being reënforced to tighten and strengthen the giant trap.

Along more than 100 miles of highway from the Rhine to our advanced points for mile after mile, and hour after hour, every mechanical arm of total war's solidly mechanized armies thundered past. Tanks, guns, bulldozers and motor trucks. With the vehicular mass went thousands and thousands of troops carrying the finest, newest and most complete equipment any army ever bore.

"We're ready for them wherever they try" [a break out attempt], said a corps commander. "It makes no difference whether we smash them inside the trap or as they try to break thru. One thing is sure—we're going to smash them."

Red Army Paper Hails War-Born Slav Solidarity

MOSCOW, April 3 (AP)—The army newspaper Red Star said today that "one of the biggest political results of the war will be the liberation of all Slav peoples and the consolidation of Slav friendship and solidarity for securing the peace against German militarism." The newspaper said "the whole continent of Europe is obligated first of all" to the soviet people for the defeat of Germany.

Yanks Save 33,000 Reds from Nazi Living Death

TEUTOBURGER WALD, Germany, April 3 (AP)—Freed from one of Germany's largest prisoner of war camps by a 2d armored division column, some 33,000 starving Russians used their first hours of liberty in a wild hunt for food.

While hardened Americans looked in horror at conditions that brought death to an estimated 30,000 other Russians during the last three years, the emaciated survivors rushed to almost empty storehouses, crammed their mouths with raw flour, scraped food bits off the floors, and dug with bony hands for potatoes in nearby fields.

"These men must have rich food for a long time if they are to live," commented a Russian doctor who had been held at the camp for more than three years.

Guard Pale with Fear

When one of the German guards was asked if he would be content to be kept prisoner under the same conditions the Germans kept these Russians, he almost turned white with fright, and refused to answer.

The camp, on the outskirts of Teutoburger Wald, south of Bielefeld, was liberated by the 82d reconnaissance group of the 2d armored division under command of Lt. Col. Wheeler H. Merriam, Framingham, Mass. Coming thru a wooded area in the rain late yesterday, the Americans found a group of low huts surrounded by barbed wire.

"I saw a group of prisoners standing by the road waving white flags," Merriam said. "When the prisoners saw we had taken over, they rushed from the huts and headed straight for the cook shack. Some broke out of camp and ate anything they came across until rounded up by the Americans."

Given Smokes and Food

"There were some guards in towers around the camp who were afraid to come down until we had quieted most of the prisoners," said Lt. Charles Fink, New York City.

Cigarets and food that could be spared were given the prisoners by the reconnaissance group. This morning more permanent arrangements were being made by the 30th division which had come upon some of the starved Russians pillaging farms near by.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher and Gordon Gammack of the Des Moines [Ia.] Register toured the camp today. This is what they saw and heard:

The camp is composed of scores of small huts with wooden bunks. Many of the prisoners were in hospitals while the rest had been farmed out in gangs to work in nearby factories and arms plants. Those too ill to work were put in buildings taken care of by Russian doctors.

Doctors Tell of Records

They were accompanied on their tour by a Russian prisoner who had been in the camp three and a half years since his capture at Minsk, and who had been a scientific worker at Moscow. He spoke English. With the correspondents went two Russian doctors who had been at the camp more than three years.

The doctors said they had records showing that more than 30,000 Russians died during that time from typhus and starvation, or were shot to death trying to escape. This figure seemed extremely high until we toured the hospitals.

All the prisoners looked dazed, pale, and listless, even those walking about. There were 1,500 tuberculosis cases, tended by five men, in a camp two miles away.

The dead were found in mass graves just outside the barbed wire enclosure.

Like Walking Skeletons

Inside the hospital buildings the scenes were shocking. A great number of prisoners had been brought in from the eastern front the week before after 45 days of marching on foot and eight days of travel in cars. The total amount of food each had received in that time was one-half a pound of bread.

They looked like walking skeletons.

One noncommissioned German officer, offering an excuse for the conditions, said: "There were too many Russians."

Nazis Using New Jet Planes on Eastern Front

LONDON, April 3 [Reuters]—The Germans on the east front have brought into battle new types of jet propelled Messerschmitt 163s and Messerschmitt 260s in an effort to achieve air superiority over various sectors of the front, Col. Denissov, air observer of the soviet news agency, said today.

GEN. ROSE KILLED BY NAZI CAPTORS NEAR PADERBORN

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]
(Picture on back page)

WITH THE 3D ARMORED DIVISION OUTSIDE PADERBORN, Germany, March 31 [Delayed]—How Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose was killed yesterday as he tried to surrender his pistol to his German captors was told today by the general's senior aide, Maj. Robert Bellinger of White Plains, N. Y.

Bellinger was one of the officers and men who escaped from the Nazi tank ambush after Rose was shot as he lowered his hands to lift his shoulder holster over his head.

"We were with a column which had just cleared a wood six kilometers [3¾ miles] southeast of Paderborn," Bellinger said. "Enemy tank fire cut the column at a road junction and we whipped our bantam west down another road. Others in our party were in an armored car and a bantam behind us.

Try to Elude Foe

"At a bend in the road we ran into some more tanks. Our driver turned off quickly across a field and into the wood and there we ran head on into a Tiger tank."

Obviously outgunned, Rose and his party stepped out of their vehicles with their hands raised, but Bellinger said the Germans apparently were green troops. The tank commander jabbered at Rose in German and the general replied several times, "I don't understand."

Then realizing that the Germans were telling the Yanks to drop their guns, Rose lowered his hands to lift his shoulder holster over his head. The German standing in the tank at once fired a burst from his Schmeisser pistol, killing Rose. In the confusion Bellinger and the others dropped into a ditch and succeeded in escaping.

Blow to Division

Rose, who was always forward with advance elements giving personal directions to his combat and task force commanders, had gone to the area to direct the 3d armored division's fight to capture an important road junction.

Rose's death was a blow to the men of this 1st army division. The army also has lost a great leader and a superb armored tactician.

Well over 6 feet tall, with shoulders and hips of a boxer, Rose was an imposing figure on any battlefield as he strode about ignoring shell fire and giving his men confidence by his own disregard of constant danger. With closely cropped iron grey hair and a quick, flashing smile, Rose, to all who knew him, was a story book picture of a general.

Awarded Silver Star

Gen. Rose won his first silver star in the Kasserine, Tunisia, battle. Since then he has added two clusters. He also wore the bronze star for Cologne, the French legion of honor and the croix de guerre with palm for his division's sweep across France.

After Tunisia, he took over combat command A of the 2d armored. He led them across Sicily in the dash to Palermo which split the island in what was then a record armored advance until his 3d division made history last Thursday by a fighting march of more than 100 miles.

He landed in Normandy with the 2d armored which spearheaded the 1st army break-thru at St. Lo. When command of the 3d armored was shaken up during that drive, Rose took over. Since then his armor was the first in Belgium, the first into Germany, first thru the Siegfried line and the first into Cologne, and he was chosen to spearhead the break-thru from the Rhine.

I last saw the 45 year old general yesterday morning. We were waiting at Nieder-Marsburg, our farthest advance north, to start off again.

Rose in his bantam with Maj. Bellinger wheeled out of the driveway. He gave us a wide grin and his right hand went up to return the salutes of soldiers. A lieutenant colonel standing beside me remarked:

"Well, there goes the division point."

The general's wife, 4 year old son, mother and father, Rabbi Samuel Rose, live in Denver.

Joseph Gyser (left) and Harry Schofield, guards, examine end of tunnel thru which 12 convicts escaped from Eastern Pennsylvania penitentiary at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 3 (AP)—Six of 12 convicts, who escaped early today from Eastern penitentiary thru a 97 foot tunnel, still were at large tonight. Horace Bowers, serving a life term for murder, one of the six recaptured by city police, was shot four times by a patrolman after the convict lunged at him with a homemade knife.

The men crawled into the tunnel during the breakfast hour and emerged outside the prison wall under a wall-top guard tower. Two of them stole an automobile from a war worker. Four overpowered a milk truck driver and led police thru Fairmount park until the truck swerved into the police car and the quartet was apprehended.

Officers said it took six months to dig the tunnel. The inside opening was hidden behind a wooden panel in the cell which had been painted gray to resemble plaster covering the stone wall.

MANDL, ARMS MAGNATE, HELD BY ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 3 (AP)—Fritz Mandl, former Austrian arms magnate regarded in some quarters as an "advance man" for the Nazis in Argentina, was held incommunicado today while the Argentina government prepared to take over his metal and plastics manufacturing company.

Fritz Mandl

Mandl, arrested last night on unspecified charges, was blacklisted several months ago by American and British authorities. He frequently declared he was estranged from Nazi party officials, but it was suspected that part of the funds he transferred here when he came to Argentina in 1937 might have come from the Nazis.

Mandl's personal fortune was estimated to be about $60,000,000. He invested in a wide variety of Argentine enterprises after he settled here permanently in 1938 following his divorce from Hedy Lamarr, screen actress, and his second marriage to an Austrian born resident of Buenos Aires.

END NOT FAR OFF, IS EISENHOWER WORD TO REICH

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower, declaring "the end is not far off," broadcast an appeal to town dwellers in western Germany today to stop working, and at the same time the 12th army group broadcast a warning to trapped German forces in the Ruhr to surrender or be wiped out. The army group, over the Luxemburg radio, told encircled enemy troops estimated at 110,000 that "there is no hope for you."

"You must know that this is no longer war," the message said. ". . . Further fighting would be unsoldierlike. Honest soldiers do not resort to murder and suicide. Follow the orders of surrender issued by Gen. Eisenhower. Those who follow his orders will live. Others will not."

Eisenhower's message exhorted western Germany townsfolk to cease work, take refuge, keep clear of factories, highways, and railroads, shun enlistment in the volkssturm, and obey American military government units when they arrive.

AID TO FRANCE MAMMOTH, IKE SHOWS IN REPLY

Complaint Stirs Report Filling 47 Pages

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 3—French complaints that allied promises of supplies have not been kept drew a sharp rejoinder from supreme headquarters today in the form of a 47 page document, pointing out just what had been done, especially by the United States, to help this country. The document reminds the French they are completely freed and that "all French faces now face east—beyond the Rhine."

The wreckage suffered by France, says the army document, was "the price of liberation and of becoming a going concern once more."

It is disclosed in the army reply to the French, made public today, that the United States trained and equipped and is entirely maintaining the whole French 1st army, of eight divisions, and that in addition the United States shipped 313,000 tons of food supplies to France between Nov. 1 and Feb. 1, exclusive of thousands of tons of coal for railways and public utilities. This latter figure was 65,000 tons, more than had been estimated as possible.

Much of Aid Not Revealed

Much was being done for France during recent months that could not be made public.

In the report the French are reminded that while concentrating everything on winning the war, American army authorities nevertheless found ways to allot large amounts of material and labor to French civilians.

Aid to France falls under three programs:

1. Civil affairs, which include aid planned by the military, and tonnage shipped in by relief agencies such as the Red Cross and the Quakers.

2. The Jean Monnet program, which involves a lend-lease accord negotiated in Washington.

3. The United States army production program, which involves bringing in raw materials to revive French factories capable of manufacturing for allied military needs.

The army points out that the program of delivery was never a promise or a covenant, but always a question of what the allies could cut from battle needs to divert to the French population.

Tribute Paid French Army

Tribute is paid in the document to the French army's accomplishments, but it is pointed out that the United States diverts 240,000 ship tons of supplies monthly to maintain it, and that it has modern American weapons, American clothing, and American vehicles.

Here are some of the other things which the supreme headquarters document lists that the United States has done for France:

1. Trained and equipped the French air force.

2. Repaired and converted more than 20 units of the French navy.

3. Shipped 313,000 tons of food to France during a three months' period up to Feb. 1; diverted airplanes from military operations to fly 2,600 tons of food to Paris, besides lending trucks for food transport. The army on the continent imports all but 2 per cent of its food.

130 Tons of Supplies

4. Shipped 130 tons of medical supplies to the French up to February.

5. Rehabilitated French ports and turned them at least partially back to the French.

300 SUPER FORTS BLAST 3 CITIES IN TOKYO AREA

GUAM, April 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Three hundred or more Super Fortresses today roared thru thick clouds over Japan's home island of Honshu in a low level, three way demolition raid. It was the first time three separate targets were lashed on the same large scale raid. The planes hit Shizuoka, Tachikawa and Koizumi.

Shizuoka is 85 miles south of Tokyo, Tachikawa is 20 miles west, and Koizumi is 20 miles north.

Because of bad weather, bombing was done almost entirely by instrument. Objectives were obscured by heavy undercast. Exact targets were not specified.

Tokyo radio said fires were set in the Tokyo-Yokohama area and in sections north of Tokyo by the Super Forts.

CANADA TO SEND A NAVAL FORCE INTO THE PACIFIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 3.—Canada will send two cruisers, two aircraft carriers, and a number of destroyers and frigates to fight in the Pacific war, Navy Minister Angus L. MacDonald told the house of commons tonight.

He disclosed that one cruiser, the Uganda, is operating in the Pacific. He said she soon will be joined by another, the Ontario. Sending of the aircraft carriers is dependent upon their acquisition, for which negotiations are now proceeding.

"I am not able to state publicly the exact number of ships and men involved," MacDonald said, "but the Canadian naval unit in the Pacific, while it will not compare in size or strength with the British naval force, or the magnificent American Pacific fleet, will be a good deal more than a token force, and will worthily represent Canada in the Pacific war."

Strike Against Hanging 7 Shuts 40 Bombay Mills

BOMBAY, India, April 3 (AP)—A day long hartal (protest strike) against the scheduled hanging of seven men stopped the operations of at least 40 mills and other routine activities in the Bombay area today. The seven men were involved in the 1942 Chimur and Ashti terrorist assassinations at the time Mohandas K. Gandhi was imprisoned.

YANKS MOVE SO FAST OKINAWA'S FRONT IS FAR OFF

BY THOMAS MORROW
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. MARINES ON OKINAWA ISLAND, April 2 [Delayed]—[Via Navy Radio]—The road we took today to find the Americans' front line ran thru the village of Hagushi, which contained a handful of homes and business houses. All were one story, with sleeping mats in the one-room interiors and tile roofs on wood side walls.

That is, all the houses save one, a well built and pleasant appearing brick building surrounded by an ostentatious brick wall. Apparently some high official had lived there. One building had a Japanese version of a juke box inside and looked like the corner tavern.

Farms Well Tended

Beyond the village, the winding road swept up and down hills and past well tended farms. In plots 100 by 200 feet, wheat, sugar cane, radishes, and cabbages were growing. After some travel with Pvt. Leo M. Miloos of St. Louis, Mo., we came upon marines who seemed a little bored.

"Where's the front lines?" we asked. The Yanks are moving so rapidly it is difficult to catch up with them.

Lt. William J. Bricker, 40 Warwick av., Winnetka, said they met virtually no opposition during their trip thru the country. He said he'd like his mother to know he spent a quiet Easter Sunday.

They saw six Japanese walk into the midst of troops, but couldn't shoot for feat of killing the marines. The Japs disappeared before the Yanks could stop them.

Jap Women Killed.

Pvt. George Edward Schisle of Smithshire, Ill., said he had seen one Japanese soldier and six civilian women surrender. On the road outside Hagushi, a dead Japanese woman lay on the road. She had rushed at the troops, firing a rifle. She killed one man and was killed herself.

Pvt. John Peter Roe, 2007 Bennett av., Evanston, was resting comfortably in a headquarters. His work, so dangerous and hush-hush that he can hardly let himself know about it, was done for the operation.

Maj. H. H. Waloe, 3852 N. Cicero av., Chicago, air officer, growled at the marines who had been telling him how tough the operation was going to be. He held he had been misled and fetched along on a picnic.

All over the island, goats, large and small, wobble about, apparently shell shocked. A pair of horses also walk sadly about.

CENTRAL BURMA BATTLE ENDED; JAPS IN FLIGHT

CALCUTTA, India, April 3 (AP)—The battle of central Burma was virtually finished today with the Japanese dead or in disorganized flight. The pear shaped battle ground formed by the two railway lines branching north from Thazi and enclosed by a bend in the Irrawaddy river now is simply a hunting ground for the British seeking out remnants of the Japanese, estimated a month ago to be 30,000 strong.

British tank columns had a field day on the Mandalay plain. The combined United States and British air forces swept the sky clear of the enemy.

Burst of Flares Lights Up Jap Air Attacks on Invasion Ships

BY HAROLD SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH A U. S. ARMY INFANTRY DIVISION ON OKINAWA ISLAND, April 3—This division which swept across Okinawa Island yesterday was moving steadily forward today to extend the trans-island corridor to the full width of the 10th army's front. It was advancing against incredibly light challenge. The Japs have withdrawn to the north and the south.

In doing so, they abandoned pill boxes and other positions near the east shore which have been described as the most formidable this veteran division has ever encountered. Yet each was manned by an inadequate force which was annihilated with little difficulty by our hard driving doughboys.

Jap Attack U. S. Ships.

Elaborate precautions were taken against a possible enemy counter attack last night, but none developed. There were a few small scale air attacks. Most of them were on shipping lying off the landing beach to the west. Apparently the attacks were of little consequence, for our battleships continued pounding shore targets thruout the night.

In one attack early this morning, the Japs dropped a cluster of 15 dazzling flares over the middle of the anchorage. Then their planes came in low, judging from the angle of our anti-aircraft tracers. After several minutes, the solid white smoke screen which shrouded the ships completely was lighted by an explosion that sent up a great black smoke column, but whether it came from a bombed ship or the Jap planes we could not tell from this distance inland.

Shell Jap Positions

Thruout the night, our artillery spoke, sending tons of shells into Jap positions just outside our perimeter. Now and then machine gun and rifle fire broke out along various parts of our front, telling of the vigilance of our boys against enemy counter-action.

Off to the right and slightly ahead, machine guns sputtered spasmodically. The hillsides were tortured by blasts from shells that whistled overhead from our light artillery pieces.

Down the slope and somewhat to our rear a Jap machine gun opened up suddenly. We took cover and watched our troops circle warily toward the source of the firing. There were some muffled explosions and then, from the machine gun nest, silence.

Back a little way I had stopped to talk with members of a tank battalion. Two medium tanks stood disabled beside enemy mine fields the engineers were taping off. One crew nearly had its vehicle back in action. The commander, Sgt. Clark Bales of Bonilla, S. D., related what had happened.

Blast Stuns Tankmen

"We were advancing with the infantry just before sundown last night," he said. "Then there was a hell of a noise and my engine stopped. We were all stunned for a few minutes, but we got out the top hatch and found a big land mine had blown one track off. We've about got old Around the World [the tank] back in the racket."

The other tank also hit a mine when it veered to cover the one already hit. Tho all tankmen were stunned, no one was injured by the blast. Among the crew members were Gunner Pvt. Henry H. Krzyzanowski of Milwaukee, Wis., and Pfc. William E. Rannio of Maple, Wis., assistant driver.

Pfc. Tom Fitzpatrick of 2029 Grenshaw st., Chicago, of the combat engineers, said his outfit caught some mortar fire soon after landing and, just before dark, a Jap plane dropped a 500 pounder near by—but it failed to explode.

U-Boat's British Skipper Honored for Sinking Jap

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—Lt. Comdr. Peter Marriott, the British commander of a captured German submarine, has been awarded the distinguished service cross for sinking a Japanese vessel inside an enemy harbor, it was disclosed tonight. The submarine, now H. M. S. Graph, was captured intact Sept. 8, 1941. The vessel has sunk at least one German U-boat and damaged several others.

186TH CARNEGIE STRIKE SLOWS UP GARY WAR STEEL

Pickling Line Workers Repeat Slowdown

The 186th strike called since the attack on Pearl Harbor at Chicago 186 area plants of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation—strikes which have caused the loss of thousands of tons of sheet steel needed for the production of vital war materials—was reported yesterday at the Gary sheet and tin mill.

Figures released by the company revealed that 253,300 man hours had been lost during 1943 and 1944 as a result of strikes at the company's four Chicago area plants, and that 204,200 tons of steel had not been produced because of the walkouts. The company was unable to estimate the loss of man hours and production due to strikes during 1942.

March Troubles Repeated

Yesterday's strike, a slowdown on the hot pickling lines, was a repetition of the labor trouble that plagued the plant for 11 days, beginning March 11, when the operators on the lines refused to produce 200 feet of processed steel per minute as they were required to do under a new schedule set by the company.

The workers agreed on March 22 to return to work and "give the new schedule a fair trial," which was what the company said it had wanted them to do.

Three Workers Disciplined.

After repeated warnings to the United Steelworkers' union [CIO], of which a large portion of the company's employes are members, that disciplinary action again would be taken because workers on the pickling lines were "not producing as they had promised," the company gave three speed operators disciplinary layoffs yesterday and sent them from the plant. This caused three pickling lines to be shut down on the first and second shifts. Twenty-three other workers were sent from the plant because there was no work for them to do after the others had been laid off.

Those disciplined on the day shift with four day layoffs are Albert Dorulla, 39, of 35th st. and Liverpool av., East Gary, Ind., and Cecil Miller, 42, of 408 Adams st., Gary. The operator on the night shift who was laid off for two days is John Zakzeuski, 40, of 1518 Broadway, Gary.

Major Disturbances Listed

Among the 186 strikes at the Carnegie plants—the Gary steel works and coke plant, the Gary sheet and tin mill, and the South Chicago works at 3429 E. 89th st.—were the following:

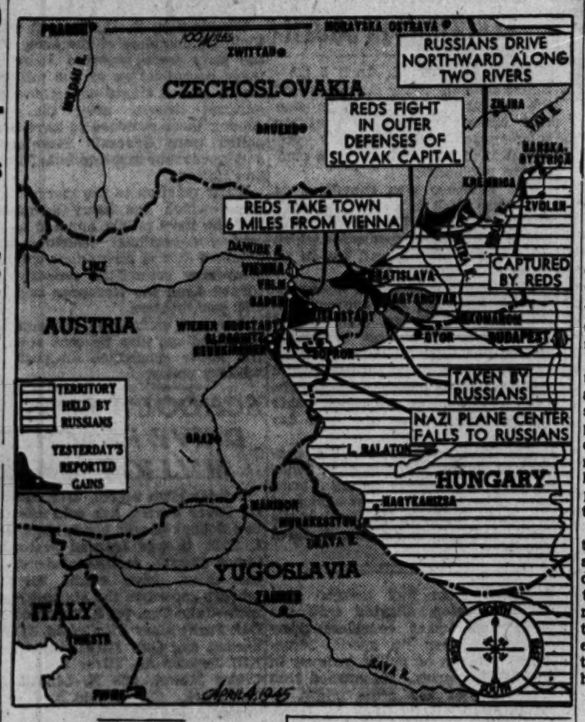
Jan. 29, 1942. A slowdown by 80 reckoners in the sheet and tin mill, who protested that they couldn't work as fast as formerly because they were required to handle 135 pound bundles of tin plate instead of 105 pound bundles. They demanded an increase in their wages. This slowdown caused 1,700 other employes to be deprived of work before the strike was settled seven days later.

May 25, 1943. A nine day strike which tied up open hearth furnace No. 8 at the Gary works was settled. The operators had refused to operate this "extra" furnace, which had been installed to produce added steel for the war program, unless they received extra compensation. Over 3,000 tons of steel was lost during the strike.

Oct. 9, 1944. In the Gary works 226 coke plant employes engaged in a "mystery" strike which ultimately threw 4,150 other employes out of work. Company said the reason for the strike was never learned, altho 18,450 tons of coke, steel, and iron were lost during the strike.

Nov. 20-22, 1944. Thirty-nine cranemen refused to work because the temperature of their crane cabs was "too hot." This threw 3,608 other Gary works employes out of work, and 64,000 tons of coke, blast furnace iron, open hearth ingots, and toll mill products were lost for the production of war materials.

Russians Six Miles from Vienna



REDS CAPTURE PLANE CENTER OUTSIDE VIENNA

Wiener Neustadt, 22 Miles Away, Falls

LONDON, April 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Tank riding Russian infantrymen captured the great Messerschmitt plane center of Wiener Neustadt south of Vienna yesterday and then broke 17 miles thru enemy defenses, slashing within six miles of the imperiled Austrian capital.

The soviet surge carried Marshal Tolbukhin's 3d Ukrainian army into the administrative district of Greater Vienna.

Tolbukhin's troops severed the main Vienna-Venice railroad and highway to the Italian front, and simultaneously, a second soviet army thrashed toward the city from the east. Moscow revealed that Marshal Malinovsky's 2d Ukrainian army was within 11 miles of a juncture with Tolbukhin as the two groups squeezed the Nazi defenders of the Bratislava gap.

Bratislava Periled

Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, itself was imperiled as Malinovsky's army hurled a 20 mile siege arc around the city and outflanked it on the southwest in a two day advance of 20 miles along the south bank of the Danube. Bratislava's south bank communications with Vienna were cut, and Moscow's midnight bulletin announced that suburban Prjevoz, three-quarters of a mile from the Slovak capital, had been captured.

"Vienna now is in the fighting zone," the Nazi Transocean agency said as SS [elite guard] troops under Col. Gen. Sepp Dietrich, former chief of Hitler's bodyguard, forcibly mobilized the Viennese to the barricades.

Meanwhile, Moscow announced that Malinovsky's army had captured Kremnica, 16 miles west of Banska Bystrica in central Slovakia as the 2d Ukrainians extended their active front to 128 miles, driving into the rugged Carpathians.

Capture 75,150 in 3 Days

As soviet forces drove within artillery range of Vienna, Moscow announced that the 2d and 3d Ukrainian armies had captured 23,000 prisoners and boosted to 75,150 the number taken in Austria, Hungary, and Slovakia in three days.

Wiener Neustadt, with its huge assembly plants and nearby airdromes, fell in a two day advance of eight miles. The city was highly fortified, the Germans fighting from every house and factory, but it fell swiftly to Tolbukhin's shock troops. It lies 22 miles south of Vienna and had a pre-war population of 37,000.

Capitalizing on a crossing of the Leitha river, Tolbukhin's forces then dashed toward Vienna, sweeping thru a web of highways and railroads, each a defense line, and captured Velm, only six miles south of the metropolitan limits and within the boundaries of Vienna set by the Nazi party.

By-Pass Resort Town

The surge by-passed the sulphur spa of Baden, 10 miles south of Vienna, and the Russians captured Traiskirchen, two miles northeast of that town. While these forces swept up the Leitha river valley, other forces broke across the 1,575 foot Leitha mountains, taking industrial Ebenfurth, seven miles northwest of Wiener Neustadt.

In the far north, Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian army was mopping up enemy resistance east of captured Danzig.

1,400 U. S. PLANES BLAST SHIPPING AT KIEL NAVAL BASE

LONDON, April 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—United States Flying Fortresses bombed three submarine and shipbuilding yards at Kiel, Germany, yesterday while R. A. F. heavy bombers hit enemy barracks and troop concentrations at Nordhausen, 55 miles east of Kassel on the direct route to Berlin. The air offensive continued into the night, with R. A. F. planes over Berlin and Magdeburg.

The American heavy bombers, 750 strong and accompanied by 650 Mustang fighters, found the Kiel harbor full of ships, but clouds prevented all but occasional glimpses of the target area.

The 8th air force's intensive bombardment of Nazi naval bases began Friday with attacks on Wilhelmshaven, Bremen, and Hamburg by the year's record force of 1,400 heavy bombers. Those attacks, it was announced today, sank two submarines and a large motor ship, and set fire to the 6,000 ton light cruiser Koln and five other vessels.

CIO UNION BARS SENIORITY RIGHT FOR WAR VETS

Detroit, Mich., April 3 [Special]—The United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO] today rejected a company proposal to give equal work opportunity to veterans of this war and civilians employed in Chrysler plants, the corporation announced.

R. W. Conder, director of labor relations for the corporation, said after a meeting with union representatives, that the company proposed that the union "amend its contract with regard to seniority rights for veterans and civilians hired during the war in order to protect the jobs and job opportunities for both groups."

"The union program gives no protection to veterans who have not already been hired or who have not completed six months service with the company," Conder said. This means that a veteran cannot have the opportunity for a job unless all employes on the seniority list of the company have already been hired.

Acts as Penalty

"If the company should accept the union's proposal, it would mean the longer a veteran served in the war the less chance he would have of securing work with the Chrysler corporation when the war is over."

Conder said the company had proposed that veterans who have served in the armed forces since Pearl Harbor be given equal seniority standing with the civilian who has been in the plant.

"Thus each group of workers," Conder said, "will have equal work opportunities and protection in so far as war service is concerned.

"The union proposes to protect all civilians hired during the war insofar as seniority is concerned, but is only willing to protect veterans who have been hired and have worked for the company for at least six months."

Chicagoans Observers

Several representatives of the Dodge-Chicago plant attended today's meeting as observers and announced they would report back to a meeting of their veterans group Thursday night.

The observers represented veterans employed at the Dodge-Chicago plant. The veterans last week said ex-service men were being discharged because they did not have enough seniority to retain their jobs, "while thousands of draft dodgers, who never did a lick of work in their lives, nor now, were holding jobs in the plant."

Today's meeting broke up without any arrangements being made for further meetings on the seniority issue, altho both the company and union reserved the right to call a meeting for further discussion.

GERMANS KNOW CAUSE IS DEAD, SAYS EX-CAPTIVE

Desperate Nazis Paint Lurid Propaganda

[Godfrey H. P. Anderson, an Associated Press war correspondent, was freed by allied forces last week, ending more than three years in axis hands since his capture in North Africa.]

BY GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS, April 3 (AP)—The once proud herrenvolk [master race] now make up the most war weary nation in the world.

Judging from what I was able to see during my last days of captivity, there is hardly a German left who believes the war can last more than a few weeks. Only the merest handful of party fanatics believe it possible to snatch any kind of compromise peace.

"We know it is all hopeless now," said one soldier wounded five times on the eastern front, "but Himmler just won't let us give in. I lost my home in Saarbruecken thru bombing and my wife is in occupied territory. Now they have taken my last boy, aged 16, for a parachute unit and that is a suicide job. It's a crying scandal they still make us fight when everything is lost and we have no equipment."

This growing attitude of demoralization, fast spreading to troops from the civilian population, is driving Nazi leaders to new, desperate lengths in their propoganda.

Yanks Are "Gangsters"

Every radio and every newspaper represent the Russians as ravening beasts burning their way thru every village, raping women and dragging hundreds of thousands away to slavery in Siberia.

Americans are portrayed as bloodthirsty gangsters, wantonly trying to destroy German culture and blot its traces from European civilization. The British are attacked more in sorrow than anger, as a European nation which betrayed the cause of a united Europe by ignoring the Fuehrer's generous offers and fighting on the wrong side.

At the same time, every effort is made to convince the Germans there are people even worse off than themselves. In France, Belgium, Italy, the populations are said to be living under ruthless allied military oppression and near the border line of starvation.

Altho always doubtful of such assertions, I could not but be amazed at the real conditions I saw in southern Holland and Belgium. The people are not only well-dressed but apparently well-fed and on the friendliest terms with allied troops.

For the first time in years, I saw goods in shop windows and people freely buying and selling, even if the prices are high.

Nothing to Buy in Reich

In Germany there is virtually nothing to buy.

All you see in the stores is a dusty cardboard advertisment for some product no longer available. A butcher's window contains a couple of plants and a sign "No Meat." A baker has only a dummy loaf on display. The weekly meat ration is so minute, it is hardly worth eating.

The bread ration for civilians—which also was given to prisoners of war—was about 120 grams daily or enough for five or six slices. It is black bread with a large proportion of potato flour but quite good. On it one spreads margarine made from some coal tar by-product and jam made from grapeskins with saccharine sweetening.

The rest of the Germans' war time diet consists mainly of potatoes. The ration of 4,500 grams [about 10 pounds] weekly when I first arrived in Germany [in September, 1943] was cut twice, to 3,500 grams [seven and one-half pounds] and then to 3,000 grams [about six pounds] per week.

Other delicacies include an article called dried turnips which really was a waste product from sugar beet production; dried vegetables made up largely of peapods; dried millet and barley. Even the salt ration was cut in January, owing to transport trouble. German beverages are ersatz coffee reputed to be made from acorns, mint tea and other odd brews made from various berries which organized groups of school children collect from the countryside.

No Eggs in Three Years

For three and one-half years I never saw an egg or tasted fresh fish. When the Red Cross food parcels failed to arrive, owing to the bombing of the railways, the prisoners' mess at Hadamar was reduced to one full meal daily.

A notice was posted that "officers desiring to collect potato peelings may do so from the kitchen"—and many availed themselves of this opportunity.

The German guards, who were on the rations of depot troops, also suffered periodical shortages. At one time several fell asleep on duty. When brought before the commandant they complained the food was insufficient and promptly were punished with solitary confinement.

The local newspaper published a warning to children not to play games with horse chestnuts which were described as valuable foodstuff.

It is the same with everything else in Germany. Our camp canteen at the end couldn't get supplies even of such thing as toothpaste, reground razor blades or matches.

THE QUESTION

What amusing or unusual discovery did you make when answering a burglar alarm signal?

WHERE ASKED

THE ANSWERS

Sgt. J. A. Peterson, 1015 Hannah av., Forest Park—One Sunday morning I responded to an alarm. Two men had picked a lock and locked the door behind them. When I arrived they were busy piling up ladies' wearing apparel. They said they owned the building and invited me in to watch. They were burglars.

S. F. Munzal, 1629 N. Bell av.—A tavern, two minutes away from headquarters, gave an alarm. It was 5 o'clock in the morning. I dashed over to the tavern and found the door shut but not locked. Upon entering I found a slightly intoxicated man sitting at the bar waiting for an eye opener. He was alone in the place.

Ernst Boehlke, 2320 W. 35th pl.—"Hello, what do you want?" questioned a voice when we entered a building. I drew my revolver and looked the place over but could find no one. When I heard the question a second time I turned, ready to shoot. I listened for the voice and discovered it was coming from a parrot's cage.

JUSTICE BLACK IS HONORED BY SOUTHERN GROUP

Washington, D. C., April 3 [Special]—Supreme Court Justice Black tonight was tendered the "Thomas Jefferson award" of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare at a testimonial dinner for him.

Fred M. Vinson, the new war mobilizer, described him in an address as "a preeminent tribune of the common man," adding that "his own struggle against adversity, his rise to a position of eminence, was to him but a vindication of his faith in the capacities of the common man."

The organization which donated the award was formed in the justice's home state of Alabama in 1938. It was identified by Earl Browder, Communist party leader, as one of his party's "transmission belts," and James W. Ford, candidate for Vice President, claimed the Communist party laid the foundation for the movement.

ARMY TO KEEP VETS IN EUROPE FOR SCHOOLING

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 3—A gigantic educational program, prepared at the direction of the army high command, calls for months of enforced schooling for American fighting men in Europe before they are returned to their homes, it was learned tonight by THE TRIBUNE.

The plan calls for 20 week periods of schooling for fighters—as they await transportation home or to Japan—at temporary universities, high schools, and grade schools to be set up in various European countries. These are to occupy soldier minds for months until the fighters can get home or to other theaters.

The individual soldier is to have no choice about the schooling. He will be ordered to school as he was ordered to fight. Refusal to study or deliberate lack of application will result in disciplinary action not as severe but no less certain than that imposed for desertion or neglect of duty in action.

Long Delay Expected.

The program was undertaken by the army because the high command recognized that, even for soldiers earmarked for discharge on victory, months will be required before they can be returned to their families. Shipping is the bottleneck in returning or transferring soldiers to other fronts.

After victory in Europe the first consideration will be to bring victory in Japan as rapidly as possible, and the army will concentrate on transferring men to the Pacific. Even so, it will take months before a sufficient number of troops can be transferred to the Philippines and then on to Japanese fronts.

In the meantime, soldiers who are to be returned home because of length of service in the army, service in action, and dependency, must wait until there are ships to carry them.

Morale Considered Problem.

The army recognizes the problem of maintaining the morale of the waiting troops as its gratest after victory is won in Europe. The educational program has been adopted as the best solution of the problem to date.

In preparation for the program, the war department has a wide variety of scholars and educators preparing curricula for the various courses to be offered. Teachers would be gathered from qualified men in the army and from civilians to be sent from this country.

Preparation also has included purchases by contract of almost the entire output of sporting goods by the services of supply under Gen. Somervell. Competitive sports among the various schools to be established are regarded as essential to the morale boosting educational program.

Further Study Considered

Planning is proceeding on the estimate that 20 week schooling periods will carry the army over the shipping hump. If it is found that this will not give enough time, men will be graduated from one school to another until their homeward bound ship is made ready for them.

There are more than 3½ million men in Europe. These are to be divided into four classes under the service-in-army and service-in-combat yardsticks to be established after victory in Europe.

The first class will consist of men to be sent home and demobilized. In this group will be the men who have been longest in the army and longest overseas in combat.

The second class will consist of men who are to be shipped to the Pacific by way of the United States and who will get furloughs here before they go against the Japanese.

Some Shifts Immediate

The third class will consist of men who are to be sent directly to the Pacific.

The fourth class will be made up of occupation troops. These will hold the area of Germany assigned to the United States and will mop up the last shreds of Nazi resistance.

It is estimated in military circles that it will be from one to three years before the last of these troops will return home.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN STATE DOWN TO 3-10 OF 1 PCT.

Illinois' unemployment benefit payments have been reduced under the stress of war employment "almost to the irreducible minimum," Robert L. Gordon, acting director of labor, announced yesterday in reporting that the number of workers receiving unemployment payment had averaged 10,000 for the two years ending April 1, 1945.

Gordon reported 81,071 persons received payments totaling $8,941,895 during the year ending March 31. Few workers, he said, were paid more than two unemployment checks, the average time of each worker on the state unemployment roll being three weeks.

Gordon said this weekly unemployment average represents about 3/10ths of 1 per cent of the 3 million workers covered by the Illinois unemployment law. Of those receiving unemployment payments, approximately 55 per cent live in Chicago and Cook county and 45 per cent downstate.

WLB ORDERS 11 WARD WORKERS TO BE REHIRED

The war labor board in Washington, D. C., yesterday ordered the reinstatement of 11 employes who had been discharged from the Montgomery Ward & Co. retail store in Chicago and ordered back pay allowances for eight of them. The Ward store is now being operated by the war department. The claims of 17 other employes were disallowed. The grievances were referred to the WLB by the company and the United Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employes union [CIO].

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 3—The navy's proposal for a communications monopoly was dealt a blow today when the state department, in a surprise move, opposed post-war consolidation of American overseas communications into one system and recommended to a senate subcommittee that private companies operate competitively with some government regulation.

W. L. Clayton

The state department further recommended that the press be excluded from any merged systems which might be attempted. It said a monopoly might jeopardize freedom of the press.

"No Showing" for Merger

W. L. Clayton, assistant secretary of state, testified at a hearing of a senate subcommittee considering post-war international communications plans and policies that in the view of the state department a complete merger into one company of United States communications systems abroad is "inadvisable."

Clayton said the state department "is strongly of the opinion" that as yet no showing has been made that merger among competing companies is the best means of protecting national security and promoting public welfare. He asserted the state department believes the best progress in communications can be made by regulated competition, and that regulation and competition "are both indispensable and complement each other."

"Monopolies have the power to withhold improvements in service," Clayton said. "The state department profoundly doubts whether the national interest would be best served by an international telecommunication monopoly."

Clayton warned of the difficulties which would be encountered in attempting to consolidate all private overseas communications and raised the question of how a monopoly would be "unscrambled" should it prove unsatisfactory. He also asserted that it is doubtful if merger is necessary to make the most efficient use of relatively scarce aerial communications frequencies.

Press Wireless Record Cited

Clayton testified that in the problems of dealing with foreign interests, the solution lies in unified control of policy at the government level instead of an end to competition. He said that better coördination of government policy on international communications should be the primary objective, rather than a monopolistic form of organization "that never has distinguished itself for encouraging initiative and enterprise."

Clayton asserted that the farthest the state department would consider going at present is merger within each type of communication services, thus retaining competition between the wire, radiotelegraphy, and radiotelephony groups. He said that the advisability of even such limited merger is questionable.

Recommending that the press be excluded from any merger that might develop, Clayton said the state department considers press communications "a special situation" because of public interest in dispatching news. He warned that "freedom of the press might be jeopardized" if facilities for transmitting news were in the hands of a monopoly, and added that the record of Press Wireless, Inc., indicates the advantages of leaving the press out of any merger.

Wheeler's Stand Strengthened

Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the subcommittee, agreed that the press should be excluded from any consideration. He asserted that Press Wireless, Inc., has done "a good job." The senator also said he was gratified that the state department had strengthened his views in opposition to a communications monopoly.

Both Wheeler and Sen. McFarland [D., Ariz.] during the hearing voiced criticism of the lack of a definite official communications policy. Wheeler reported that he had talked with state department representatives previously and also with Samuel Rosenman, special adviser to President Roosevelt, and had understood prior to today's disclosures by Clayton that the administration was in favor of complete merger. He pointed out that the army, navy, federal communications commission, and state department now have all made different recommendations to his subcommittee concerning the communications field.

Representatives of the army, navy, state department, and FCC will meet with the subcommittee in closed executive session tomorrow.

ELECTORAL REFORM GROUP CONTESTS 68 ELECTIONS IN SOUTH

Washington, D. C., April 3 (AP)—House officials today acknowledged the receipt of evidence in an election contest against 68 southern congressmen, but promptly predicted it would end up in a committee pigeonhole.

The evidence was submitted to the house clerk in a sealed package by the Southern Electoral Reform league, a private organization which seeks repeal of the poll tax in all states.

The league, which has headquarters at Roanoke, Va., contends all congressmen elected from states now requiring a poll tax were chosen illegally. It argues that the requirement is unconstitutional and deprives many citizens of a vote, thus resulting in disproportionate representation from the poll tax states.

The league announced the contest in January and sought twice to have congressmen testify at hearings. The legislators, on advice of Chairman Sumners [D., Tex.] of the house judiciary committee, declined to attend.

REPORT CHIEFS BACK ARMY-NAVY MERGER PLANS

Washington, D. C., April 3 (AP)—Field commanders of the army and the navy were reported today to favor consolidation of the military forces into a single department of national defense after the war. Among those reported to have been polled were Generals Eisenhower and MacArthur and Admirals Nimitz and Halsey.

Their reaction to the merger proposal—which the army advocated and the navy mildly opposed at recent congressional hearings—was obtained during discussions with an army-navy committee recently returned from the European and Pacific war theaters.

A report embodying the committee's findings may be sent soon to the house committee on post-war military policy.

SCHOOL'S BOND DRIVE REACHES MILLION MARK

Linden av., Oak Park; Sue Caron, 1327 Jackson av., River Forest, and Claire Moran, 838 N. Linden av., Oak Park. Bonds sold by Trinity students have purchased four ambulance planes and 112 jeeps among other items, Sister Clarine said.

COUNCIL VOTES 24 HOUR DRYUP AFTER V-E NEWS

Asking that the public restrict celebration of victory on the European battlefront to prayers of thanksgiving, the city council yesterday enacted an ordinance forbidding the sale of all kinds of liquor for 24 hours after the news of German defeat is announced.

Police Commissioner Allman and Sheriff Mulcahy arranged to detail special police to central business districts to arrest rioters who want to damage property. Mayor Kelly told the council. In the loop 700 extra policemen will be on duty, he said.

The preamble of the ordinance asked all war workers and others to remain on their jobs and that all schools and colleges remain open. The ordinance provided for fines ranging from $25 to $200 for violation of the no liquor provision.

The next council meeting was set for April 13, which will be the 12th anniversary of Mayor Kelly's assuming office.

BARAD'S WIDOW REOPENS QUIZ IN GALVIN CASE

She Names Labriola as Discussing Jewels

Investigation of the mysterious murder of Mrs. Lillian Galvin and her maid, Edna Sibilski, in the Galvins' Evanston home in 1942 was reopened last night on the basis of a statement by Mrs. Florence Jackson Barad, widow of Maurice Barad, a slain gangster, linking Paul Labriola to the crime.

Her statement also linked Labriola, who Mrs. Barad had previously charged slew her husband, and the slain Lawrence [Dago] Mangano to the hijacking of $15,000 worth of cigarets, a crime which had wide repercussions in the underground, including, police believe, the killing of Mangano by other gangsters.

Mrs. Barad's statement was made public as she went before the grand jury to tell her story.

Galvin Murder in Evanston

Mrs. Galvin, wife of Paul V. Galvin, millionaire radio manufacturer, and the maid were found shot to death Oct. 22, 1942, in the living room of the Galvin home at 3038 Normandy pl., Evanston. Robert Galvin, young son of the couple, found the bodies when he returned home about 6:30 p. m.; more than $2,000 in jewelry, including an 11.2 carat emerald cut diamond worth $17,500, was missing.

In her story to police and grand jury Barad's widow, who is 38, implicated either in the execution or planning of the Galvin killings and robbery: Labriola; Meyer Gordon, nationally notorious receiver of stolen gems; "English Eddie" Ross, slain April 25, 1943, in his hotel room at 444 St. James pl., and at least one other alleged Chicago receiver of stolen jewelry.

In parts of her statement, the authorities said they believed the widow was referring directly—probably without knowing it—to the huge emerald cut diamond and a valuable finger watch among the stolen Galvin jewels.

Sought for Barad Killing

Labriola has been sought since last Thursday when Mrs. Barad first named him and Martin [The Ox] Ochs as the killers of her husband. Ochs also is sought. Labriola for years has been known as the hoodlum son of the late Paul Labriola, a bailiff slain by gang guns in the political battles of the old "Bloody 19th" ward on the west side.

Mrs. Barad astounded police when, in the midst of her recital of details leading up to her husband's assassination, the killing of "English Eddie" Ross, well known jewel thief, and the shooting of Peter Gallichio, hoodlum, whose body was found draped over a north side picket fence April 25, 1944, she suddenly mentioned the Galvin shootings.

The widow was asked: "Did you hear any discussion by Labriola and W—— about the death [killing] of Ross by Labriola?"

"Not that I recall," she replied. "But my husband later told me—he was not my husband then—but he later told me that Ross had gone south with [stolen] my diamonds and he mentioned the Galvin jewelry.

"I don't know this to be a fact," the widow continued, "but I did hear a discussion about the Galvin case and I know Labriola was in the Galvin case also."

Q.—How deep was he in it? A.—I don't know.

Q.—What information did your husband have about the Galvin case? A.—I gathered that English Eddie [Ross] had gone south with some Galvin stuff—a big ring—as well as my ring. But was never able to learn anything more about that.

Jury Told of Conversation

She said she heard a conversation between Labriola and one W——, a notorious receiver of stolen jewelry. This conversation was in the kitchen of an apartment she then maintained on Stone st.

Q.—In this conversation in the kitchen, did you hear the Galvin killings mentioned? A.—No, but I did later. I did hear it when he was talking in the living room.

Q.—Was it Labriola talking in the living room? A.—Yes, about the Galvin killing—in the living room. I can't now repeat what was said, but it was all about the Galvin killing.

During her two hour session before the grand jury, the woman elaborated on this conversation, according to reports. She told of overhearing Labriola and H—W——, the Chicago stolen jewel receiver, talking.

The widow quoted Labriola as saying, "They never should have planned the Galvin killing when the maid was in the home."

Holdout by Fence Charged

"They then talked about the split of the proceeds [of the Galvin robbery and murders]," Mrs. Barad continued. "Labriola was kicking because Meyer Gordon was not giving them the right price on the jewelry. W—— said:

"'Let me handle it; I'll do much better by you.'"

"Then Labriola said, 'That rat Ross was holding out some of the stuff.'"

Both Labriola and Ross, as well as W——, the alleged Chicago jewel receiver, were arrested, held for varying times and questioned at the time the investigation of the Galvin murders was at its height.

It was established that Labriola was arrested in San Diego, Cal., on Oct. 21, 1942, the day before the Galvin murders.

Plane Possibility Considered

It was admitted it would have been difficult for Labriola to be in Chicago at the time of the Galvin killings, altho he was released in San Diego on the previous afternoon. State's Atty. Tuohy said, "He might have made it by plane." He asserted this possibility, as well as all others, will be investigated.

Mrs. Barad first learned about the $15,000 cigaret hijacking, she said, when Labriola and Mangano, whom she then knew only as "Pops," compelled her to rent a store on Ogden av., and then made her rent a truck with which to transfer the cigarets, which had been cached in the home of her husband's parents, to the store.

Woman's Life Threatened.

She said her husband was angry when he learned the cigarets had been taken to his parents' home, and told Labriola he would have to get them out of there. After the cigarets had been transferred to the store she had rented, she said, Mangano wanted to kill her for fear she might talk, but Labriola dissuaded him.

Mrs. Barad and several others are under indictment in connection with the cigaret robbery, and were to come up for trial next week. State's Atty. Tuohy said after yesterday's disclosures that the case will be postponed, and that a new indictment will be sought naming Labriola.

Mrs. Barad is to be taken before the Du Page county grand jury in Wheaton today. This is because Barad's body was found in Du Page county, and Labriola and Ochs will be tried for the murder there if they are captured.

Martin Gerber, the third attorney retained by Naster, told the court he entered the case only on the evening before and was not familiar with the facts.

Lt. Crawford, who is on special leave while the case is being heard, protested thru his attorney, John Boyle, that the leave extended only until April 16, and the case was continued until April 12.

10 MILLION SLUM FUND APPROVED BY BUDGET BODY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 3—The possibility that Chicago might get 10 million dollars from the state treasury for post-war slum clearance work was seen today as the legislature prepared to rush its roll calls on housing and traction bills.

The state budgetary commission, meeting with Gov. Green, voted to add a 10 million dollar housing item to the special post-war budget being prepared. As originally proposed, that amount would be equally divided between Chicago and any downstate cities wishing to utilize the pending legislation.

Sen. Peters [R., St. Joseph], budgetary commission chairman, said the decision was reached that if downstate cities don't attempt housing projects, the full 10 million can go to Chicago. In any event, Chicago will have to match the state appropriation on a dollar for dollar basis.

PISTOL AND SHELLS STOLEN

A PART-TIME J. P. HITS JACKPOT OF WOE AT THE ELKS

The Elks of Valparaiso, Ind., are vastly amused over the results of a raid on their club rooms Saturday in which seven slot machines worth $4,000 were carried away by Raymond Edgerly, Portage township justice of the peace.

At noon on the day of the raid Edgerly, who had issued the search warrant himself, parked his car in the alley behind the club and waited for a member to open the locked club door. During the hour and a half wait city policemen hung a ticket on his car for violating a city parking ordinance.

When the clubhouse door finally was opened Edgerly and two assistants dashed inside, seized the slot machines, loaded them into a trailer attached to his car, and drove north.

A Little Mystery Develops

Under Indiana law Edgerly is obligated to turn the machines over to Sheriff Harry L. Borg in the jail three blocks away. As yet Edgerly has failed to show up with the slot machines.

The reason for the Elks' amusement is a well confirmed report that some of the more adventurous club members trailed Edgerly's car, overtook it, and hijacked the machines. While the chase was going on, trustees of the lodge went to Porter county circuit court and filed a replevin action. As a result, Edgerly has been ordered to appear April 23 before Judge Walter M. Crisman to explain why he has not turned over the seized property to the sheriff.

Mike Shurr, president of the Elks club, said he could not state definitely that the club had recovered the machines.

Eager for Court Hearing

"I stayed in town after the raid," he said. "Some members might have taken a little auto trip, but I really don't know. It's possible the slot machines were recovered. At any rate we are looking forward to Edgerly's appearance in court."

Edgerly has not appeared at the police station to answer the auto parking violation charge, but police say they are not making any special effort to find him because the sheriff served Edgerly with the summons in the replevin action.

County Clerk Freeman Lane said Edgerly is employed by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation in Gary, and works part time at his justice of the peace job to which he was elected for a four year term in 1942.

JURORS UNDECIDED ON DEATH.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned an undecided verdict at the inquest into the death Monday of Mrs. Emma Feddern, 47, of 4819 N. Meade av., who was found dead on the sidewalk in front of Ravenswood hospital, where she had been a patient, apparently after a fall.

ILLINOIS INCREASES HOSPITAL WAGES TO OBTAIN MORE HELP

In an effort to meet the shortage of help at state hospitals for mental patients Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, announced yesterday that pay increases will be granted immediately at six institutions.

The new minimum wage rate will be $115 monthly at Dixon, Elgin, Chicago, and Manteno hospitals and $105 monthly at Kankakee and East Moline hospitals. The minimum for all hospitals formerly was $100. This rate will continue at Jacksonville, Lincoln, Alton, Anna, and Peoria hospitals.

Brandon explained that the higher rates are being applied in the areas where the man power shortage is most acute. He said employes of the hospitals where wages have not been increased have been invited to move to one of the others.

CAR STRIPPED OF TIRES.

James Borden, 5036 S. Wells st., told police yesterday that some one took four wheels and tires from his car parked in the rear of 5049 Princeton av.

ALLOCATE FUNDS FOR HUGE SPORTS PALACE AT U. OF I.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 3—The state budgetary commission today added $1,640,000 to the post-war funds allocated the University of Illinois. Sen. Peters [R., St. Joseph], chairman of the commission, said the increase would enable the university to build a mammoth health and physical education building to be used for state basketball tournaments and four badly needed laboratories as well.

The chemistry, dairy husbandry, animal husbandry, and mechanical engineering buildings had been previously stricken from the university's budget, which had totaled $14,669,000 for post-war building on the Champaign-Urbana and Chicago campuses.

"For the four laboratories they had asked 3 million more, but the university officials told us last week they could put up all the buildings with the $1,640,000," Peters said, explaining taht it is customary for town

The health and physical education building also known as a "sports palace," would cost $2,300,000 and has been supported by basketball fans demanding more tickets for tournaments.

The land acquisition program for the division of parks and memorials was increased from $1,000,000 to $1,135,000.

YOUNG MOTHER IS FOUND DEAD; CAUSE UNKNOWN

Coroner Orders Analysis of Organs in Death.

The body of Mrs. Mary Jane Stone, 22, attractive brunette housewife and mother, was found in her bedroom at 6421-A Greenview av. last night in a death mystery that led Coroner Brodie to order a chemical analysis of the organs.

Mrs. Stone's nude body was on a bed, and she had been dead five or six hours, it was determined, when her husband, Robert, came home at 6:30 p. m. In a crib in the same bedroom was the Stones' daughter, Karen, 8 months old, crying in hunger, but unharmed.

Apartment in Order

Stone, who is vice president of the National Research bureau at 415 N. Dearborn st., said his wife was well when he left for his office at 8:30 a. m. She then was in her pajamas, he said, and the breakfast dishes were on a table.

The dishes were on the table when Stone returned. The apartment was in order. Mrs. Stone's solitaire ring was on her finger, and on a table was her wrist watch. The windows of the second floor apartment, overlooking a court, were closed. Stone used his key at the front entrance. The rear door was double locked.

Stone summoned Dr. Ross Van Pelt, 4822 Lincoln av., the family physician, who notified Rogers Park police after a preliminary examination. Later Dr. Thomas Carter, coroner's physician, performed an autopsy.

No Sign of Violence

Dr. Carter reported there was no evidence of violence. He said Mrs. Stone had not been raped, contrary to an early report to police. He found no signs, he said, of any organic condition that could have caused death. He said a discoloration of the throat, upon which police had remarked, was a condition normally to be found with the advance of rigor mortis.

Stone told police it was possible his wife returned to bed after his departure. It was her custom, he explained, to sleep without night clothing. Neighbors said they had noticed no unusual happenings.

Capt. Michael Ahearn of Rogers Park station said it was "possible." Mrs. Stone died of natural causes. This, however, was before the autopsy failed to solve the mystery.

The Stones had been married two years. Stone is the son of Irving Stone, 2214 Highland av., secretary of the American Bandage corporation. Mrs. Stone was the daughter of George H. Leonard, 6382 N. Hermitage av.

VIRKUS REMAP BILL CALLED FAIR TO BOTH PARTIES

Striking back at criticism of the Virkus congressional reapportionment bill, the Better Government association yesterday termed the measure "a sincere attempt to redistrict the state so fairly that it may receive the support of reasonable members of both parties in the legislature."

Some opponents of the Virkus bill to re-divide the state's 26 congressional seats equally between Cook county and downstate have charged that it would gerrymander districts to the advantage of Republicans. Neither party can gain permanent advantage from gerrymandering, the B. G. A. declared.

"The basic fallacy of published criticisms of the Virkus bill lies in the assumption that a given voter is always a Republican or always a Democrat," the B. G. A. statement said. "But voters have a disconcerting habit of changing from one party to another." Figures then were cited to show how voters have put the parties into and out of office.

WORK OR FIGHT BILL BEATEN IN SENATE, 46-29

swer to their names. Senate leaders said they were surprised to have as many as 75 senators vote, because a number have not returned from their Easter holiday and others are away from Washington on committee business.

Link Byrnes to Defeat

The bill rejected by the senate today would have given the director of war mobilization and reconversion authority to [1] impose ceilings on the number of workers in any plant; [2] regulate hiring, rehiring, and acceptance of jobs by workers, and [3] freeze employes in any plant if such action is deemed necessary for war production. The bill provided a fine of $10,000 or one year in jail, or both, for workers and employes violating the director's ukases.

A public assertion by former War Mobilizer Byrnes, prior to his resignation yesterday, that job controls would be necessary to stave off postwar unemployment was held by Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.] to be the main reason for defeat of the bill. Johnson had proposed the compromise in a house-senate conference but voted against the measure today.

Another factor contributing to today's administration upset was a senate speech yesterday by Sen. Morse [R., Ore.], former member of the war labor board, who said the bill threatened post-war regimentation and dictatorship by burocratic fiat and warned that the vote on the bill was the "last chance" to save the nation from such a fate.

Touches a Sore Spot

Morse's warning, considered by many senators to be the strongest speech made against the bill during the senate debate, touched the administration in a sore spot, it was indicated in debate today. Sen. Hatch [D., N. M.] complained that Morse had "impugned the patriotism of administration leaders" and Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] chided Morse, who has supported the administration in other matters, for "leading the opposition against this bill."

After the vote today, Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] declared in an interview that defeat of the bill "was a great victory for the people."

"It indicates that at least the senate of the United States is definitely waking up to the dangers of regimentation," Wheeler said. "This is a good sign for the future."

Avoids "Dictatorship"

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] said: "The working man was the victor in this fight. The senate's action gives America a chance to remain a republic. We would have been on the road to dictatorship if the bill had passed."

The senate man power bill, which the house was asked to reconsider by the senate today, would authorize War Man Power Chairman McNutt to set employment ceilings and to regulate or prohibit the hiring of workers. Workers displaced by ceilings would be able to obtain jobs only thru the WMC. Penalties would be the same as those in the compromise bill.

The bill was passed by the senate after the house had approved a bill calling for the drafting of men between 18 and 45 who quit their war jobs and imposing other forms of compulsory labor. A house-senate conference was called to iron out differences between the two measures.

Two Bills Were Merged.

House conferees rejected the senate bill as "too mild" and senate conferees balked at the compulsory features of the house bill. The compromise was reached by throwing the two bills together, removing the draft feature of the house bill, adding the freeze clause, and giving the whole job to the war mobilizer—who also would control the machinery for appeals from his own directives.

The house passed the compromise without debate early last week by a 167-160 vote and sent it to the senate where opponents of the measure immediately dubbed it the "slave bill."

The bill was given a 50-50 chance for senate passage when debate opened last Wednesday, but it lost favor rapidly as debate continued, with Byrnes' statement that its provisions would be needed after the war finally tipping the balance.

FOUR CONVICTED NEGRO WACS ARE GIVEN FREEDOM

Boston, Mass., April 3 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, commanding general of the 1st service command, today voided court martial proceedings against four Negro WACS who were sentenced to a year at hard labor after being convicted at Fort Devens of refusing to obey superior officers. [In Washington the war department said the proceedings were vacated because the court martial was improperly convened.]

The quartet was convicted March 20 by an army general court martial of violating the 64th article of war. At the trial the girls contended they were ordered to perform menial hospital tasks because of their color, Maj. Leon E. McCarthy, trial judge advocate, stated after the trial that the racial issue had no bearing on the decision.

SENATORS URGE CANADA ALSO TIGHTEN BELT

20% Bigger Army Food Demands Revealed

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 3—With senators demanding that the British commonwealth countries join the United States in tightening belts, the senate agriculture committee tomorrow will resume its task of trying to end the American meat famine.

Lt. Col. Ralph W. Olmstead

That job, overshadowing the Washington scene, became the gloomier in prospect tonight when Undersecretary of War Patterson reported that the army schedule of food purchases is 20 per cent higher this year than in 1944.

Victory to Increase Needs

The Patterson report, which warned that early victory in Europe holds little hope of any reduction in army food requirements this year, is expected to be of grave concern to the senate committee. Patterson said that victory will tremendously increase the problem of feeding civilians in liberated and occupied countries.

Meanwhile it was disclosed that the United Kingdom may get about as much meat per person as United States civilians in the second and third quarters of this year. This disclosure followed Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference statement last Friday that "if we would just eat the British ration for one month all over this country we would be much more satisfied with what we have."

The leveling between British and United States consumption will be accomplished thru an increase in the British allocation and a lowering in United States supplies, Lt. Col. Ralph W. Olmstead, chairman of the war food administration's food allocations committee, told the senate agricultural group.

Consumption to Fall Steeply

Olmstead said that compared with 147 pounds per person in 1944, the present United States meat allocation is 125.3 pounds, but he added that actual "consumption" may be "considerably lower"—perhaps 115 pounds. The United Kingdom, however, has had its 1945 allocation raised to 110.2 pounds.

Olmstead in his testimony also said that among the "serious shortages" developing in foods is one in sugar. Dry eggs and rice also are joining meats, fats, oils, and dairy products on the critical list.

Stories that Canada is overflowing with meat and other foods while Americans are being asked to tighten their belts so that meat can be shipped abroad brought an explosion at the senate committee's meat hearing today.

Sen. Ellender [D., La.] said that Canada would be as short of food as is the United States if Canadians made the same efforts for the British and the other allies as Americans do.

Question of Paying?

"The British," Ellender said, "could no doubt use a lot of food from their own countries. The only trouble is that the British would have to pay for it, and they get it from lend-lease free."

Sen. Cordon [R., Ore.] said the British commonwealth countries "should tighten their belts to the same extent we do."

Sen. Shipstead [R., Minn.] read the committee a letter from a visitor to Canada who said there is plenty of food and gasoline there and that "Canadians are determined not to bankrupt themselves for England."

In reply to accounts by senators regarding vast supplies of meat and other foods in Canada, Lt. Olmstead said Canada is supplying Great Britain with beef, bacon, milk, cheese, and other foods under a mutual aid system. But he did not account for the bountiful supply of these same foods still in Canada.

No Canadian Food Asked.

Olmstead, who recently told the committee Canada would not permit the export of her meat to the United States, read the committee a complaint on his testimony from the Canadians. It said WFA had made no official request for the importation of Canadian meat. Negotiations for such importation nevertheless are said to have been in progress for some time.

Olmstead admitted, under questioning by Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.], that lend-lease always takes precedence over civilian needs.

Olmstead in his testimony admitted that the government had lost six million dollars thru spoilage of eggs when its program of increasing production and maintaining prices collapsed. He said he found the government had made contracts permitting egg driers to charge the ceiling price for dried eggs, no matter at what low prices they bought the eggs.

Sen. Cordon demanded who had made such contracts, and when Olmstead was unable to tell him said:

"I'd like to see the man responsible for such things at one of these hearings—just once. What was the price to civilians when the eggs were spoiling?"

"That's not my bailiwick," answered Olmstead.

His Guess Wins

John Barlow, who won Santa Fe railroad office pool on the sex and weight of Skeezix and Nina Wallet's baby, is paid off by Dorothy Koop.

The birth of an 8 pound, 10 ounce son to Sgt. and Mrs. Skeezix Wallet, characters in Frank King's Gasoline Alley comic strip in The Tribune, yesterday paid off $10.25 to John Barlow, 48, a rate clerk in the freight traffic department of the Santa Fe railroad. Barlow, a bachelor, guessed the baby would be a boy and would weigh 8 pounds 12 ounces. The other 40 members of the pool, all employes of the railroad's freight traffic department, guessed less accurately.

Dismiss Assault Charge Against Wife in Stabbing

A charge of assault with a deadly weapon was dismissed against Mrs. Mary Held, 26, of 640 North av., in Chicago av. court yesterday as the defendant stood before Judge Victor A. Kula holding hands with her husband, John, 36, whom she stabbed March 19. The couple told the court they had decided to keep Roland, a German shepherd dog, over which the stabbing resulted. Mrs. Held said the dog rubbed against her stockings and caused a run.

ACCUSES ARMY OF EASING UP ON G. I. PHYSICALS

Washington, D. C., April 3 [Special]—Belief that physical standards for drafted men have been relaxed dangerously in many instances was expressed today by Rep. Philbin [D., Mass.] who yesterday revealed existence of a twilight zone in which many soldiers are entitled neither to life insurance nor medical discharges.

Rep. Philbin.

Urges Investigation

Philbin said that 19,070 men recently passed as physically fit for overseas service have been barred from government insurance as poor health risks. This situation has apparently arisen, he said, because the army and navy are shipping men abroad from the quartermaster corps and other divisions in which physical standards are less high than in fighting units.

Inquiry should be made into whether men are being passed as fit for army service who cannot pass an insurance examination, Philbin suggested. He added that no service man should be penalized for deterioration in health after induction.

The men now barred from insurance could have obtained government policies if they had applied within 120 days of induction, Philbin said, but waited to make their insurance applications until they were about to be shipped overseas.

"The thought of a young man in an active theater of war being branded a poor health risk is an ironical paradox," Philbin said in a statement. "Any boy fit to fight for his country is worthy of being protected in all his insurance rights as are his beneficiaries."

Preparing Remedial Bill

Philbin is preparing a remedial bill for introduction after the Easter recess. He said the law should be changed to provide for a waiver of physical requirements for government life insurance when applicants are serving overseas or have been certified for overseas service.

H. W. Breining, assistant administrator of the veterans' administration, commented that government insurance is mutual insurance and that the more poor risks taken in the more the insurance will cost those who have already subscribed.

$4,652,378,000 SPENT BY CANADA ON WAR DURING FISCAL YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 3—Canada spent $4,652,378,000 on the war during the fiscal year, which ended March 31, J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, told the commons this afternoon. Of the total, $815,000,000 was spent in mutual aid to Britain, Russia, France, China, Australia, New Zealand and other countries, the remainder being direct war costs.

Ilsley estimated the war costs, including mutual aid, for the next five months at $2,000,000,000. By that time a new parliament will have been elected, and he is leaving to the new government the responsibility of estimating the expenditures for the whole fiscal year.

The minister of finance said army expenditures totaled $1,355,000,000 for the year; the navy, $407,000,000, and the air force, $1,325,000,000.

San Francisco, Cal., April 3 (AP)—An unidentified woman, about 45 years old, jumped from the center of the Golden Gate bridge today to become the 45th suicide from that structure since it was built.

MISSING MOTHER HOME; REFUSES TO TELL OF BABY

Newport, Ky., April 3 (AP).—Mrs. Mildred Peters, 200 pound brunet, who disappeared eight days ago at the door of a maternity ward, was back home tonight but police and her husband still were seeking the baby she says was born the day of her disappearance.

The husband, Carl Peters, a steel plant foreman, told police he found his wife at their home early this morning. Police Chief Leo Livingston said the woman would not disclose the whereabouts of the baby nor would she give any other details about the affair except to say that "The boy was born in Cincinnati March 26. His health is fine."

Held to Jury on Charge of Raping War Worker

Albin Syvertsen, 26, of 5143 Clark st., charged with rape, was held to the grand jury in $5,000 bond yesterday in Felony court before Judge Gibson E. Gorman. A war plant worker, 20, told police he forced his way into her boarding house room on the north side last Wednesday and raped her.

NAVY KEEPS V-12 THRU NOV. 1; ROTC PLANS DELAYED

Washington, D. C., April 3 (AP)—The navy today announced its V-12 college units will remain in operation for the term from July 1 to November 1. Establishment of additional naval reserve officers training corps units, previously scheduled to take place July 1, will be postponed. That expanded program, the navy said, was planned to permit transfer of V-12 officer candidates so that they could complete a full eight term course in college.

The 27 naval R. O. T. C. units now operating in colleges and universities, the navy said, will not accommodate all students eligible on July 1 for transfer to the expanded naval R. O. T. C. program. These students, however, will be afforded necessary instruction in naval science and tactics.

HURLEY CHOSEN F.D.R.'S ENVOY TO END BIG 3 BRAWL

U. S. Drops Demands for Three League Seats

ed that Eden will not appear at San Francisco.

The President's decision to send Hurley on the personal mission was seen as spiking reports that a new meeting of the Big Three might replace, or at least overshadow, the San Francisco conference. The London Daily Mail said in a front page article that another meeting of the Big Three might be called immediately to resolve difficulties that have grown out of the Yalta conference on the eve of the San Francisco meeting.

Stettinius' announcement that the San Francisco conference will not be sidetracked also confirmed the belief the Big Three do not plan an early meeting.

Statement of Stettinius

"This government," said Stettinius, "believes that the rapid tempo of military and political developments, far from requiring postponement of the San Francisco conference on international organization, makes it increasingly necessary that the plans for this organization worked out at Dumbarton Oaks be carried on promptly.

"We have, moreover, received no indication that any government believes that the conference should be postponed."

A Reverse in Strategy

With the question before the San Francisco conference narrowed to multiple votes for Russia alone it is a foregone conclusion that the Russian proposal will be overwhelmingly rejected if submitted.

Mr. Roosevelt reversed his action at Yalta after sensing its lack of support among the allied nations and among members of the American delegation itself. He beat a retreat under fire by the internationalists accusing him of inept diplomacy in rousing the opposition of small nations and reopening the question of the justice of six votes for the British empire in Woodrow Wilson's league of nations.

Backs Pledge of Stalin

The President holds to his promise to support Stalin's bid for three votes, according to Mr. Stettinius, but with that he will wash his hands of the affair.

"The soviet representatives at Yalta," said the secretary, "proposed that the White Russian and the Ukrainian republics be initial members of the proposed international organization. This was a question for the united nations assembled at San Francisco to consider and decide.

"In view of the importance which the soviet government attached to this proposal, the American representatives at Yalta, having the utmost respect for the heroic part played by the people of these republics in their unyielding resistance to the common enemy and the fortitude with which they have borne great suffering in the prosecution of the war, agreed that the government of the United States would support such a soviet proposal at San Francisco if made. No agreement was, however, made at Yalta on the question of the participation of these republics in the San Francisco conference.

Drops U. S. Reservation

"In the circumstances, the American representatives at Yalta believed that it was their duty to reserve the possibility of the United States having three votes in the general assembly.

"The soviet and British representatives stated their willingness to support a proposal, if the United States should make it, to accord three votes in the assembly to the United States. The President has decided that at the San Francisco conference the United States will not request additional votes for the government of the United States in the general assembly."

The five powers are collaborating on a trusteeship for dependencies under the peace league. In the trusteeship would be mandated territories of the Wilson league, territories such as India, the Dutch East Indies, French Indo-China, British Burma, and the Malay states that might voluntarily obtain this status, and "such territories taken from the enemy in this war as might be agreed upon at a later date."

Suggests Session to U. S.

The secretary thus indicated that some of the islands wrested from Japan would be placed under the trusteeship while others might be ceded outright, some to the United States and some to Great Britain.

The secretary said negotiations are proceeding with Russia on the creation of a Polish government that Britain and America will be willing to recognize and admit to the San Francisco conference. He said he had hopes of success.

There were indications, however, that Stalin is seeking to drive a hard bargain for his attendance at San Francisco, which is essential to the success of the President's world peace plan. He is demanding not only a pro-soviet Polish government but a new American lend-lease agreement for something like 4 billion dollars, and on top of that 6 billions in American post-war easy long-term credits. He is gluttonous for more of that appeasement he got from Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill at Tehran and Yalta.

SLOT MACHINE SEIZURE RIGHT IS REAFFIRMED

For the second time in a week the Appellate court yesterday ruled that slot machines are contraband, that they are liable to seizure, forfeiture, and destruction. The court ruled that the police department need not return nine slot machines taken from headquarters of the Loyal Order of Moose, 130 N. Wells st., on May 12, 1944.

Municipal Judge Francis J. Borrelli had ordered the police to return the machines, with $500 found in them. Judge Borrelli acted on the theory the seizure of them was illegal because no search warrant had been obtained. He disregarded an opinion by a former attorney general of Illinois, Otto Kerner, now a judge of the United States Court of Appeals, that a slot machine may be seized wherever it is found and that its owners or operators have no rights in the matter, inasmuch as such persons "are criminals."

Attorneys for the Moose told the Appellate court the machines were not gambling devices but rather "receptacles for donations" and were so labeled. The judges who ruled against the Moose, John J. Sullivan, Kickham Scanlan and Hugo M. Friend, said that if the Moose had been upheld any gambling house keeper would be protected merely by putting up a sign on his door that no gambling would be permitted inside.

GUNMAN TAKES $100

John Paul, 45, operator of the Sol Hat store, 3219 N. Ashland av., was robbed of $100 yesterday by a gunman who ordered him to surrender all the money in his pockets and in the cash register, Paul told police.

WAR PLANT AID FINED IN SALE OF YANK'S CIGARETS

Lawrence Padelford, 47, of 4740 N. Maplewood av., an inspector in the valve department of the Amertorp corporation in Forest Park, paid a $50 fine last night on a charge of selling cigarets above ceiling prices, and signed a retailers' compliance statement promising not to do it again. The fine was levied at a hearing before the price panel of ration board 17-6 in Forest Park.

Padelford was accused of selling seven cartons of cigarets he obtained from a soldier. Padelford denied selling any cigarets, but said he and six other employes at the plant made up a pool of $21 and paid $3 each for the seven cartons. He said he did not know the identity of the soldier.

Brig. Gen. Percy J. Carroll, commanding officer at Vaughan General hospital, said he had obtained an affidavit from George Ziehr, technician 5th grade, now at the hospital, in which Ziehr said he had given two cartons of cigarets to his wife, Juanita, an Amertorp employe, and that Juanita, in turn, had given them to Padelford for helping her obtain a promotion. Gen. Carroll said soldiers at the hospital get one carton of cigarets a week.

His Confession Doubted, He Digs Up Loot as Proof

Walter J. Powers, 18, of Green Bay rd., Waukegan, yesterday confessed looting the home of Arthur J. Hucker, 223 Washington st., Waukegan. Detectives scoffed, saying there had been no complaint. Powers asked for a shovel, then went to Waukegan's south beach and dug up his loot: a strong box containing two $25 war bonds. He also admitted an automobile theft and filling station burglary, for which charges he had been arrested. He was bound over to the Lake county grand jury.

F.D.R. EMBROILED IN '20 ROW OVER VOTES IN LEAGUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 3.—International storms over votes in peace organizations are not new to President Roosevelt, who precipitated a furious controversy, almost as great as that raging over voting in the Dumbarton Oaks assembly, over votes in the league of nations almost 25 years ago.

In August, 1920, when Great Britain's votes in the league were an issue of the Harding-Cox Presidential campaign, Mr. Roosevelt as Democratic candidate for Vice President made a campaign speech at Butte, Mont., in which he took cognizance of the issue of that day.

He was quoted as asserting the United States would have at least 12 votes in the league of nations as against the British six, because the United States would control at least 11 Latin-American votes.

A Writer of Constitutions

"I know what I am talking about," Mr. Roosevelt was reported by the Associated Press to have said, "for I wrote the constitutions of two of these nations."

The Butte speech created a sensation in diplomatic circles here. Violent protests were made by South and Central American diplomat- at the inference that the United States would cast the votes of all the republics of the western hemisphere.

The speech was regarded as a semi-official pronouncement from the White House because Mr. Roosevelt had served as assistant secretary of the navy under President Wilson and had participated in the conference at which Wilson and Gov. Cox of Ohio agreed to make support of the league the paramount issue of the campaign.

Denied by Roosevelt

Republican campaign orators made capital of the extravagant claims of American domination of the league and of the assertion that Mr. Roosevelt was a constitution writer.

Mr. Roosevelt weathered the storm by insisting he had been misquoted. Today in his behalf the state department insisted that Mr. Roosevelt had not secretly agreed at Yalta that the United States and Russia would have three votes each against the six for Great Britain.

10,548 QUIT HIGH SCHOOLS, 3,953 TO GET HIGH PAY

A survey of the 10,548 pupils who withdrew from Chicago public high schools in 1943-'44 disclosed that 3,953 did so to take advantage of high salaries available in jobs, James B. McCahey, president of the school board, said yesterday.

A total of 6,390 boys withdrew during the school year, of whom 1,630 were inducted into the military services, and 4,158 girls left school. Enrollment in the high schools for the year was 113,662, McCahey said.

The survey showed 301 boys and 715 girls left school to take jobs because of home financial conditions; 2,469 boys and 1,484 girls withdrew because of the lure of high salaries, and 149 boys and 191 girls left school to take jobs because of the attitude of their parents.

200 CIVIC CHIEFS MAP WAR RELIEF CLOTHING DRIVE

Mayor Kelly and 200 civic leaders met in the city hall last night to plan Chicago's part in the United National Clothing Collection campaign during the week of April 14. The national goal is 150 million pounds of used, serviceable clothing to be given to war victims abroad. Chicago's quota is nine million pounds.

William L. McFetridge, international president of the Building Service Employes' union, is executive chairman of the drive. Other leaders are Ralph H. Burke, office of civilian defense deputy coördinator; Arthur E. Canty, Illinois commander of the American Legion, and Lloyd N. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity.

Collections by 20,000 volunteers will be taken to 4,000 centers, from which they will be sent daily to 100 sorting and packing depots for separation into 68 categories before being forwarded to treasury department warehouses. The national campaign is sponsored by the war relief control board, with Henry J. Kaiser as chairman.

FORECAST BIG 3 MEETING BEFORE FRISCO PARLEY

Yalta Outcome Adds to Dominions' Objections

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 3 — Another Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting, possibly preceding the San Francisco conference, was foreshadowed in diplomatic circles here tonight as arguments for and against staging world security talks April 25 boiled to new intensity.

London and Washington were reported to be consulting Moscow on proposed Big Three discussions. British diplomats, according to informed observers, would welcome a meeting now as the war in Europe bears an end in the hope that it might clear the air of some of the friction which appears to have cropped up among the Big Three powers.

Open Talks Suggested.

As a safeguard against recriminations such as followed Yalta, it is being suggested here that the Big Three talks should be held openly and not shrouded in secrecy.

Some of the difficulties confronting the San Francisco discussions will get a preliminary airing in London tomorrow when dominion delegations meet with British ministers to discuss proposals for future world organization. Dominion statesmen are reported to be dissatisfied with the Yalta decisions. The principal objection will come from the Canadians, who dislike not only the multiple voting proposals but the fact that certain nations will be called on by the big powers to make sacrifices without having any say. The dominions also are expected to be outspoken regarding Russia's demand for three votes against one vote each for America, Britain, and the dominions.

The British, meanwhile, appeared to be getting ready for peace in a big way. Extensive plans laid for celebrating V-E day included a labor ministry announcement that Victory day and the following days will be holidays for government employes. The ministry also suggested schools be dismissed for the two days.

Thousands of Londoners lined up at big department stores today to buy flags for V-day. Another peace harbinger was the prediction the last vestiges of the black-out will be erased by August. It also was forecast that the basic gasoline ration may be restored this summer.

Despite these good omens, many persons evacuated from London several years ago at the start of the bomb blitzes were streaming back in such numbers that the government tonight warned them not to return until officially notified.

RIGHT TIME FOR IT—PRAVDA
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Moscow radio, quoting from an article in Pravda, official Communist paper, said last night that the San Francisco conference was to be held "at the right time from every point of view" and "will accomplish its task."

The broadcast, made in the Hungarian language, was recorded by the federal communications commission.

Quoting from the Pravda article by David Zaslavsky, editorial writer, it said the San Francisco meeting "has nothing in common with the league of nations," and that its location in the United States was "significant" as "proof of the defeat of United States isolationism." The broadcast added:

"The experience of the second World war has proved that weak peoples, defended by nothing but beautiful words and procrastinated treaties, are always the first victims of aggression. Nothing but force permeated by the ideals of democracy can defend these people. It was the strength of the soviet union that rescued these peoples from the Fascist invaders."

Warman Lamont, 38, Negro, of 4314 Langley av., who fell out a window of his second story apartment Monday, died yesterday in County hospital of a skull fracture.

"I'd like to write him a letter, Miss Woods, describing how you look on the days when you get his letter!"

BOSS WILL PAY FOR LIE TEST IN LARCENY CASE

When Edward Quan, manager of the Service Parcel Delivery company, 1036 Harrison st., offered yesterday to defray expenses of a lie detector test for one of his employes, Robert McCormick Jr., 17, of 808 Independence blvd., Municipal Judge Jacob M. Braude in Boys' court continued to today a hearing on charges of larceny. McCormick indicated willingness to take the test.

McCormick, driver of a truck for Quan, was charged with keeping $7.65 paid last week by Miss Mabel Hojek of 8602 S. Albany av., an employe of Evergreen Park village, for a C. O. D. package. He denied the theft after Miss Hojek and Peter Lich, chief of Evergreen Park police, identified him as the driver who delivered the package. He was in Hammond, Ind., at the time it was delivered, he said.

Also charged with larceny was Richard Watts, 18, of 5409 S. Wells st., another employe of Quan's company, for whom Judge Braude ordered a psychiatric examination. His case was continued to April 11.

J. F. Moore to Head Retail Group for 7th War Loan

Moore, a graduate of the University of Chicago, is a director of the State Street council and a member of the board of directors of the Retail Merchants' association.

A series of awards to be made for meritorious service toward the betterment of race relations was announced yesterday by the mayor's committee on race relations. The awards will be open to any one. BRIDGES FIGHTS IN HIGH COURT TO AVERT OUSTER

Washington, D. C., April 3 (AP)—The seven year fight over government attempts to ship Harry Bridges back to his native Australia was placed in the Supreme court's hands today for final decision.

Atty. Gen. Biddle in May, 1942, ordered the west coast CIO leader deported on the ground that he had been a member of the Communist party. Biddle at the time said the party advocated violent overthrow of the United States government. Bridges has fought Biddle's order in the federal courts. The longshoremen's union executive came to this country 25 years ago.

Counsel for Bridges in opening the argument said he denied ever having been a member of the Communist party and asserted there was no evidence he ever advocated overthrow of the government.

Attorney Cites Constitution

His attorney, Lee Pressman, told the Supreme court the Biddle order violated an alien's rights to protection of the Constitution's Bill of Rights. He said the administrative procedures used in the case failed to give Bridges protection of due process of law.

"This court in earlier decisions has said that aliens are entitled to protection of free speech under our Constitution," Pressman said. "The justice department now contends that congress may enact a law which says to the aliens: 'If you exercise the right of free speech, we will deport you.'"

"Congress," Pressman asserted, "has no such authority."

Solicitor General Charles Fahy insisted the government has "sovereign power, thru its legislative and executive arms, to rid itself of those deemed inimical to the national welfare."

Contends Ruling Is Final

The law, Fahy said, provides that an alien may be deported if at any time after his entrance in the United States he affiliates with an organization advocating overthrow of the government by force and violence. The law stipulates that the findings of the attorney general are final in such cases.

"This case involves the fate of three and a half million aliens in the United States," Pressman said.

But Fahy retorted: "This case does not involve three and a half million aliens because there are no such numbers in this country who are members of organizations advocating violent overthrow of the government."

The first effort to oust Bridges was started in 1938, but it failed when the Supreme court ruled that past membership in the Communist party was not a ground for deportation. Then congress amended the law to make past membership a cause for deportation. The present proceeding was begun under the amended law.

2 CLERKS 'OVERRULE' JUDGE'S OBJECTIONS, WALK OUT OF COURT

Joseph P. Maher and James Kane, clerks in the Municipal court for 14 years, walked out on Judge Francis J. Borrelli in S. State st. court yesterday after disagreements about procedure.

James Kane

Joseph Maher

When defendants in two cases which Maher called weren't in court, he told Judge Borrelli that he would mark the cases ex parte and enter bond forfeitures in the court records.

"I'm running this court," Judge Borrelli objected. "Get off the bench and come into my chambers." Maher told him he would ask for a transfer to another court. Borrelli then called Kane to take over. "No," Kane said. "I'm walking out, too."

The clerks reported the incident to Joseph L. Gill, chief clerk of the Municipal court, who said they would be back in court today. Gill said neither of the men is considering resigning.

MUSICAL THEFT SUSPECT HELD; LOOT IS FOUND

Peter Vermuelen, 29, was held last night by police, accused of the theft of a $500 oboe, a $200 saxophone and a $150 clarinet from a classroom on Northwestern university's Evanston campus. The instruments, belonging to Jean Barker of West Frankfort, Franklin county, a music student at the university, subsequently were recovered from pawnshops. Vermuelen denied taking the instruments, but Lt. John Olson said he admitted that he wandered about the campus, posing as a student, observed the instruments, and told a Negro confederate where they were.

THOUGHTS that HEAL and PREVENT DISEASE

THE GROWING recognition among physicians and others of the value of thought in the treatment of disease, Christian Science shows to be a development of much significance and promise.

It is a step toward the universal adoption of a healing practice like that of the Founder of Christianity. For, as Christian Science shows unmistakably, a scientific method of thought was responsible for the superb healing work of Jesus. The same method, fully explained in this Science, accounts for its own remarkable cures today.

What often remains as a problem in medical practice after it has been seen that improvement in thought can improve the body, is the apparent impossibility of improving thought. This problem is solved by Christian Science, which discloses and proves that the kinds of thoughts which overcome and prevent disease are really natural for everyone.

The complete explanation of Christian Science and its method of healing and preventing disease is given in

VETERANS LOSE ELECTION RACES IN LIGHT VOTE

Aurora and Oak Park Reject Wounded Men

A Servicemen's Party, composed of veterans of World War II., was defeated yesterday in the Aurora city election, and Capt. Herbert Redding, a candidate for village and township clerk of Oak Park, who lost a leg in the Tunisia campaign, was rejected 2 to 1. Voting was light.

At Aurora, Mayor Andrew J. Carter, 75, former assistant superintendent of the Aurora division of the Burlington railroad, led his Aurora United Party in a 4 to 1 victory over the Servicemen's Party, with the Victory Party, composed of two veterans of World War I. and one veteran of World War II., running a close third.

Also reëlected were John P. Thill, clerk, and Dr. Elmer A. Hermes, treasurer. Thill now is in the navy.

Running on the Servicemen's ticket were Lt. Richard K. Holmstrom, 34, three times cited for bravery in Italy, who was mayoralty candidate; ex-Marine Parachutist Richard E. Gieser, 28, wounded on Guadalcanal, for clerk, and Eldon D. Roadruck, 28, infantry man who was wounded at Buna, for treasurer.

Unofficial Aurora Returns.

Complete unofficial returns from the 50 precincts: Mayor, Carter, 7,385; Holmstrom, 2,279; Marshall [Victory party], 2,210; clerk, Thill, 7,177; Gieser, 2,486; Nuyen [Victory party], 1,873; treasurer, Hermes, 7,060; Roadruck, 2,285; Wellands [Victory party], 2,204.

In a special city election, an overwhelming majority voted in favor of a tax increase to finance a city playground recreation fund, and in a special township election voters adopted a provision of the Illinois municipal retirement act for township employes.

Nonpartisans Win in Oak Park

Stuart W. Cochran, running for president of Oak Park, apparently had carried his entire Nonpartisan community ticket into office by a 2 to 1 majority. Cochran, a financial consultant for 20 years, won out over Richard H. Thomas, of the Home Rule party, and Louis S. Gibson, of the Citizens Nonpartisan ticket. He will succeed Robert F. McMaster, who was not a candidate.

Harry N. Leadaman, village and township clerk continuously since 1918, was swept out of office by Cochran's ticket, altho he led his Home Rule ticket. Leadaman was defeated by James A. Wasson, 6,165 to 7,793.

In Waukegan and Deerfield townships, in Lake county, citizens voted to establish a retirement fund for township employes; and in Fremont township, Lake county, a proposal to levy a special tax for road repair was defeated, 148 to 146.

April 3, 1945.

THE sudden drop in temperature and the chilly rain caught the sheep with their wool off. The animals were shorn last week in the mild weather and were having a hard enough time getting adjusted to running around without clothing when the temperature was 75 degrees without having it drop to the 30s.

There were a total of 23 clips on the shearing floor when the job was completed—14 Southdowns and nine black Karakuls. The white Southdowns averaged 4.7 pounds of wool and the Karakuls yielded an average of 8 pounds. The wool buyer paid the farm 20 cents a pound for the Karakul and 30 cents a pound for the Southdown wool. The price was low because the pelts were not clean and contained many burrs. The wool check amounted to $34.14.

Shorn Flocks Housed.

The flocks now are being kept in the horse barn, where they are out of the chill winds. They also are being given extra feed, there not being enough grass on their pasture to support them.

The farm also received some money for the bloated steer that had been held out of the shipment of steers sent to market recently. The steer, which sold subject to inspection, weighed 880 pounds and brought $128.48.

Monday's rain was a real Ozark "gully washer and trash remover"; the thirsty ground drank and was filled, drank again, and finally with a sigh and a gurgle sent the water cascading down its slopes to swell the creeks and ponds on the farm. The rain did much to make up for the moisture deficiency that prevailed when spring arrived. Now there is a good supply of water. Because the ground is so wet, spring work will be held up for a few more days.

Mercury Dip Alarms.

The lowered temperature caused considerable concern, as the men feared the effects of a frost. The cherry trees are almost ready to bloom, the flower buds on the lilacs are far advanced, and several of the flowering trees in the arboretum are out.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

ONIONS usually do not receive sufficient attention in most home gardens. Almost all home gardeners raise spring "green onions," but few amateur growers produce enough of these valuable bulbs for late summer use and winter storage. When properly grown, onions are economically as valuable as any home grown vegetable.

Almost all of the onions produced by home gardeners are grown from sets, with most gardeners overlooking the possibility of planting seeds and seedlings. Seeds of the common American type may be sown directly in the row at this time of the year, thinned in the same manner as root crops, and be harvested in about 120 days.

Onions grown from seed can be stored in a basement more successfully than onions grown from sets. Additional data on onion culture will be printed tomorrow in this space.

Japs Give Sop to Korea, Formosa After 20 Years

San Francisco, April 3 (AP)—Seven Koreans and three Formosans have been appointed to the Japanese house of peers, the Japanese Domei agency announced today in a broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission. The appointments are apparently hurried action on an imperial decree issued two days ago by Emperor Hirohito granting Korea, Formosa, and Karafuto places in the diet after 50 years of Japanese rule.

CHICAGO LACKS $1,275,632 OF ITS RED CROSS QUOTA

Yesterday's contributions to the Red Cross fund brought its total to $10,024,368, or $1,275,632 short of the $11,300,000 quota set for the Chicago chapter.

Martin H. Kennelly, chairman of the drive, announced that the petroleum group, headed by Rawleigh Warner and R. L. Milligan of the Pure Oil company, has exceeded its quota. The furniture and home furnishings division, led by Harry M. Shore, president of the Superior Sleeprite company, joined 19 other business sections that had oversubscribed.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE AFTER 121 YEARS

One of the senate reservations of 1919 to the league of nations specifically excepted any questions growing out of the Monroe Doctrine from consideration by the assembly or council of the league. The western hemisphere, it was unequivocally stated, was "wholly outside the jurisdiction" of the league. All of the American republics, with the momentary exception of Argentina, have now given multilateral recognition to the Monroe Doctrine thru the agreements reached at the recent inter-American conference in Mexico City. They stand ready to unite in repelling external aggressions as well as subduing any aggressors that may arise within the hemisphere.

The United States and the nations to the south have had sufficient experience to see that the war making powers lie outside this hemisphere. Outside of a few border disputes in which resort was had to arms, the western nations have learned to live in peace with one another. Because of the known war breeding proclivities of Europe and a justifiable skepticism as to the possibility of enforcing peace thru any elaboration of the Dumbarton Oaks plan which may come out of the San Francisco conference this month, they would be well advised to agree that in the interests of peace the European nations be forced to give up the footholds in this hemisphere which constitute focuses of infection in future wars.

There are three of these in South America and one in Central America. British, French, and Dutch Guiana adjoin on the shoulder of the southern continent. British Honduras is the fourth possession. Besides these, all three powers hold islands in American waters. The Netherlands has Curacao; France, Martinique, Guadeloupe, St. Pierre, and Miquelon, all of which were neuralgic spots during the German occupation of France; Britain has numerous island possessions. These are the Falklands, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Barbados, Jamaica, the Leeward Islands, Trinidad, and the Windward Islands.

The United States, which has not only been the decisive factor in Europe and has carried the Pacific war virtually without assistance, but has given 36 billion dollars in lend-lease aid to its allies, is the only nation which will not seek territorial compensation or reparations from its defeated enemies. The Russians have already engorged eastern Poland and the three Baltic states, and are reducing other nations to satellites, and they are collecting reparations from Romania. The British, under the secret armistice terms with Italy, have marked out a neat profit, and the French, Belgians, and the Dutch are staking out areas in the Rhineland.

This country not only has the advantage of a creditor position, but is situated so that it is morally unassailable. In these circumstances, it might well assume leadership in behalf of the Americas in demanding that European nations vacate their holdings in this hemisphere. At the worst, the inhabitants are now exploited by their overseas masters; at the best, neglected and undeveloped. The French have converted Guiana into a penal colony.

It has, of course, been the fixed principle of this nation ever since President Monroe's pronouncement to exclude the European nations from further extension of their systems to this hemisphere. All of the nations of the hemisphere would not now have agreed on a doctrine which the United States alone upheld for more than 121 years if it were still believed that European stewardship had any positive benefits to offer to any American people.

NO PARDON, BUT MAYBE A PAROLE

We see by the Beg Your Pardon column that a butterfly which emerged on Wednesday from a chrysalis in the home of Mrs. Theresa Halapek, 4856 Byron st., was identified, erroneously, in THE TRIBUNE as a luna moth. "Authorities," we are further informed, "yesterday said that it was a polyphemus or a cecropia. There are no common names for either of these butterflies."

Well, anyway, the boys are getting warmer. But the polyphemus and the cecropia are not butterflies. They are moths. You can tell the difference by the feelers on their heads. Butterflies' feelers end in knobs. Moths' feelers are feathery. Garfield A. Bowden told us this in his biology class in Waukegan High school, and we have been waiting 30 years to spring it on somebody.

Mr. Bowden was a sharp fellow on the lepidoptera, which are moths and butterflies, but where he really went to town was on bees. Whenever any one hadn't his lesson he would say something about bees, and Mr. Bowden would spend the rest of the period telling us about life in the hive. That is why we have always been a little sketchy on the effects of alcohol on the human body, altho the state law requires that biology courses devote six weeks to the lore of the hobnail liver.

Mr. Bowden was right about the knobs and feathers. We checked him up in the encyclopedia, which says that moths' feelers are pectinate. Pectinate has nothing to do with the stuff that makes jelly jell. Pectin is derived from a Greek verb, while pectinate derives from the Latin.

Just because there are no common names for polyphemus or cecropia is no reason why the Beg Your Pardon editor should have dismissed them so abruptly. Polyphemus comes from the Cyclops of that name, a one eyed monster who trapped the wandering Odysseus and his crew in a cave, and ate two of them every day. Odysseus sharpened a piece of olive wood, hardened it in the fire, and poked out Polyphemus' one eye. Then he and his men sneaked past the blind giant by clinging beneath Polyphemus' sheep when they went out to graze. We always thought they must have been pretty big sheep.

If memory serves, Calypso also had a cave, or maybe it was an island, but what the FHA appraisers call the amenities must have been better there, because Odysseus went to dinner and stayed seven years. Penelope must have been a good deal of a dope.

The cecropia [if we're not boring you] is named after the legendary first king of Attica, Cecrops. He was supposed to have been half snake, but he gave the Athenians their first knowledge of the useful arts. Both the cecropia and the polyphemus are silkworm moths. They tried to raise silkworms in this country in early colonial times, but found it wasn't worth the trouble. That was before nylon, of course. We still have the mulberry trees, however. Don't walk under one in August. The mulberries stain your white shoes.

We think that Mrs. Halapek's moth [not butterfly] was probably a polyphemus, because it had a spot on each wing like the eye in a peacock feather. It's easy to see that it wasn't a luna, because a luna is green and its wings trail off into tails. It might even be a cecropia as the authorities say. We wouldn't know, because we never saw a polyphemus or a luna, either. We just read about them in "The Girl of the Limberlost."

ANTI-NAZI GERMANS

A good many of the correspondents with our armies in Germany have reported statements by civilians in recently conquered territory to the effect that they never did like the Nazis. The correspondents have intimated that these Germans are cringing liars, seeking to escape the detestation they have earned.

It is true, of course, that nearly all Germans accepted Hitler when he came to power and only the fewest of them had the independence of mind and the courage to offer any effective resistance to his domestic and foreign policies. If the civilians in western Germany are now pretending that they refused to obey his orders they are lying, beyond all question.

They are not lying, however, if they mean they opposed the rise of Hitler to power, for that is a fact that can very easily be demonstrated and has been demonstrated most effectively by Prof. James K. Pollock of the University of Michigan. In the American Political Science Review for February a year ago Prof. Pollock examined the returns from the series of elections which brought Hitler to the top. It is a striking fact that in the parts of Germany we have thus far occupied Hitler was less popular than he was anywhere else in the country. Our armies are only now beginning to push into Hitler country.

Germany was divided into 35 electoral districts. Prof. Pollock has listed the 10 districts in which Hitler was weakest in the four reichstag elections held in September 1930, July and November 1932, and March 1933. The prize goes to the Cologne-Aachen district, where he got no more than 20.6 per cent of the total. In the Ruhr districts he did only slightly better. In the Coblenz-Trier area and Wurttemberg he averaged around 27 per cent. Prof. Pollock's map of Germany, which is shaded to show the strength of Nazi support in the four elections, looks almost like a contemporary war map. The Americans and British have moved into the lightest areas, from which Hitler drew little strength at the polls. Most of the darkest sections, including East Prussia, Pomerania, and other eastern territory, is occupied by the Russians. Berlin was anti-Hitler. Middle Germany, into which we are now advancing, gave his party from 35 to 40 per cent of its votes.

The chances are, then, that the German civilians whom our correspondents have met were not Nazis, at least at the beginning. It is perhaps fair to assume that they remained less enthusiastic supporters of his regime than were the Germans in the sections of the country farther to the east.

WESTWARD MIGRATION

Our fighting men who invaded Okinawa quickly dubbed the natives "Okies." The original Okies were the dispossessed farmers of Oklahoma whose farms during the drouth became part of the dust bowl. They were the victims of nature, but some writers like John Steinbeck were all in favor of converting them into convenient symbols of the class struggle. "The Grapes of Wrath" was a portrayal of their migration westward to the promised land of California, where the heartless state immigration inspectors and hard handed bosses of the fruit and vegetable growers' associations served as convenient villains. The New Deal, on the other hand, was depicted as great hearted because it provided them cozy casual camps.

Mr. Steinbeck's novel became one of relatively few American works to be translated into the Russian. The Communists were happy to be able to point to the evidence that poverty and degradation were the common lot under American capitalism. We don't hear about the Okies these days. They probably are farming or working in war factories at nice wages. The propaganda values of a transitory misfortune were worked for all they were worth at the time, but it is no longer possible to propagate the fiction that this country is in the valley of a perpetual depression. That's the way the New Deal and its propagandists would like to have it thought, but the facts won't conform, and the Washington cure-all need not be considered as either necessary or permanent.

The soldiers and marines have discovered the true Okies in their native habitat, and it isn't America. The humor of the moment on Okinawa has redeemed what the propagandists for a controled state would like to think of as a permanent American tragedy.

The head Arab, Ibn Saud, carries along a tent and his own livestock on his tours. It would amaze the folks on the farm if there were city relatives like this.—Detroit News.

HEIDELBERG'S LUCK

Heidelberg university, captured without damage, has been a favorite, faraway scene of intellectual conviviality for the American people ever since Mark Twain wrote "A Tramp Abroad" in 1880. His travel impressions established its atmosphere of happy, cap-wearing students whose chief purpose in life seemed to be lifting steins and dueling safely but gruesomely with swords. The book is still alive on the shelves of countless families, much thumb-marked in the Heidelberg chapters.

* * *

After Twain, in the early 1900s, came Richard Mansfield, a better actor than the late John Barrymore, with a play which refreshed and sentimentalized the Heidelberg tradition. This was "Old Heidelberg," a close translation of Wilhelm's Meyer-Förster's romantic comedy of the same title, which had been acted by repertory companies in every German city and accepted as an authentic picture of life at the ancient seat of learning. Mansfield's production ran for only one season, but after being in the storehouse for 20 years it gave birth to "The Student Prince," a purely American and apparently unkillable operetta.

* * *

"Old Heidelberg" put a song into the musicbooks of every American college in the 1900s. This was a männerchor number from "The Prince of Pilsen," a musical comedy of great popularity. Whenever the beer flowed freely in student groups, these lines would be chanted in close harmony:

O Heidelberg, dear Heidelberg,
Thy sons will ne'er forget.
The golden haze of student days
Is round about you yet.
Those days of yore will come no more,
But thru our manly years,
All thoughts of you, so good, so true,
Will fill our hearts with tears.

* * *

Seymour Korman of THE TRIBUNE reports that American soldiers are not finding the old place as glamorous as advertised. ["What, no campus?"] Upon their return, nevertheless, they will still be customers for "The Student Prince" whenever it comes their way.

* * *

So much for Heidelberg. Two other major German universities, rivaling or outranking the haunt of the student prince in old-style, pre-Nazi scholarship, were captured on the same day without mention in the war news. They are Marburg and Giessen, each worth a story.

PIONEER IN YELLOW

I sing the hardy pioneer,
Forsythia, the bold
Adventurer who is the first
To wear a robe of gold;
Before a leaf or blade of grass
Has shown the faintest green,
Then like a joyous trumpet call
Forsythia's gold is seen!

The flowers were in their beds asleep,
For winds were strong and cold,
But faith that Spring was on the way
Shone in forsythia's gold,
Which stars the Outer Drive by day
As lights serve it at night,
Proclaiming Spring has really come—
Maybe forsythia's right! Carillon.

Choppy Changes His Spots

It has been written and said that one must not bathe his dog too often, so I deferred bathing Choppy all winter, but come spring I washed him.

Well, such rolling, jumping, and prancing I have never seen. Choppy was so thrilled with his own self that I thought he would dash right thru the window. In the morning I took him for his walk and people said: "My, what a cute little doggie. He has had a bath." This makes me kind of tired. I could take a bath every night and no one would go into ecstasy over me.

So we go into the delicatessen, where the floor had been the same color as Choppy all winter long, and our friend the delicatessen man said: "O, I see you got your dog back. Where has he been hiding all winter? I'll bet you were lonesome without him."

Anyway, it was different. Roy Engel.

[Advice and assistance on draft and military questions and problems of dependents of service men and veterans are given here or by mail if a stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice and assistance are given to veterans.]

G. S. asks: "Is there any way for two or more veterans to buy the necessary machine tools, equipment, and stock to start a small light machine shop? If we decide to start such a shop, how do we go about getting contracts or subcontracts from the government? Would it be possible to obtain financial assistance other than the G. I. loan?"

Veterans who have had experience in a business such as you describe may find it to their advantage to consult the Smaller War Plants corporation, 226 Jackson blvd., to determine whether there are any machinery, machine tools, buildings, stocks, etc., under its jurisdiction which are idle or surplus. If what the veterans need is so designated, it is possible for arrangements to be made to effect release and sale, and if the veterans have any assets, personal property or cash, it may be possible for the transaction to be completed thru the financing facilities of this corporation without the veterans having to utilize their borrowing power under the G. I. law. The corporation also can assist in arranging for materials and contracts or subcontracts.

PENICILLIN IS AVAILABLE

NO one ever dreamed that one day an ordinary mold, called "penicillium notatum," would become our most powerful weapon against certain species of bacteria. This fungus is similar to the green mold associated with Roquefort cheese and decaying citrus fruits.

In 1929 Prof. Alexander Fleming, working in St. Mary's hospital, London, noticed that some of the microbes he was studying were being contaminated by a white, fluffy mold. He decided to watch it and, in a few days, observed to his amazement that it had stopped these germs from growing.

He experimented with other molds but they proved unsatisfactory. By now the original had multiplied and transplants were made. He extracted the surrounding juices and found that they could overwhelm a host of bacteria, including the staphylococcus, streptococcus, gonococcus, and others. It is interesting that this single spore which floated into his laboratory is the sole ancestor of enormous masses of penicillin now being produced.

It has been said that the ideal antiseptic should have the ability to kill germs, do no harm to the tissues of the body, and function in any solution. Penicillin has all these qualities. Unfortunately, it will not affect every type of organism but the number is large enough to make it a valuable aid to medicine. It does not alter the blood cells as the sulfa drugs may, but temporary reactions such as hives, fever, headache, and abdominal discomfort may follow its use. The mold acts as well in serum, blood, or pus as it does in broth or water. This means that it can be instilled into almost any infected area.

At first, the remedy was saved for our war casualties. It does not replace necessary surgical procedures, such as draining a collection of pus, but when employed in conjunction with other methods, it proves an excellent ally. It is effective in burns as well as surface deeper wounds. It is recommended in the treatment of various complications resulting from fractures and accidents to the head, eyes, and abdomen. The dreaded gas gangrene is checked when penicillin is utilized along with the antitoxin.

The pus forming "bugs" [staphylococci] react most favorably. These microbes are responsible for boils, carbuncles, abscesses, and bone infections. Blood poisoning arising from these maladies is a dangerous situation and penicillin was welcomed by all physicians as the sulfa preparations often failed to save these unfortunates.

The streptococcus also is overpowered. Penicillin is capable of sterilizing a circulation already ravished by these invaders. Certain disorders of the eyes, ears, nose, and throat have been relieved dramatically. These include conjunctivitis and sinus, middle ear, and mastoid infections. Meningitis, gonorrhea, and pneumonia likewise respond. Disappointing results were obtained in typhoid, undulant fever, malaria, and the virus diseases.

Penicillin is now available for civilians. The drug may be injected into a muscle or the blood stream; or solutions may be applied locally by spray, direct application, or on gauze dressings. When added to suitable creams, it is helpful in skin infections. It cannot be taken by mouth as the acid in the stomach will destroy it. Recently, however, one authority mixed it with trisodium citrate in order to overcome this handicap. Further research along this line is necessary, but this is one of the most encouraging reports to date.

A butterfly or butter pat;
It was a primrose—only that
And it was yellow; stout fellow, Peter.
Clear to see, no grist was he
For psychiatric mill.
Deride who will his simple rustic mind,
He knew a primrose when he saw one
And he wasn't color blind.
—MARY WINTER.

Thought for This Year

From Thomas Mann's "The Magic Mountain":

"It is absurd for the murderer to outlive the murdered. These two, alone together, as two beings are together in only one other human relationship, have, like them, the one acting, the other suffering him, shared a secret that binds them forever together. They belong to each other."

Quandary

The Berlitz school of languages received a plaintive letter last week from a lieutenant in a 1st army tank outfit.

"I have mumbled and bumbled as well as fought my way half way across Europe," he wrote. "With a G. I. rifle in one hand and a G. I. language guide in the other, the struggle has been terrific. Now the fighting I don't mind—that I can handle—but trying to make myself understood by these 'foreigners' is getting me down. Can you help me out? I've missed many a good billet and bottle of cognac simply because I couldn't make myself understood by the French, or the Belgians, or the Luxemburgers, or the Germans. If they send me to China after the war in Europe is over, I'll go completely nuts. Hopefully yours. . . ."

It's His Story

One of our scouts insists a sign in a north side night club says: "Sorry, the management cannot be responsible for unattended cigarets."

Prophetic Verse?

The pictures of devastated Cologne bring to mind the satirical verse in which Samuel Taylor Coleridge pictured it 150 years ago, before modernization had reduced its medieval "charm":

In Köln, a town of monks and bones
And pavements fanged with murderous stones
And rags and hags and hideous wenches,
I counted two and seventy stenches.
All well defined and separate stinks!
Ye nymphs that reign o'er sewers and sinks,
The River Rhine as is well known
Doth wash your city of Cologne.
But tell me, nymphs, what power divine
Shall henceforth wash the River Rhine?

Harve Meets Harvey

Harve Fischman, the Quiz Kid, took in the play "Harvey," when the Quiz Kids were in New York recently and was invited backstage after the play to meet the white rabbit, Harvey, who exists only in the imagination of Frank Fay, who plays the lead. Fay introduced the two Harveys.

Said Harve Fischman: "I'd like to see more of you."

Fay said that Harvey, who supposedly is 6 feet 1½ inches tall, replied: "I'm big enough as I am."

[Incidentally, Harvey the rabbit has reached Hubbard Woods. A scout there confides that in a deep freeze show window there is a sign, "Eat our new delicious domesticated rabbit." Under the sign is a cellophane-topped box inside of which is —nothing!]

Paging Joe E. Brown

Advertisment in a local street car: "World's Largest Dental Plate Makers."

Note from a Seafarer in the Pacific

"My cabin bulkheads [walls to you] are literally papered with artists' sketches of chix, mols, and babes. Wish some of them could talk. I'd certainly like to see a girl in the flesh. I haven't seen a civilian since Oct. 13, nor have I stepped my tiny toe on land anywhere. Right now we are at anchor at a portless port."

THE AGE OF INCONSISTENCY

Iowa City, Ia., March 30—What an age we live in! We invite nations to a so-called peace conference and demand a declaration of war as the price of admission, excluding the nations who remained at peace from participation. And we go to war to preserve as a right for the English the flogging, kicking, and machine gunning of the people of India, Malaya, etc., when they refuse to submit to British decrees, and to deny the same practices to the Germans who are doing the same thing in Europe for the same reason. There is certainly something wrong with our thinking and our moral ideas when we cannot see our foolish inconsistencies more clearly, and demand equal rights for all, small nations as well as large nations.

The delegates at the San Francisco conference should remember that the peace of the community rests upon the majority who are moral enough to place voluntary restraints upon themselves in respect for the rights of others, and so do not need a policeman. But they want to go merrily on with the exploitation and cruelties of empire for themselves and use the policeman against any who wants to do the same. So they will start with the organization of an armed force, instead of placing voluntary restraints upon themselves by formulating laws against aggression and against the exploitation of one people by another, which would give every people the right to its own lands and resources, and to determine and administer its own government. The reason this international organization will fail is the same as the reason all others have failed . . . they are banding together to protect their self-interests, and not to establish the same rights for all.

THE WAR'S OVER FOR BELGIUM

Today I received the following letter from a Belgian business firm:

"The hostilities being over, let us start with congratulating and thanking the Americans for their great contribution in the war. On our side we kept on fighting the enemy in closing up our offices, refusing to deal with him; therefore, we are anxious to restart business.

"In case you are not yet represented, we beg to solicit the favor of obtaining the general agency of your firm for Europe.

"No doubt, if you wish to extend your export business you will have to take the opportunity as soon as possible, in order to benefit from the first years of prosperity, during which the whole of Europe will have to be reconstructed. We shall in due course let you have our bank, official, business, and private references.

"In both cases, please let us have your full documentation, which is always useful to our documentary department.

"Awaiting your favorable reply, we remain, etc."

As you can gather, the war must be over. MERCHANDISER

HELPFUL AND COURTEOUS.

Chicago, March 22.—May I use this means of expressing my gratitude publicly to the Friend of the Yanks, Sally Joy Brown, and Bundles for America? They were all very helpful and courteous to me. A MERCHANT SEAMAN.

LETTERS THAT WON'T BE READ.

Chicago, March 23.—I feel that nothing should be left undone for the welfare and happiness for our boys in the service, especially those on the fighting front. Speaking as a father whose son made the supreme sacrifice in France on Armistice day last, it is disconcerting to say the least, to have letters returned presently that were written and air mailed last August and September. This was three and four months before the boy died. If they had been properly handled, they might have given the boy some comfort, as every boy eagerly looks forward to mail from home. It would also have given his parents the comforting knowledge that in their small way they had contributed to his welfare and happiness.

I dread now the thought of returned parcels that were sent him which contained tidbits and the like and which he asked for—but which he may not have received. One also wonders what thoughts ran thru our boy's mind when he failed to get letters from home and the packages he asked for.

I am quite sensible of the fact that mistakes occur in any large scale operation, however, the boys in the services are giving their all and certainly all of our "all" is little or nothing in comparison. B. R. JACOB.

HE WON A TRIP.

Clintonville, Wis., March 18.—I am very grateful, and wish to thank you for the privileges of traveling to Chicago at the expense of THE TRIBUNE in connection with my winning essay on Lincoln.

Every one at Tribune Tower treated me magnificently. Every one had a word of encouragement and advice, especially Mr. Philip Maxwell, who attended to minute details and did everything to make our stay a pleasure. Believe me, when I left Chicago I left with a wonderful impression of THE TRIBUNE.

All I can say of my achievement thru THE TRIBUNE is the fact that only in a land such as this could I have realized the opportunity. Every one, regardless of race, class, or creed, has the right to unhindered advancement in this country. MELVIN JAUCK.

LET THEM SUBMIT THEIR CASES

Chicago, March 31—I would like to give a solution to the Polish-Russian boundary issue. Why not send representatives from both the London Polish cabinet and the Lublin Polish gang to the San Francisco rally and let all the allied nations hear both sides?

After all, no one can deny the fact that Poland as a whole fought well and desperately against Nazi Germany.

HENRY SIWICHI.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

INHERITANCE TAX EXEMPTION

Chicago, March 29—How much inheritance tax must be paid on an estate of $5,000 which a child receives from his father? C. R.

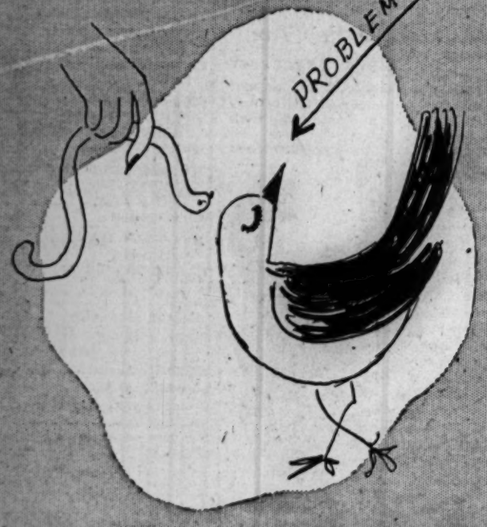
Marshall Field & Company

April 4, 1945

Dear public...



Did you ever try to make a robin eat a worm? Sounds simple? Then try it someday! In our first television show—"Signs of Spring" that was just one of our problems. There was just nothing about that worm that interested that robin. Finally, in desperation, we resorted to a papier-mâche robin and a rope worm!

WHEN IT COMES TO TELEVISION WE'RE EARLY BIRDS!

- Our brand new television show is on the air today
- Come in at 3:30 p. m. See our show on our television screen

We know we're rushing the television season! We were the first to sponsor television commercially in the Middle West—now we're at it again with a new show. (Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. over WBKB). Come in today to our radio-phonograph section—Fourth Floor, South, Wabash; see us on the air!

Someday you'll have your own television screen—just about over the fireplace there, or maybe on the kitchen wall. But we know there are relatively few sets in the Middle West. We know we are putting on a show "practically behind closed doors." But we're thinking of tomorrow when 4,000,000 of you may see our "perfected" television—born out of our experiments today. Our first show was "Signs of Spring"—a hat fashion show. Today it's our Garden Spot on the air—the story of Thurman Therkle's Thumb. Come in at 3:30 p. m.—see our television show on our receiver sets, Fourth Floor, South, Wabash

BARLOW LEADS ZIMMERMAN AT BADGER POLLS

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3 [Special]—On the basis of incomplete returns from today's Wisconsin judicial election it appeared tonight that Justice Elmer Barlow, the incumbent, seeking election to a 10 year term, was decisively defeating Fred R. Zimmerman [R.], secretary of state.

In 1,225 of the state's 3,109 precincts reported, Barlow had 84,391 to 43,785 for Zimmerman, long recognized as the best vote getter in Wisconsin politics. Zimmerman, a former governor, is not a lawyer.

Returns from the same number of precincts showed a slow race for the office of superintendent of public instruction between John Callahan, incumbent for 25 years, and Arthur Jorgensen, Columbus. Callahan had 11,954 votes to 6,570 for Jorgensen.

The 5,400-horsepower Diesel freight locomotives of the ROCK ISLAND LINES pull 125 loaded freight cars—approximately 6,400 tons—at a speed of 70 miles per hour!

This is but one example of what ROCK ISLAND, one of America's railroads, is doing to establish outstanding performance records in the handling of war traffic . . . records never dreamed of, let alone approached, in the past.

We are proud that the progress we planned yesterday made us ready for today's big job . . . ready to perform a vital service in this war emergency. The Program of Planned Progress of the ROCK ISLAND LINES has been, and is, a continuing effort. It has held the railroad in a position of leadership and promises even greater development in future years.

As yesterday—and today—so tomorrow, ROCK ISLAND'S sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation.

Aluminum box cars are now in service on the ROCK ISLAND LINES. They are made of the same special high tensile aluminum alloy used in B-29 Bombers! MINERS CLOSE SOFT COAL PITS DESPITE LEWIS

Production Is Slashed to 60% of Normal.

Washington, D. C., April 3 (AP)—Soft coal mining was shut down today in many parts of the country despite a 30-day union contract extension.

The solid fuels administration said production today was only 60 per cent of normal. It predicted output tomorrow would rise to 80 per cent, with full production Thursday.

Mine workers gave a variety of reasons for remaining away from the pits. Operators ordered shutdowns in some instances. A member of the United Mine Workers Negotiating committee here blamed slow delivery of President John L. Lewis' back-to-work telegrams of Sunday for much of the idleness.

"They will be back to work in the morning," this source said.

Seen as "Inspired" Move

On the other hand, an operator said the widespread work suspensions looked "like an inspired move."

This was the first regular work day of the week, since there was widespread delayed observance yesterday of "John Mitchell Day," a miners' holiday which fell on Sunday.

Lewis, who instructed the 400,000 members of his union to continue work thru April under the contract which expired Saturday night with the stipulation that pay changes would be retroactive, negotiated briefly again today with the operators. Lewis would not comment on today's shutdowns. The negotiating committees are to report progress by Saturday to the war labor board, which ordered the 30-day extension.

Perils Steel Production

At Pittsburgh, Pa., some steel companies reported the effects of a shutdown would be felt at the mills in a week or so. Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation said eight blast furnaces would be forced to close tomorrow unless the coke situation improved.

John Busarello, president of U. M. W. District 5, said 1,200 coal miners at Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation's Vesta mine No. 4, at California, Pa., today voted to ignore pleas of union leaders and continue their walkout.

Widespread shutdowns were reported in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Alabama, Indiana, Virginia, Washington, Oregon, and the Arkansas-eastern Oklahoma district. Operations were nearly normal in Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, and the Chattanooga, Tenn., subdivision of district 17.

30,000 Out in Pennsylvania.

In Pennsylvania, reports to the solid fuels administration showed more than 30,000 of the state's 100,000 miners were idle today. At some of the mines the workers said they had not had an opportunity to vote on the question of extending the contract. Operators and workers believed many of the mines would reopen tomorrow.

The Society for Contemporary American Art will give a buffet supper and preview of the collection at 6:30 p. m. next Tuesday in the institute. The Britannica staff will give a luncheon for the visiting artists and other interested persons in the Arts club Wednesday noon, and that night there will be a dinner in the Drake preceding the reception. That may continue for five years.

At the society's informal buffet supper Tuesday, E. H. Powell, president of the encyclopedia, and Walter Yust, editor, will give short talks. Robert M. Other famous artists represented in the collection include Grant Wood, Georgia O'Keeffe, Doris Lee, Salvador Dali, George Bellows, and Charles Burchfield.

Thru the Looking Glass

A violet perfume—dry, sweet, and deliciously springlike—is a lot more dependable than the weather man if you yearn for the spirit lift that is supposed to come with April.

We unearthed an old pet of ours on a blue, wet Monday morning not long ago. It did wonders not only for us but also for the office bystanders, who sniffed appreciatively and promptly stopped grouching. There's something about violet, when it's true, that has all the magic of rose colored glasses on dark days.

And this old favorite of ours [it's been one of the fine violets for many years] is a true one. It doesn't have that sickly, sugary overtone that makes the poor translations so icky. It has the sweet note and the dry green note. One drop of it smoothed on your wrists or sprayed on your handkerchief makes you feel all crisp and gay, and full of faith in a better world soon.

This is a young perfume, perfect for women of all ages and all types, especially at this time of year. It's ladylike, but not characterless, and it has that old fashioned, subtle kind of charm that men adore because it's as feminine and soft as a wisp of veiling. And it is a good perfume, well made, of fine oils, which means it's one that will last. The scent lingers, delicately and attractively, for hours on end.

It's not expensive either, this spring-in-a-bottle. You'll find it in little bottles and big ones, and it's as nice a spring tonic as you'll find anywhere. ELEANOR NANGLE.

WAC Students Creating New Paris Fashions

BY ANNE BRUYERE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 3—WACs from America's middle west are creating new Paris styles. Mme. Michele Amblard, director of the fashion school of the French dressmakers' guide, La Chambre Sundicale de la Couture Parisienne, said today that American students are developing unusual ideas in design.

Extremely narrow belts made of piping, shorter than hip length jackets, and plaiting cut on the bias are among the new fashion fancies of WAC students, some of whom had never done any sewing back home.

"We're instructed to do all our preliminary work on dummies," she said. "We pin the material at the shoulders and allow the folds to hang loosely. We then fashion the model as we choose. Ideas come by themselves.

"I happened to pick up a bit of red yarn and fasten it at the waist of a printed dress. The narrow bit of color, repeating the tone, pleased me, so I decided to make a belt of piping, which I also used at the high neckline and smooth shoulders."

Another WAC student, Clarellen Hume, 432 Walnut st., Danville, Ill., who previously had studied designing in Chicago and New York, described the differences between the American and French methods.

"Back home we are given patterns to cut out and sew," she said. "In Paris we make our own dummies. In America we're trained to make a dozen dresses in the time it takes to design a single skirt here."

The fashion school attended by the WACs is the only one of its kind in Europe and supplies 95 per cent of the skilled workers in Parisian couturier establishments. Thousands of students from all over France follow a three year course, which includes basting, stitching, cutting, designing, finishing, embroidering, and plaiting. The history of art and costume is also studied. Weekly tours to museums, expositions, and fashion shows to train the eye are required.

The school was started 15 years ago by Madeleine Viennet, Jean Patou, and Maggy Rouff. Most of the new couturiers have been graduated from it. For unusual sketches and ideas the students receive high prices from fashion houses, which also encourage seniors by awarding contracts to the winners of annual contests. The WACs also are eligible for this competition.

ON THE AISLE

By Claudia Cassidy

Something Different in Joint Recitals and Some Notes on the Theater and Ballet

Unusual, this idea of a joint recital between baritone and double bass, but considering what happened in Orchestra hall last night I doubt that it becomes a habit. Stefan Kozakevich prefaced his contemporary Russian songs with the Moussorgsky song cycle, "Songs and Dances of Death," a somnolent but at the same time menacing series in which he who inadvertently goes to sleep never wakes up. Otto Hyna was more merciful as he diligently worked at the intractable instrument which makes men bow low to play it. If you found even the diligent double bass less than a virtuoso instrument, at least his Nocturne and Rhapsody had no threatening lyrics to disturb the drowsy.

Mr. Kozakevich used to be one of the San Carlo Opera's baritones, and the routine of interminable performance tied his voice in hard knots. Of more recent seasons he has been untying those knots one by one, releasing a baritone that has quality, but as yet not much range or security of tone. It is still too limited in use to make anything but monotony of the Moussorgsky subtleties, and it had little better luck in not too distinguished songs of Koval, Khachaturian, Miaskowsky, and Kabalevsky. Still, an occasional hint of true Russian beauty creeps in, and when all those knots are untied, who knows what may happen? William Whitaker's accompaniments were a step in the right direction.

High Time Department

Playwrights being what they aren't of late, Tennessee Williams honorably excepted, it's good news to hear that Robert Sherwood will have a new play next season, probably with Spencer Tracy in the cast. Mr. Sherwood hasn't done much but ghost speeches and such since "There Shall Be No Night," and Mr. Tracy has been an international camera subject since "The Last Mile." Meanwhile, the Lunts, who went to London in "There Shall Be No Night" and stayed there, are being importuned by John C. Wilson to come home next season in their current London play, "Love in Idleness." The Theater Guild, of course, wants them for that revival of "The Guardsman."

Ballet—at a Distance

Markova fans who can't wait to see her back in ballet might consider New York's Metropolitan Opera house April 22, when she dances "Giselle," "Pas de Quatre," and "Romeo and Juliet," Beecham conducting, with Ballet Theater, having stepped over briefly from "Seven Lively Arts." The ballet's spring season is on now, with several scheduled novelties. Nijinska's "Harvest Time" is due tomorrow night with Toumanova and Kriza, while Massine's "Moonlight Sonata" [a disappointment here] is scheduled for Saturday, and Tudor's "Undertow" for April 19.

Card Tourney to Close

Start the Right Child Training and Keep It Up

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If you start your baby right, you'll find it much easier to keep him or her going in that direction. As a matter of fact, if you do this it is so infinitely better, so infinitely happier for all concerned, so infinitely easier than starting wrong and getting right.

"O, dear," sighed a young mother. "I suppose I wouldn't be so tired and Johnny wouldn't cry so much if I'd only started him off differently.

"Secretly I used to make fun of Amy because she was so much in earnest about her baby. She stuck to a program as nearly as she could—which I thought wasn't really necessary—but I admit now that she and Ann are away out in front, and you realize the serenity in that household. . . ."

Give a baby or child health, the right environment, the right kind of people to care for him, and he's not going to form [chronically, at least] one or more of the bad habits which are so difficult to break: Poor sleeping habits, thumb sucking, feeding difficulties. This is not theory, this is fact. This is not high sounding idealism; it is proven practical experience.

As a child grows older he is exposed to various influences. Keep posted as to what these are, and where they are harmful, remove them. Or if that isn't advisable or simply can't be done, neutralize them. Offset them by words or actions of your own. You can do this, but of course it means keeping posted. You have to be very much on the job—at a sacrifice to yourself, you may feel at the time—but it's worth it, I can assure you.

But above all, start right! The short period of babyhood, the years of early childhood are so tremendously, so stupendously important. Use your intelligence. Use your love, not just as demonstrativeness, but transmuted into tact, patience, understanding, and regard for the welfare of your child that he may have every chance—right from the very beginning.

It is never too early to begin to help him to form good habits and cast off bad ones.

JOURNEY UNDERGROUND

(Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune)

By Flight Officer David G. Prosser

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

By this time we had been at the Maurices' house over two weeks. The date was approximately Oct. 20. The inactivity of staying in the house had caused Herk to become restless and discouraged.

Altho at times we may have been inclined to quibble, I think both of us realized how stupid and unpleasant it would have made our stay had we done so.

Ever since we had arrived M. Pelerin had promised to bring Herk some books written in English, but whenever I asked him about the books he countered the question by saying, "You will probably be going soon, and Herk won't have enough time to read them." As M. Pelerin had formerly been pessimistic about the date of our departure, I felt that he was probably right.

However, as time passed and we still remained at the Maurices' house, I decided to try to get some books. I impressed le Pere with the boy's need to have something written in English. He agreed with me, and promised that the next day when he was going into town to see a client, he would try to find some books for Herk.

When he returned home the following evening he told us that he had seen several English books. When I asked him where they were, he replied, "O, I didn't buy them as they were very expensive, and I did not know whether Herk wanted these particular ones."

I couldn't have been more exasperated; any book written in English would have been welcome.

"Don't worry, Claud," le Pere said, "the book vendor has a cart and I have arranged to meet him at a certain street tomorrow. As I have made his acquaintance there won't be any difficulty in getting English books."

He explained that when he had approached the bookseller that morning and asked for English books the man looked at him and said, unconvincingly, "Mais Monsier, 'c'est defendu! [But sir, it is forbidden.] "I have not been allowed to sell an English book since shortly after the Germans occupied France. Often inspectors check every book on my cart to be sure I am not violating the law. So you can see, Monsieur, you must not disobey the regulations."

Le Pere, well knowing the jargon of the black market, realized there was some way to circumvent these rules. With his wonderful gift for conversation he soon established a firm comradeship with the man. After talking for five minutes they discovered that they had both fought near one another on the Somme sector during the last war.

When the bookseller was certain that they were both veterans of this battle of the Somme, his resistance weakened and he admitted, "I think I could get you these books."

Le Pere replied with an air of sincere nonchalance, "My daughter is learning English and she has become bored with dull textbooks and wants a novel." The man thereupon produced "The Count of Monte Cristo," "Hamlet," and several other books.

The next day when Pere Maurice returned for luncheon he had "The Count of Monte Cristo" and several other volumes. Herk was delighted and immediately engrossed himself in "The Count of Monte Cristo" and afterward I almost had to shake him to get even a mumbled reply to a question.

Le Pere said that it had been raining and was miserable in Paris that morning, and he thought that we would have wet weather for several days. La Grandmere responded, "Mais oui, regardez" [but yes, look], looking at the window.

Not understanding what she meant I asked, "Look at what?"

"The pine cone, of course," she replied.

I had often seen this pine cone hanging on the outside frame of the window and wondered why it was there. La Grandmere told me in dead earnest, "It is a weather vane; when it closes we shall have rain."

To the amusement of le Pere, I declared, "That's stupid," emphasizing my statement with a wide sweep of my arms. Imitating my gesture, he swept wide his arms and cried, "But, no, Claud."

This incident was the basis of the general assumption that la Grandmere and I were always having arguments and disputes. The supposed strained relations between us were considered a great joke by all.

Rumors about our departure had greatly increased, and eventually we were told that the date had been set for Oct. 27.

Poor Herk had hardly started his 500 page book, and he was so eager to finish it that he even read between courses at the table.

Pere Maurice declared we were going to have a great feast the night before our departure. On Wednesday morning, as we were beginning preparations for it, M. Pelerin called to say our departure had been postponed until Sunday night.

This gave le Pere more time to make thoro preparations for our feast. Saturday morning he brought home a duck, which Herk was asked to pluck.

He also brought some paté that a Spaniard and his wife had given him for us to take on our trip.

I asked le Pere how these people knew about us. He admitted he had told them. I was very angry to discover he had told one more person the secret, and rebuked him, repeating my experience in Nevers. He replied, "Mais Claud, this is not a small town like Nevers — gossip doesn't travel so quickly."

I had told le Pere before that I spoke a little Spanish, so he had made me promise to address his guest in that language when he arrived. When L'Espagnol, as the man was invariably referred to, entered the room, I greeted him with my best "Buenas noches—? Que tal?"

Upon hearing these Spanish words, which I had been able to call to memory by only the greatest effort, L'Espagnol launched into a long tirade of Spanish in which I was lost after he had spoken three words.

I made the mistake of saying "Si" [yes] to everything he said. This only encouraged him, and I finally gave up hope of his ever lapsing back into French. Eventually I was forced to admit that I really didn't speak Spanish very well.

L'Espagnol was a small, dark Latin looking man, dressed in the usual cheap continental clothes. Altho he had lived in France for 20 years, he spoke French with a very Spanish accent. We sat down to the table together and I asked him to write out all the Spanish phrases I would need to know for buying a ticket, or getting directions, food, or water. As he wrote them out I pronounced each phrase.

His wife was such a striking and smartly dressed woman that it seemed difficult to believe that this scruffy little man was her husband. But in spite of the fact that he looked rather uncouth, he was evidently rich enough to buy almost anything he wanted on the black market and to visit frequently the night clubs of Montmartre.

L'Espagnol's wife was amazed to hear that two American airmen were actually being hidden here. Both Pere Maurice and Madame were very pleased at having this woman think they had done the unbelievable. When the woman asked, "But aren't you terribly afraid?" Madame only smiled, and replied they were "a bit at first."

L'Espagnol gave Herk and me each 150 grams of Belgian tobacco. We rolled cigarettes with it, but smoking it was almost impossible. After three puffs my throat was raw and sore. Herk took one puff and said to me, "You can have the rest of that stuff."

When our guests were leaving, L'Espagnol's wife again said, "I still cannot believe there are allied airmen here in Paris."

Pere Maurice, Herk, and I walked them as far as M. Pelerin's house to see if there had been any more news of our departure.

M. Pelerin told us that we would be leaving France with a group of French military personnel.

"We are taking a large number of Frenchmen out of the country now," he explained. At that time the Germans had imposed severe restrictions on ex-officers of the French army, in order to prevent their going to Africa, to join the officer corps of the new French armies Gen. De Gaulle was then building.

That evening, which then appeared to be the last in Paris, le Pere wanted me to assure him that we had been well fed. "Not luxuriously," he said, "naturally in time of war that is impossible, but still you have always had enough, haven't you?"

It was certainly true that we had never been hungry, and this occurred only because the Maurices had made a great sacrifice. They gave us the food for which they paid prohibitive prices on the black market, and sometimes delved into their stores saved for harder times. The food ration cards and the money Maurice had would have been sufficient to feed us only very meagerly.

Le Pere Maurice was not a rich man, but, as he was a wine merchant and aside from that a very good talker, he was able to make his money go further on the black market than most people. While we were there he strained every resource to get as much food as he could.

Any effort to feed us on the food obtained by his ration cards would have been impossible. These rations were grossly insufficient for the family itself, and more often than not the food to which they were entitled was not to be found at any shop. Therefore, to avoid starvation, the only alternative was the black market, which was very extensive thruout Paris. At a price, anything could be purchased on the black market.

New Negligees Include Smart French Model

BY REA SEEGER

Spring negligee collections feature fresh pastel colors, gay new prints, and a new model aptly labeled Peignor. It's the straight hanging negligee beloved of French designers, is made with long gathered sleeves, and looks like an old-fashioned nightgown opened down the front from neckline to hem without a yoke. Probably one of the simplest and most functional negligees ever made, it looks totally new and different after years of obscurity.

You'll find this model in printed sheers, with printed nightgown to match in soft clinging crepes, in sheers trimmed with satin bands and bows, and in lace. Flesh color, sky-blue, white, and black lace make some exciting models. Some are trimmed with ruffles around the hemline or down the front and have ruffles of lace or self-material, many tie at the neckline with a fetching bow, and some have bow ties at the wrists of the long sleeves. All have that unmistakable French allure—feminine and flattering. So far only pastels and the black lace models are available, but by summer washables and other sheers will appear in the same silhouette.

One of the most complete all-black showings of nightgowns, negligees, and matched sets of gown and robe includes the very thinnest of sheers and new self-dotted sheers. The negligees are made with simple gathered skirts and short as well as long sleeves, and tho many are very frilled and ruffled, extremely simple tailored models also are shown. Team these negligees with a matching simple nightgown of black and you have a gift idea, and, if the two are of jersey, an ideal travel outfit.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Stories of hands that involve the surmounting of hardships usually engage our attention. It is for this reason that I submit today's offering which proved to be the most interesting that has come to my attention in some time. The bidding perhaps calls for some stray comments. North's immediate jump shift is somewhat questionable, tho surely not subject to severe criticism. To advertise an interest in a slam without any special support for partner usually requires a hand of more solidity than the one North had the pleasure to manage. South's postponement of mentioning the heart suit is good strategy. There will be plenty of time to show it and great preference should be given to the almost solid six card suit.

When North rebid the clubs, a delicate situation and one attended with mild danger, developed. Nevertheless South had made up his mind to contract for slam and made the fancy bid of four diamonds for a dual purpose. If by some strange chance North had no strength in that suit the opposition might be persuaded not to lead it. If he did, then the way might be cleared for even bigger things.

West led the four of hearts and East followed with the three. The two of spades to the queen revealed the sad news and declarer saw that his work was cut out for him. He cashed the ace of hearts and when West followed with the two, was persuaded that the lead was from a five card suit and that East had three. Another high heart was cashed and then the diamond finesse of the queen was taken. This succeeded and on the ace of clubs South discarded a diamond. A club was then led and ruffed with the three of spades. Dummy was reëntered with the ace of diamonds and another club ruffed with the four of spades. The jack of hearts was then trumped with the 10 in dummy and East was obliged to over-ruff with the jack and return a trump, permitting declarer to win with the eight.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Quandary

There's something that's been puzzling me
In secretarial etiquet—

It's this: When bosses use my phone
Should I keep typing or desist?
If it's the latter, then they'll think
I'm hearing things I should have missed!

When I keep typing they can't hear!
Whatever I decide is wrong . . .

From Head to Toe

A welcoming letter to new employes of the Chicago branch of a merchandise house tells the white collar girls: "Good grooming acts as a magnet in attracting people to you. Customers like to deal with a nicely groomed sales person. Result? More sales!"

Moderate make-up.
Carefulness about perspiration.
Buttons firmly sewed.
Hands well groomed.
Foundation correctly fitted.
Stocking seams straight; no wrinkles, no runs.
Heels not run over.

Dear Diary BY BECKY

[Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dis and Data

There's a secretary at Boeing's Wichita plant who serves as a 27 year old mother to 40 flyers, the flyers being the production test pilots, and crewmen who put new B-29s thru their fledgling flights. Her name is Margaret Ash and she is a one woman ground crew—takes care of all their flying outfits, writes letters for the boys, keeps their flight time, makes out gasoline applications, lists defects to be corrected, and helps the pilots into their sheepskin lined flying jackets. . . . A junior WCG train gang whose members ride the Rock Island home from a Joliet high school gave Rufe Pickett, their favorite ticket collector, a billfold on his birthday the other day and sang "Happy Birthday"—all 125 of them! . . . Did you know that the Boys' Clubs of America originated as a result of a stone hurled thru the window of a mission trade school for girls in New York? It was in 1870, and Edward H. Harriman, visiting the school, decided to rent a vacant basement and give a party for the neighborhood miscreants.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 3—Mackinlay Kantor, author and war correspondent, turned over 500 pages of his new book, "Glory for Me" [formerly called "Back from the Sword"], to Sam Goldwyn. Kantor already has returned to the European battlefront. Sam suggested Kantor write this story. Naturally Sam is very enthusiastic about it. . . . Joan Crawford, since word has gotten out that she has a winner in "Mildred Pierce," is wanted by Hal Wallis for "The Perfect Marriage." RKO has a picture for her, and Warners would like to change her contract from one a year to an exclusive term deal. . . . Ann Dvorak's work in "Masquerade in Mexico" gives her a Paramount contract, and she's practically set for "Death Takes a Holiday" with Ray Milland. . . . Loretta Young bowed out of "There Goes Lona Henry," so Ben Bogeaus may sell the whole she-bang to Metro. . . . Strike trouble has postponed "Kitten on the Keys," with Maureen O'Hara and Harry James.

A Hollywood Columnist's Holiday

Easter, a day of prayer and rest, was just around and around for this reporter. First to walk my dog, then pictures of the Easter parade, and luncheon at the Arthur Freeds, where Don Loper displayed the hats he had made on Lucile Bremer's and Ruth Brady's heads. Louis Mayer had driven in from his ranch that morning for the luncheon. Jack MacGowan was present and telling Harry Warren the reason Frank McHugh is better known than he—Frank has a press agent. Buddy De Sylva was wearing rose colored glasses. Angela Lansbury was more than able to hold her own in all the repartee. Dr. May Romm, psychoanalyst, was telling me she'll soon have a busman's holiday in New York to learn more of the new psycho methods being used on returned soldiers.

More Around and Around

On to Pat Smart's for egg rolling on the lawn. I've never seen cuter children [parents pretty handsome, too!] all dressed for the occasion. The little girl who won first prize was Linda Firestone, the Leonard Firestones' daughter. She found 36 eggs in record time. Martha Kemp's little girl was cute as Christmas. One small boy, whose head came just above the table, asked Anita Colby, who was dressed in a pinafore, whether he could have another piece of cake. So he circled the table, picked out the largest piece, and stood there until he had eaten every crumb. . . . Then to Somerset House for a filet mignon, the like of which I hadn't had even before the war. Later to the Mocambo, where they were giving 15 hats for the best bonnets in the room. The three best hats were worn by a marine, a soldier, and a sailor. They got war bonds. Cobina Wright was among those who drew prizes. Harry Crocker, toastmaster, was a little handicapped by Grace Moore's exuberance, but we were all so glad to see her that even Harry forgave her.

The Good Neighbor Policy

Rita Hayworth spent her Easter on the lawn with Mexico's most famous bullfighter, a magazine photographer, and Orson Welles directing both Rita and the bullfighter as to how Rita should use his technique for dance routines. . . . The night before Orson was scheduled for a special command performance. He was too ill to make it. . . . I wonder whether it's Lana Turner who's giving all that bad advice to Turhan Bey. . . . If they ever put the life story of Jerry Giesler on the screen and tell all, or even half, that picture will turn out to be the hit of the year. . . . Elizabeth Gordon, editor of House Beautiful, was guest of honor at a charming cocktail party given by Harold Janss. Miss Gordon has glowing words about our town. She contends you can live here 20 times better than you can back east on the same money. Even the simple homes are luxurious, display novelty, and make you realize this is a home-loving community, she says. She's still laughing over a sign she saw: "Rent a dance floor for $25 and give your party in your own patio." "Now, where else on earth," she asks, "could you ever find anything like that?"

Umpires—Conlon and Boggess.

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

French Lick, Ind., April 3—The Cubs will play the Cincinnati Reds here tomorrow and Manager Charley Grimm will send what may turn out to be his opening day line-up. The line-up will not be Charley's February dream array, but it will be one with more of a National league appearance than the Reds will present.

Absences, coming and going, secrets, sore arms, a bit of mumbling here and there, had Grimm mildly on the anxious seat today as he was reminded that the National league season opens exactly two weeks hence. Here was the general situation as the last two weeks of training opened:

BILL NICHOLSON and Manager Grimm this evening held their first conversation of the spring, a long distance chat in which the National league home run, runs scored, and runs batted in champ assured his skipper he was in good physical shape, has been taking batting practice five times a week and will be in right field on opening day, possibly in the White Sox series which opens in Comiskey Park on April 11.

Bill Is Not a Holdout

As printed in these columns several weeks ago, Bill never has had any doubts in his mind about playing opening day. At that time he expressed satisfaction with his contract, which he hadn't signed. Tonight Nick assured Grimm he had forwarded his signed document.

DEWEY WILLIAMS, en route to Durham, N. C., where he will accompany Mrs. Williams to a hospital.

CHARLEY GASSAWAY. Not so loud, gents, some one might hear you.

BILL SCHUSTER. Shush, fellows.

In addition to the foregoing the camp retains two more or less infirm stars—Eddie Hanyzewski, who continues to fret about his long-ailing arm, and Lennie Merullo, who also has a sore arm, sore in the normal course of events and occasioning little alarm.

INDIANS OPTION PALICA, HOOKS TO BALTIMORE

Lafayette, Ind., April 3 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians started trimming their overloaded mound staff today by returning Ambrose Palica and George Hooks to Baltimore on option.

Palica has been accepted for military service and is subject to call, while Hooks is a discharged veteran who served overseas.

Soldiers See Sox, Tigers Battle Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Terre Haute, Ind., April 3—Jim Dykes' White Sox will be formally unveiled tomorrow against big league competition and the unveiling will include Detroit's Tigers, the team that many have decided will be in a world series role next October.

The big event—and it is big in view of the scarcity of worthwhile exhibitions this spring—will be staged at George field, 50 some miles to the south of here, and while the gate will be restricted to service personnel both Dykes and Steve O'Neill, the Tiger manager, plan to show what they consider their best available talent.

Moses in Leadoff Spot

It will be the first of five preseason meetings between the two American league nines and the results thereof may furnish a clue as to the Sox chances of not repeating their 1944 seventh place job.

Dykes will go back tomorrow to his first choice for leadoff man—Wally Moses, the right fielder—and this arrangement probably will be permanent, at least until such time as Wally gets a postcard from Uncle Sam. Oris Hockett, the ex-Indian who did the leadoff work in one camp game, has been put back into the No. 2 notch, this also being an arrangement that will remain effective thru April 17. Whether Hockett will actually play much tomorrow is questionable because of his leg injury but if he needs relief he'll get it from Johnny Dickshot.

Nagel at First Base

Joe Orengo, who has been due since March 12, is still engaged in what seems to be a hitch-hiking trip from San Francisco so Bill Nagel will continue to serve as a first baseman as well as cleanup hitter behind Left Fielder Guy Curtright.

Dykes' pitching tomorrow will be in charge of Ed Lopat, the lefty. Joe Haynes, and Bill Dietrich. The latter apparently is being made to suffer because of a late reporting act. The Sox manager wanted to give Thornton Lee a whirl, he being a possibility along with Lopat and Dietrich for the season's opener at Cleveland, but the luckless Lee was indisposed today.

Face Tiger Stars Later

The Tigers have two pretty good pitchers in Hal Newhouser and Paul Trout, but O'Neill sent word from his Evansville training site that he wouldn't use them unless the soldier guests became insistent. O'Neill who thinks two pitchers per exhibition are enough — whereas Dykes believes in having three share the job—wants to employ Leslie Mueller and Walter Wilson.

If the Sox don't have to look at either Newhouser or Trout tomorrow they won't be mad about it and neither will they be fooled. They have already heard that the two mound experts are going to perform against them here in the Saturday and Sunday games of the impending series.

HOPPE DEFEATS COCHRAN TWICE IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., April 3—(AP)—Veteran Willie Hoppe picked up 40 points on Welker Cochran of San Francisco today in their cross-country three-cushion billiard title match, defeating the champion in two 60 point blocks. He now leads Cochran by 98 points.

He won the afternoon session, 60 to 31, in 28 innings and captured the night encounter, 60 to 49, in 45 innings. Hoppe racked up three runs of six to Cochran's top of five in the afternoon.

BASEBALL GIVES A $185,093 CHECK TO U.S. WAR FUND

New York, April 3 (AP)—The national war fund today received a check for $185,093.31 as its share of the receipts of the 1944 world series at St. Louis.

Prescott B. Bush, vice president of the fund, announced $347,871.05 was turned over to the organization by professional baseball last year thru the series and regular season benefit games. The Red Cross got an equal amount.

TONIGHT at 7:55 o'clock Frank Bennett's singers will give out with "The Golden Gloves Salute," theme song of the world's greatest amateur boxing tournament. . . . Five minutes later spotlights will break out from the ceiling and pick out two young men clad for fighting. . . . There will be the deep clang of the Stadium bell and the 18th annual Intercity show will be off to its thrilling and dramatic start. . . . Before an overflow crowd of more than 20,000 the boys who fight for fun will battle it out for the most coveted prize of sport. . . . Fighting for fun, incidentally, is a curiously misleading phrase. . . . Eddie Eagan, who now is chairman of the New York boxing commission, several years ago wrote a magazine piece called "Fighting for Fun." . . . It's a little difficult to figure where there's fun in getting a solid punch on the nose, a cut eye, a split lip, or a left hook to the midsection. . . . Maybe fun is the wrong word.

. . . Release seems to be a better one. . . . Release from the routine of army camps, marine bases, or from the humdrum of machines or desks comes when these fellows step into the spotlight's glare and hear themselves acclaimed by 20,000 fans. . . . They're in the big time. . . . They have arrived. . . . They are the focal point for a crowd that jams the largest indoor arena in the United States. . . . They are the whole show. . . . That is their reward, for the men you will see tonight standing toe to toe are fighting only for glory and the thrill they get out of winning. . . . We know of no other event in sport more thoroly amateur than Golden Gloves. . . .

New York never has beaten Chicago in the latter's ring in all 17 years of Intercity competition. . . . In fact, the easterners have whipped our teams only four times in that long span. . . . Chicago has won 10 times and there have been three ties. . . . Only once in the last 10 years has New York been victorious. . . . That was by 9 to 7 in New York three years ago. . . . We wouldn't want you to wager your entire string of polo ponies or copper mines on our recommendation, but this is the year Pop Knickerbocker's sluggers may crack the ice. . . . We saw his boys in the New York finals and unless our fighters have improved remarkably under the tutelage of Capt. Johnny Behr, Issy Kline, and Fred Caserio since we saw them in our finals, they'll get banged around a bit tonight. . . . We hope we're wrong, because it would be a shame to let up on New York now. . . . The last time the easterners visited the Stadium, our fellows overwhelmed them, 14 to 2, the most one-sided match in the history of the series. . . . Officials accompanying the team were so doggoned mad, they thought they never would meet us out here again. . . . They said we used scrap iron for bandages. . . . They contended we had spied on their workouts. . . . They couldn't accuse us of fixing the judges and referees, because all of them are neutrals, from outside both Chicago and New York . . . We never have seen a gang quite so mad as that 1943 New York troupe. . . . If we could defeat them that decisively again, they would burst with rage, a spectacle which would not be displeasing to us at all.

Wings in Cup Finals; Defeat Bruins, 5 to 3

Detroit, Mich., April 3 (AP)—Veteran Carl Liscombe advanced the Detroit Red Wings into the Stanley Cup hockey finals tonight with a four goal foray that beat the Boston Bruins, 5 to 3, in the seventh game of the semi-final series before a record crowd of 14,508.

The Red Wings will meet Toronto's Maple Leafs here Friday night in the first game of the cup finals.

The largest crowd ever to see a major league hockey game on Detroit ice went wild in the final period tonight when Liscombe's third goal, the hat trick shot, put the Red Wings in the lead and again when with six seconds to play and Boston playing without a goalie, he counted his fourth.

Liscombe Scores First Goal

The Red Wings reached the cup finals after a bitter uphill fight in the series with the Bruins. After dropping the first two games on their home ice, the Wings evened it at Boston and wer never behind in games again.

Tonight the Wings seized the first break when Murray Henderson was penalized in the opening period, Liscombe firing a 50 foot goal from left wing on a pass from Bill Hollett. This was Liscombe's first point of the series.

Jack McGill tied the score for Boston 45 seconds before the first period ended, but less than four minutes after the start of the next period Liscombe sent his second goal past Bibeault who had dropped to save on Mud Bruneteau's shot.

The Boston line centered by Bill Cowley tied the count again at 8:50 of the second period, Herb Cain scoring a 10 foot goal on Cowley's pass.

Bruins Take 3-2 Lead.

Eddie Bruneteau shook the Bostonians with a beautiful solo dash two minutes after the third period started, tying the count, and then Liscombe personally took charge of the game. His two goals, on both of which Joe Carveth got assists, means Detroit fans will see their first Stanley Cup final series since the Wings won the cup two years ago. Score:

Five Former Wildcats in Iwo Jima Raid

Five former Northwestern university athletes, four of them members of the 1941 football team, participated in the battle for Iwo Jima. All five survived the sanginary 26 day campaign.

The four team mates on the Wildcats' 1941 eleven, all marines, were Lieutenants Nick Burke and Joe Cook, guards; Don Johnson, center; and Bill Deodiuc, full back. The fifth N. U. athlete who took part in the battle was Lt. Tilman Krelling of the navy, a member of the 1944 basketball team.

CHICAGO AND NEW YORK BOXING STARS MEET IN STADIUM RING BEFORE MORE THAN 20,000

Easterners Plotting Revenge for Past Defeats

BY BILL MURTHA

So far as the New York Golden Gloves coaches are concerned the Intercity bouts with the Chicago Tribune champions are over. Of course there's the little matter of nailing down the lid on the victory tonight in the Stadium, but as Teddy Martin, one of the trio of New York coaches, said yesterday, "We win or lose these fights in the training period. We've had a good two weeks, unbelievably good, we think, but we'll know more about that toward 11 o'clock tomorrow."

The easterners have been encouraged immensely by the obvious respect in which they're held by the Chicago coaches. Head Coach John Behr has been telling his Chicago young men that this is the best eastern team that has come here in many years, and the easterners are convinced that this isn't a fairy tale to forestall overconfidence. They think he means it.

Easterners Take It Easy

The Chicagoans, the New Yorkers believe, haven't had too much regard for the teams they met in these Intercity bouts in the last two years, and their record against New York shows that they were about right. The count in '43 was 14 to 2, a pasting that still is a recurrent nightmare to the eastern coaches. Last year's respectable 9 to 7 result really represented an even better performance by the east than the score shows. The deciding bout was the evening windup and the margin by which Ragon Kinney, Chicago heavyweight, won over Jerry Jackson of New York was thinner than a drug store sandwich.

Yesterday's final workout for the New Yorkers could only be called that because they appeared at the C. Y. O. in gym togs. Actually they spent the greater part of their time having their pictures taken. What drilling was done was desultory and short, hardly even a sweating-out session.

They're Straining at Leash

The New York youngsters appear on edge. Some of the nicest lads on the team are ready to bite each other's ears off. They're set, they know it, and they're itching to step into the ring and show what they can do. Injuries haven't been a problem with this squad since the first couple of days of training, and the weight situation hasn't been serious in any case and nonexistent in most. Altho the daily weight chart the coaches keep is as secret as a diplomatic code it is known that several of the New York champions who are scheduled to fight will be giving away several pounds to their western opponents. The eastern coaches, of course, refuse to say who their light lads are but they're actually not too concerned. They'd throw some of their champs in—and with confidence—if they had to spot Chicago 20 pounds.

So smooth has been the routine that Dr. Benjamin P. Malerba, the team physician, admitted yesterday his jaunt to Chicago has been just a pleasant vacation.

Welcome Packed House

Many of the young men on the team were pleased to hear that the Chicago Stadium will have an even larger throng on hand to watch them than the two record breaking crowds of over 19,000 which saw the New York city finals and final night of the eastern Tournament of Champions. Apparently they learned to enjoy the full throated roar of the crowd and the prospect of performing again before a capacity house is a pleasant one.

The New York boys will pack away dinner after the 1:45 p. m. weigh-in this afternoon at the C. Y. O. and then got off their feet until its time to leave for the Stadium.

JACUNSKI JOINS NOTRE DAME'S COACHING STAFF

Notre Dame, Ind., April 3 [Special]—Harry Jacunski, star end for the Green Bay Packers for the last six years, today was signed as end coach by Notre Dame and assumed his new duties at this afternoon's practice. Jacunski replaces Clem Crowe, who resigned recently to become head football coach at the University of Iowa.

Jacunski, a 1939 graduate of Fordham, starred on the Fordham teams of 1936-'37-'38. In his playing days there his end coach was Hugh Devore, now acting head coach and director of athletics at Notre Dame, who signed him to his contract today.

Both Teams Are in Top Shape for 18th Match in Series

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The 1945 Intercity Golden Gloves battle between Chicago and New York, potentially the most explosive in the 18 year history of the series between the two cities, will reach the for-keeps stage at 8 o'clock tonight in the Chicago Stadium. A capacity crowd of more than 20,000 will witness the punch packed program of 16 bouts, two in each weight division, which will determine supremacy in one of the most bitter fistic vendettas of the season.

Reserved seats at $1.20 each can be purchased today between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. in the Tribune public service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower lobby. A block of 3,000 general admission tickets will be placed on sale at gates 1, 3, and 6 of the Stadium at 8 p. m.

Show Has Built Tradition

The Intercity joust provides one of the most spirited rivalries in American sport. It has produced such outstanding boxers as Joe Louis, Barney Ross, Ray Robinson, Tony Zale, and Bob Pastor. It has been the perennial fighting rendezvous for a series of bouts the like of which you won't find in another year of leather bombardment.

Each contestant is allotted three rounds of three minutes each to demonstrate that he is the best man in the nation at his weight, and no Golden Gloves candidate, win or lose, of the thousands who have fought in the last 17 years, has failed to prove himself on the most important score of all—true American courage.

Light Heavies in Final Bout

The featherweights will open tonight's program at 8 o'clock. They will be followed in order by the middleweights, flyweights, heavyweights, welterweights, bantamweights, and lightweights with the 175 pounders providing the climax of the evening.

The Intercity competition between Chicago and New York is no innovation. Since it first was held in Chicago's Coliseum on March 24, 1928, it has been a consistent proving ground of skill and grit. The record of the first 17 struggles between the two shows a marked superiority for Chicago, with our young men having won 10, while losing four and tying three.

Remember Last Visit

The intensity of the feud is such that five of the last eight contests have resulted in 9 to 7 victories, all of them for Chicago, including last year's thriller in the New Yorkers' own Madison Square Garden. That 1944 triumph would have been one to remember, but the thing that still rankles in the visiting coaches' minds is the score in 1943, the last year the easterners came here. They were mighty good that semester, but went away smarting from a 14 to 2 defeat, the most convincing victory either team has scored in the series.

The 1945 team, tutored by Teddy Martin, Pete Mello and George Gainford, is a new squad. It is the first to conduct a special training session away from its home base, having undergone a strenuous preparatory drill at Bear Mountain, N. Y., before arriving here last Saturday morning.

Chicagoans Ready Too.

RACING PLANS NEW MOVE TO AID WAR RELIEF

Veterans to Profit Thru Turf Contributions

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Now that the powers in Washington have given horse racing a really bright ray of hope that the sport will be resumed thruout the nation ere long, Chicago track operators and the Illinois racing board are giving thought to what they can do to make the 1945 season even more profitable to war veterans' funds and other welfare organizations than in 1944, when all records went by the board.

No plans have crystalized, naturally, in the few days since James F. Byrnes, then war mobilization director, issued his statement that the ban on racing would be lifted as soon as the situation in Europe no longer necessitated the restrictions laid down in the government's surprise move late last December. However, Illinois has taken the lead in a movement to make each anniversary of D-day—the day the allied armies invaded France—an occasion when all sports will stage special events and dedicate the proceeds to the American veterans of World War II.

Million Dollar Charity Year

Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the Illinois racing board, has intimated that racing's part in the celebration this year will be a big one financially for the veterans.

Illinois had its first million dollar charity year in 1944 when $1,170,227.07 was raised by the six tracks in the state. Of this amount The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., raised $645,800.04 with a five day meeting at Washington Park for which all of the five Chicago tracks contributed one day of their allotted schedules, and a six day meeting at Sportsman's Park.

Raise Total of $1,170,227.07

The charity program at Washington Park July 3 to July 7 during the Arlington Park meeting netted $400,800.04. The program at Sportsman's netted $245,000. Following is a list of the war relief and charity contributions from racing last year at the six Illinois tracks:

Arlington Park	$ 409,061.14
Sportsman's Park	304,000.00
Washington Park	133,289.86
Lincoln Fields	117,383.12
Hawthorne	108,223.08
Fairmount Park [Collinsville]	9,269.88
Total	$1,170,227.07

In addition, $1,479,575 in war bonds and stamps were purchased by the racing associations, their employes, horsemen, and racing patrons.

Last year racing thruout the nation gave $8,066,710.02 to war relief and charity organizations, not including approximately $250,000 in track admissions waived by associations as an inducement for turf fans to increase their purchases of war bonds.

Golden Gloves Program Hits Peak Tonight

sembling one of the most sharply conditioned teams ever to hop into the Stadium ring. Their coaches' biggest problem has been to restrain them. To this end, they held only one real boxing session in the headquarters in the gymnasium of the Catholic Youth organization. For two days, including yesterday, they have confined their exercises to floor and mat work. The only exception was Eddie Murphy, the gangling New York lightweight champion who was permitted to go two rounds on Monday against Leon Johnson. This dispensation was allowed, it was said, to curb Eddie's eagerness to get at his Chicago opponent.

If New York is determined to score victory No. 5 in the series, the Chicago team coached by Capt. Johnny Behr, Fred Caserio, Issy Kline, Pop Howard, Dick Fitzpatrick, and Eddie Nichols, also is equipped with the old college try. Yesterday, Caserio put the Chicagoans thru the rord work session which had been canceled by Monday morning's rain. Fred then conducted the finals of a pocket billiards tournament wherein Pete Blouir, Gary heavyweight, won the title, 61 to 59, from Corp. Adolfo Quijano, the flying 175 pound soldier who will captain the Chicago team tonight. The remainder of the day was spent in a light workout in the I. A. C. gym and in trying out the official white, navy-blue trimmed uniforms.

HESSEL, TORRES HEAD FRONTON CARD TONIGHT

Gordon Hessel will meet Miguel Torres in a wrestling show tonight in Rainbo fronton, 4836 N. Clark st. Hessel will be making one of his last appearances prior to leaving in two weeks for an overseas tour of service camps under the auspices of the united service organizations.

Also in the troupe will be Rudy Kay, Joe Dorsetti, Fred Nicholas, and Al Williams. Nicholas will double as referee and manager of the tour. Williams was the only one of seven wrestlers to escape death when an army transport plane crashed in France last month.

Chicago Roller Entry Triumphs Again, 16-12

The Chicago roller derby team won its fifth out of seven games from the New York team last night, defeating the visitors, 16 to 12, before 3,100 spectators in the Coliseum. Capt. Bill Bogash of Chicago led the men with five points. Alice Buchak of New York led the girls' field with three points.

BROOKLYN TIGERS AGREEABLE TO BOSTON MERGER

New York, April 3 (AP)—The Brooklyn Tigers, currently the orphans of the National Football league, would be willing to merge with the Boston Yanks for the 1945 season, Acting President Tom Gallery said today on the eve of an important league meeting.

"We will do it if it will help the league," Gallery said. "We don't have a coach and they have a good one." Gallery, who runs the club for Capt. Dan Topping, who is on duty with the marines in the Pacific, also might have said that the Tigers won't have a home park unless a favorable decision on their use of the Yankee stadium is reached at tomorrow's executive committee meeting or during the general league meeting which starts Friday.

Bidwill on Committee

The Tigers announced they no longer would play their games in Ebbets field after Branch Rickey of the Dodgers refused to agree to a long term lease. Before the Tigers can play in Yankee stadium, now owned by Topping, Larry MacPhail, and Del Webb, the New York football Giants must waive their territorial rights. So far President Jack Mara of the Giants has refused to give any indication of his club's attitude.

Mara and Gallery both are members of the league's executive committee, along with Curly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers and Charles Bidwill of the Chicago Cardinals. Gallery also said that he planned to discuss the matter by telephone with Owner Topping.

The proposed one year merger with Boston would not delay a site decision, since the team's home games would be divided between Boston and New York. Boston's coach is Herbert Kopf.

LAYDEN AND AIDS LEAVE

Elmer Layden, president of the National Football league, and two of his aids left yesterday afternoon for New York to attend today's executive session of the National Football league. This precedes the league meeting which will be held Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in the Commodore hotel. In Layden's party was Dennis Shea, league treasurer, and George Strickler, public relations director.

Charles Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, and member of the executive group, also left yesterday with the league officials. Today other officials of the Cards and Chicago Bears will leave for the east. These include Arch Wolfe, business manager, and Coach Phil Handler, of the Cards, and Ralph Brizzolara, acting president of the Bears. Co-Coach Luke Johnsos and Vice President Walter Halas of the Bears will leave tomorrow. Hugh [Shorty] Ray, the league's rules expert, also will attend the sessions.

MILLS AND MEYER TO TALK BEFORE PREP COACHES

A basketball clinic, in connection with the annual inter-league charity double header sponsored by Mayor Kelly and scheduled for Chicago Stadium Saturday night, will be held in the Stadium Saturday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. Attendance will be restricted to coaches of the Catholic and City leagues.

Professional basketball technique will be explained by Abe Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globe Trotters and Detroit Eagles; the Illinois style of offense, by Doug Mills, basketball coach at Illinois, and the DePaul system, by Coach Ray Meyer.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, secretary of the annual charity double header, said yesterday that if student and adult general admission tickets are not available at the schools, they can be purchased at 33 N. La Salle st., room 1022. The price is 70 cents for students and $1.25 for adults. There also are some reserved seats which sell for $2.50 available at the downtown office.

Abe Lee Gains Boxing Title in A. A. U. Meet

Boston, Mass., April 3 (AP)—A pair of Indian battlers on Oklahoma City's five man team dominated the championship action in the National A. A. U. boxing tournament by capturing top honors in the 118 and 126 pound classes tonight before 8,613 in the Boston Garden. The others crowned as 1945 champions came from New Orleans, Philadelphia, Chicago, Buffalo, Alexandria, Va., and Cleveland.

Bantamweight Amos Aitson and Featherweight Virgil Franklin were the Indian victors. Aitson convinced the officials by dropping Henry Levesque of Fall River with a terrific right to the jaw just as the bell sounded on their final.

Lee Is Tourney Star.

The two-day tourney's outstanding battler was Abe Lee, the 147 pound Chinese-American from Chicago, who gained his title with a three round technical knockout verdict over Bill Truel, a Philadelphia Negro from the Quonset [R. I.] naval air station. Truel dropped twice for nine counts before the bout was halted.

Allan Faulkner, a Buffalo Negro, became the 160 pound titlist by blasting out the hard punching Stanley Sheley of Chicago in the third. A third round technical knockout gave Jetson Arnold of Philadelphia the 135 pound title in his final with James Willey of Columbus, O.

Hamilton Beats Eisen

Keith Hamilton, 16 year old New Orleans youngster, gave an impressive exhibition of left jabbing while gaining the 112 pound title from Vic Eisen of Buffalo. Dick Nutt of Alexandria, Va., and Carmen Fredericks of Cleveland, the 175 pound finalists, slugged toe to toe, with the former getting that title on a divided decision.

After being floored twice in the first round Charles Lester, 18 year old 237 pound Cleveland Negro, rallied and knocked down Cincinnati's James Brown in the second session to give the ponderous Clevelander the championship.

BOWLERS OPEN TWO-DAY MEET IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3 (AP)—Officers and directors of the American Bowling congress will open the annual two day business meeting of the organization tomorrow.

Scheduled for consideration at the session are the reports of a committee, assigned to investigate control over doubles and singles tournaments, observance of the fifteenth anniversary of the congress, restoration of A. B. C. medals and awards lost by service men overseas, and a proposal to charge a bowling fee for the annual tournaments so that all entry money can be added to the prize list.

A. B. C. headquarters today announced the appointment of Judge Stephen Adamowski of the Chicago Municipal court to succeed the late Steve Owens as executive director for the Chicago area.

Purple Heart

"His forearm in a cast and other marks
More slight upon his chin and knee," they say.
And still, again he flies his plane above
An alien land, while loved ones kneel and pray
For God to keep him safe. How proud we are!
A little boy has grown to man's estate
And, just the way he stayed right in the game
At school, he's fighting now for freedom's fate.
Not long ago, in high school when his team
Would win, he modestly would grin and say
"We never could have won without your help—
The loyal fans were with us all the way!"
Stay on your job and help him win THIS bout!

Bar Feller as Pitcher for Great Lakes

BY EDWARD PRELL

Chief Specialist Bob Feller, peace time pitching star of the Cleveland Indians, will not be allowed to pitch for the Great Lakes Naval Training center baseball team, which he will coach this season.

This decision has been made by Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district. It was verified yesterday by Commodore Robert R. M. Emmet, commander at Great Lakes.

"The commandant has allowed us to use Feller as coach. He falls in the same category as Lt. Comdr. Mickey Cochrane, whom he succeeded as baseball coach, and Lt. Tony Hinkle, who was our basketball coach—this even tho he is not a commissioned officer. If a man of Lt. Comdr. Cochrane's caliber and experience had been available, we would have put him in charge of baseball."

Cites New Navy Policy

At the same time Commodore Emmet said that the new policy of the navy is to have its athletes perform for service men in the service areas, rather than in the United States. Now at Great Lakes in the early stages of boot training are Ken Keltner, third baseman of the Cleveland Indians, and Pinky Higgins, Detroit third baseman. Other big leaguers at the center are Clyde Shoun, Cincinnati southpaw pitcher; Max Marshall, Cincinnati outfielder, and Dick Wakefield, Detroit outfielder.

A navy baseball league is planned this summer in the Pacific, said Commodore Emmet. Lt. Bill Dickey, former New York Yankee catcher, in charge of baseball in the Pacific, will be allowed to call for players in the navy who are based in this country to build up his overseas baseball program.

Deëmphasize Navy Athletics

Obviously, such a program will mean the deëmphasizing of navy athletics in this country. Great Lakes' teams in 1942 and 1943 were of major league caliber, manned by stars from each of the leagues, such as Johnny Mize of the Giants, Ben McCoy of the Athletics, Clyde McCullough and Vern Olsen of the Cubs, Johnny Rigney and George Dickey of the White Sox, and a host of others.

Tho Adm. Carpender gave no specific reason for his decision to keep Feller on the sidelines, it was generally agreed this was in line with the navy's policy to keep famous athletes on continental bases out of the limelight. Feller is a veteran of more than 26 months in the combat area. He enlisted two days after Pearl Harbor, and has done no pitching in the last two years.

When he was announced as Great Lakes' coach Feller eagerly anticipated the chance of again pitching. A few months ago he expressed the belief that if he remained out of baseball competition for another year or two his future as a big leaguer would be imperiled.

Under Williams' Direction

"I talked to Feller the other day," said Commodore Emmet, "and he expressed his enthusiasm over the coming baseball season. I am delighted to have Bob with us at Great Lakes. Bob will coach the team under the direction, of course, of Lt. Comdr. Rollie Williams, our athletic officer."

Some time ago the navy sent out a directive requesting that bases not concentrate on professional or widely known athletes, pointing out that if they are used in sports they should be sent overseas where their morale values would be enhanced.

CLASSIC LEAGUE LEADERSHIP AT STAKE TONIGHT

Undisputed leadership in the Classic league will be the chief factor in tonight's roll-down at Park Manor lanes, 100 E. 75th st. If Jerry Skovic's Prima Beers and the defending champion Meister Brau's, currently tied for the coveted spot, get by their opponents this evening it will also go a long way in determining the second half season winners. The Meisters engage Thompson's Restaurants, winners of the first half season honor, with the latter only four games out of first place, while Prima will also encounter a formidable opposition in Congress Arcade, five games away. Of the three rounds already rolled this season, both leaders have won five of the nine games.

DEMAND POLICY ON TAXES TO AID RECONVERSION

Early, Equitable Program Asked

Washington, D. C., April 3 [Special]—The advisory board to the director of war mobilization and reconversion today unanimously adopted a resolution calling on congress and the director to give immediate attention to completing and making public a post-war tax program.

It urged the director "to emphasize the crucial importance of an early consideration of the nation's tax program" and added that "adoption by congress of an equitable tax program for the post-war period, at the earliest possible date, would represent one of the most important single steps in preparing the nation for reconversion and full employment."

Vinson Pays "Courtesy Call"

Fred M. Vinson, loan administrator who yesterday was nominated by the President to succeed James F. Byrnes as war mobilizer, dropped into the advisory board's meeting to pay a "courtesy call." After hearing the resolution, Vinson said tax reductions are one of the most important problems in reconversion and that in granting reductions emphasis should be placed on increasing production.

The resolution said in part:

"The knowledge that congress is at work on such a [tax reduction] program, and that its adoption would not be long deferred, would provide a strong stimulus to the formulation of specific plans by business enterprise. Bold decisions must be made soon by investors and business men, if they are to develop concrete plans for the largest peace time private pay rolls in our history. But the extent to which expansion is justified, and risks reasonable, must be determined partly in relation to tax policies which have not been established. Full knowledge of such policies is needed to provide a firm base for business planning."

Comments on Resolution

Chairman O. Max Gardner, former governor of North Carolina, commented:

"We are going to have high taxes, but as a condition precedent to a high national income we must have as soon as possible an equitable tax bill that will permit venture capital to go forward and thereby enable our workers to produce for a hungry peace. I honestly believe that there can be no written formula for reconversion until we have a tax policy that will point the way to greater peace time heights than this nation has yet achieved."

As a "national economic motto" Gardner recommended: "To strive to expand private enterprise as fast as possible to take up the economic slack as government spending declines."

KROGER GROCERY

Will you please provide a report on Kroger Grocery and Baking? What is the sales outlook?—J. O.

The growth in sales of this large food store chain has been a factor in enabling the company to maintain relatively steady profits despite the increase in federal tax burdens. The volume of business increased from $243,356,000 in 1939 to $448,381,000 in 1944. It has doubled since 1934, altho the number of stores operated has decreased from 4,352 in that year to 2,896 as of last Dec. 30.

The stores are concentrated to a large extent in the industrialized territory east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio, where wage payments and public purchasing power have been greatly increased during the war. This fact gives rise to some question whether sales of food store chains in that area will be maintained at the war time peak after government expenditures decline. However, Kroger's record of growth over a long period holds promise for the future.

Inasmuch as the company has been subject to excess profits taxes, amounting last year to $6,912,000 net, a decline in earnings before allowance for taxes would be offset to some extent by a decrease in taxes. Profit per share on the 1,836,589 no par common shares for fiscal years ended approximately on Dec. 31 were: 1944, $2.80; 1943, $2.71; 1942, $2.51; 1941, $2.69; 1940, $2.49; 1939, $3.01; 1938, $2.04.

From 1939 on the common dividend rate has been $2 a share a year. This was supplemented in 1939 by 50 cents extra.

Ready for Any War Contract, Says Pullman

C. A. Liddle, president of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, said yesterday his company is prepared and willing to maintain its heavy war production schedules or even accelerate them if that is necessar, to the prosecution of the war.

He described as "totally inaccurate" charges by a navy officer that Pullman-Standard had been asked but refused to bid on contracts for construction of craft similar to those being completed by the company for the navy.

Navy Ordered Jigs Scrapped

Liddle said all of the information received by the company in recent months indicated that the navy did not expect to place any more orders with Pullman-Standard, recalling that jigs and other facilities used in certain types of ship production were scrapped last December "at the navy's instructions."

Discussing the contracts on which Pullman-Standard was said to have refused to bid, Liddle said the company was told by a "top ranking officer of the bureau of ships that the receipt of an inquiry by us to build these ships was a matter of courtesy in recognition of the job which had been done at Calumet Harbor."

Other navy officials conveyed the same thought, Liddle said.

Told Facilities Not Needed

"Last fall Pullman-Standard was told by representatives of the navy—Capt. T. P. Wynkoop of the bureau of ships, and Adm. Brand of the bureau of ships [the latter on Nov. 28]—that the navy would have no more ship work for the company after completion of the present contract," Liddle explained.

"On Dec. 30, 1944, Capt. R. E. Jones of the bureau of ships wrote the company: 'Since navy work requiring use of the schedule 2-A facilities has been concluded and since the bureau does not foresee any additional work for your company which will require the use of such facilities . . .'

"The truth is that Adm. Charles L. Brand, in consultation with officials of our company, agreed there would be no advantage to the navy or to our company to bid on these ships."

MAY RYE MOVES HIGHER AS OTHER GRAINS DECLINE

May rye was scarce yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and the price advanced 2⅝ cents a bushel to a high of $1.24⅝ in the early trading. Altho heavy profit taking sales followed, the close was 1 cent net higher at $1.23⅛ to $1.23¼. July and December rye sold at new seasonal highs early, but reacted later with the deferred months finishing ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower.

Other grains failed to follow rye and turned easy. Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝ cent lower, corn lost ⅜ to ⅝, and oats finished unchanged to ⅝ lower. Barley was ⅝ lower to ⅛ higher.

Expectations of a rapid reduction in Chicago and other terminal market stocks of rye, which would leave a relatively small supply in view of uncompleted contracts of 22,168,000 bushels in the May future, provided the background for the buying.

BYOIR ORDERED TO FACE TRUST CHARGES TRIAL

New York April 3 (AP)—Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell today ordered the removal of Carl Byoir, public relations counselor, to Danville, Ill., to face trial on April 16 on a charge of violating the Sherman anti-trust act.

Byoir, his company, Business Organization, Inc., and various companies of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, are accused in a criminal information of participating in a conspiracy to restrain interstate trade in food and food products. Byoir's firm handles publicity for the grocery chain.

"The order of removal does not adjudicate the merits of the case and amounts to nothing more than a finding that the accused may be brought to trial," Judge Leibell said.

STOCK MARKET ENDS HIGHER IN SELECTIVE AND REDUCED TRADING

New York, April 3 (AP)—Selected rails and industrials moved higher in today's stock market altho early gains running to 2 or more points were reduced or lost at the close.

Dealings expanded at intervals, but slowdowns were frequent. Transfers of 730,000 shares compared with 650,000 Monday which were the smallest for a full session since last Oct. 30.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.1 at 60.6, its sixth consecutive upturn. Of 874 issues registering, 406 were ahead, 240 down, and 228 unchanged.

RAIL BONDS STRONG

New York, April 3 (AP)—Rails again held the spotlight in a generally higher bond market today, many extending previous gains by fractions to more than a point. The general corporate list held a fully steady undertone. Sales of $6,880,000 compared with $5,350,000 on Monday.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS.

Prices again were higher on slightly increased turnover of 31,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders were Central and South West Utilities, up ¼; Standard Dredging, up ⅛; Commonwealth Edison and Miller & Hart, both unchanged, and Chicago corporation common, down ⅝.

Better Patents System Urged by E.R.Breech

Improvement and not destruction of the patent system was urged yesterday in Bendix Aviation corporation's annual report, signed by Ernest R. Breech, president. It showed moderate increases in sales and net earnings for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30.

The management of Bendix, which among its diverse activities operates the world's largest aviation engine carburetor plant in Chicago, recognizes as "inescapable" the fact that the "results which any corporation may expect to reap from research and planning will be conditioned by the outcome of present controversy over changes in the patent system of this country," Breech said.

Protection Stimulates Research

"It is of fundamental concern to every American, therefore, that the wisdom of experience not be ignored in the institution of radical theories involving patents," he said. "Traditionally the protection which patents provide and the encouragement this protection offers, have served to stimulate individual and corporate research and invention."

Net sales, royalties, and other operating income, after deducting refunds stemming from retroactive price adjustments, amounted to $869,662,826 in the 1944 fiscal year, compared with $822,510,233 in the preceding year. Physical volume of production increased substantially.

Earns $7.22 a Share.

Consolidated net income rose to $15,290,094, or $7.22 a share, from $14,722,704, or $6.95 a share the year before. Renegotiation provisions in the 1944 and 1943 fiscal years were 55 million dollars and $53,262,659, respectively.

Unfilled orders at Sept. 30 were $662,836,569, against approximately 1 billion 18 million a year earlier.

Total price reductions including price refunds in 1944 were $84,389,641, in addition to 1943 price reductions and refunds totaling $256,157,531. Thru Dec. 31, 1944, Bendix received more than 10,000 contract terminations with a face value approximating 519 million dollars. Of this total, 9,001 terminations valued at $345,954,390 have been cleared and billed to the contracting agencies or other customers at $9,153,918, or 2.7 per cent of face value.

Edison Gets Priorities for Plant Addition

Commonwealth Edison company has received the necessary priorities to construct and equip its proposed 107,000 kilowatt addition to the Calumet generating station in Chicago, Charles Y. Freeman, chairman, disclosed yesterday at the annual stockholders' meeting. The undertaking will cost approximately $12,900,000 and will require about 20 months to complete.

Freeman said that altho the present abnormally high power demand probably will not continue into the immediate post-war years, the addition will justify itself in periods of lesser output by its more economical operation in place of older and less efficient equipment. The latter will be reserved for peak hour loads.

Dixon Unit Nearing Completion

The company expects to complete this year a 50,000 kilowatt electric generating unit at the Dixon station of Illinois Northern Utilities company, a subsidiary. Freeman said this not only will add much needed capacity to the total electric generating plant, but will serve also to strengthen a section of the system that is growing rapidly.

Reviewing recent financial activities, Freeman said the company has undertaken refunding of $112,755,000 of 3¾ per cent bonds privately held by a group of insurance companies. Of this sum, $12,755,000 of the bonds will be retired at the call price of 106½ with treasury funds, and the remaning 100 million dollars will be exchanged, with appropriate accrued interest adjustments, for a like amount of a new series of 3 per cent bonds maturing April 1, 1985. This is the second major bond refinancing in seven months. Edison sold 180 million dollars of 3s last October to replace outstanding 3s and 3½s.

Peak Output on Jan. 16

Freeman said that on Jan. 16 the company was required to supply between 9:30 and 10 a. m. 2,005,000 kilowatts, an output that exceeded all records. Coal consumption that month averaged 23,700 tons a day. On that basis, the company has in storage enough coal for 54 days operation, Freeman said.

All directors were reelected. Britton I. Budd, president and director since 1923 of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, a subsidiary, was elected to a board vacancy caused by the recent resignation of Charles A. McCulloch.

CATTLE SUPPLY LIGHTER; PRICES POINT UPWARD

Recent decreases in numbers of cattle coming to market have intensified the supply shortage of the meat industry, it was said at the stock yards yesterday. Heretofore the large beef output helped offset the big decrease in pork.

Yesterday's cattle run at 20 markets was cut to 56,000 head from 65,000 a week ago. Arrivals in Chicago were 9,500, compared with 9,416 a week earlier, but the two day total of 23,000 was 4,500 below last week and 6,300 below the average Monday and Tuesday of the last six weeks.

Packers bought steers actively at steady to strong prices, giving a top of $17.50. Lambs sold strong to 15 cents higher. The $16.90 top showed the full upturn and was within 20 cents of the highest lamb sale in 16 years. Hogs were bought up quickly at office of price administration ceilings.

RALPH W. DAVIS NOMINATED FOR EXCHANGE POST

Ralph W. Davis, partner in Paul H. Davis & Co., has been nominated to succeed Harry M. Payne as chairman of the board of governors of the Chicago Stock exchange, said John J. Bryant Jr., nominating committee chairman, yesterday. The election will be June 4.

Nominated as governors were Robert W. Baird of the Wisconsin company, Milwaukee; William A. Fuller of William A. Fuller & Co., Robert A. Gardner of Mitchell, Hutchins & Co., D. Dean McCormick of Kebbon, McCormick & Co.; Homer P. Hargrave of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane; Harry M. CUT NAVY PB4Y-2 SCHEDULES, HIKE B-32 PRODUCTION

San Diego, Cal., April 3 (AP)—A 20 per cent reduction in the rate of production of Privateer PB4Y-2 patrol bombers and acceleration of B-32 super bomber output in the next three months was announced today by Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation.

James L. Kelley, Consolidated division manager, said combat losses of the long range search planes were lower than originally expected by the navy, making a reduction in current requirements possible.

DEBT IMPELLED INTOPSY-TURVY TAX STRUCTURE

Interest Less Costly than Dividends

BY THOMAS FURLONG

[Financial Editor]

Debt and excessive capitalization, ordinarily shunned by prudent management, today offer a cushion to corporations against the impact of high federal tax rates. This is one of the consequences of a tax policy that makes bad financial practices pay immediate returns while impairing the soundness of the business structure.

Corporations can save money by replacing stock issues with notes and bonds. Interest paid by corporations on debt is a deductible tax item. Income paid in dividends on all types of stocks of industrial corporations, however, is fully taxable income. About two-thirds of the new corporate financing is being done thru issuance of bonds and notes, tho it is a basic rule of financial management to avoid an excessive proportion of debt in capital structures.

Work at Cross Purposes

The financial troubles of the railroads during the 1930s were the outgrowth of excessive debt capitalization and inflexible fixed charges for which reduced earnings were inadequate. While debt is encouraged by high tax rates, another government agency, the interstate commerce commission, imposes on railroads reorganization plans that provide drastic debt cuts.

Another effect of present tax policies is the corporate consolidations they foster. A highly profitable airplane appliance company seeks to merge with a broken down real estate investment trust because it has a capital structure that gives tax shelter to the aircraft profits. An insolvent building corporation acquires an industrial enterprise so that the latter's high earnings will not be subject to the severe drain of the excess profits tax.

Companies whose operations are completely unrelated thus are merging to form hybrid organizations that exist only for tax reasons.

"Wrecks" Made Attractive

Another type of tax fostered transaction is the purchase by individuals of run down business enterprises. Such purchases, oddly, are more attractive than the acquisition of profitable and soundly financed properties. The purchaser can nurse back to health the run down business because there is no compulsion under such circumstances to pay out earnings in dividends. After holding such a property for a short time the owner can sell out at a profit that is subject only to a 25 per cent capital gains levy. Had the same individual acquired a profitable property earnings distributed in dividends would have been subject to individual tax rates that run as high as 90 per cent.

Practices of the type described are tempting only when tax rates are so high that the normal rules of financial management can be ignored with temporary advantage. Ordinary business judgment is suspended as decisions are dictated strictly by tax considerations.

PIERSON RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF EXPORT BANK

Washington, D. C., April 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Warren Lee Pierson, who has been President of the Export-Import bank since 1936.

Pierson submitted his resignation March 28 to enter private business. Formerly a lawyer in Los Angeles, he came to Washington in 1933 as counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Pierson told Mr. Roosevelt he believed the Export-Import bank had demonstrated its worth to the foreign trade of the United States and that its usefulness in the future would increase.

Most of Gold Mined Recently Goes Into Hiding, Says League

Most of the gold produced outside Russia in the last three years has gone into hiding, the league of nations disclosed yesterday. It said the net increase of about 700 million dollars in known gold reserves absorbed only about a quarter of estimated world gold production outside Russia between December, 1941, and September, 1944.

Since the inception of the soviet regime no figures on Russia's gold resources or its rate of gold production have been available. It was hoped this information would be made known at last summer's Bretton Woods monetary conference, but a loophole was left in the agreement that is expected to permit Russia to keep her closely guarded secret for five years after the fund starts operating.

United States Reserve Drops

In the three year period United States gold reserves decreased about 2 billion dollars and known reserves in the remainder of the world increased roughly 2 billion 600 millions, the league's economic, financial, and transit department said in its monthly statistical bulletin.

About half the increase was in Latin American reserves and virtually all the other half was in the reserves of Switzerland, Sweden, Turkey, Spain, and the Union of South Africa, the report said.

"The dollar value of world gold production apart from the undisclosed output of soviet Russia rose from 1 billion 44 million in 1937 to 1 billion 290 million in 1940," it said. "The total was nearly as large in 1941, but fell off subsequently to about 950 million in 1943. The decline continued in 1944, but appears to have been slowing down, to judge from the incomplete data so far available."

Big Producers Share Decrease

The report said all the major producing countries shared in the decrease. South Africa's production which before the war accounted for about a third of world output, including that of Russia, dropped from 504 million dollars in 1941 to 448 million in 1943. Canada's output fell from 187 to 128 million, that of the United States from 166 to 48 million, Australia's from 52 to 26 million, and the Gold Coast's from 31 to 20 million.

Between December, 1938, and December, 1941, total known reserves outside Russia rose about 4 billion 700 million dollars to about 29 billion 900 million. United States reserves rose 3 billion 225 million, and those of all other countries except Russia fell 3 billion 525 million, chiefly because of the disappearance of the British 1938 reserve of nearly 2 billion 700 million. Most of this had accrued to United States reserves, the report said.

Redistribution of Gold

Subsequent redistribution of gold as shown in recorded gold reserves of selected countries in millions of dollars, percentage of change from December, 1938 to December, 1941 [A] and percentage of change from September, 1941 to September, 1944 [B]:

PROMISE GOODS TO PUBLIC YEAR AFTER V-E DAY

War Output to Drop 35 Pct., Says Krug

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 3—A "substantial" quantity of almost every type of consumer goods—including refrigerators, washing machines, radios, and possibly automobiles—will reach the American market within 12 months after the defeat of Germany, Chairman Krug of the war production board said today in announcing the agency's reconversion program.

Julius A. Krug

Krug estimated that a year after Germany surrenders, war production will be reduced about 35 per cent, permitting a civilian economy approximately equal to that of 1939. Under the WPB reconversion plan announced last fall and later abandoned, war output was to be cut 40 per cent immediately upon the fall of Germany.

Home Appliances First on List

The WPB chairman said that such essential civilian items as home appliances will be the first manufactured during the initial 12 months of reconversion. Tires probably will remain scarce for a time because of military needs, he said, but hoped increased numbers would be available for civilian motorists soon after V-E day.

Krug avoided placing automobiles specifically among the goods which will become available within the first year after the war in Europe ends, but implied that if conditions are favorable, automobile manufacture will be resumed soon after Germany falls. He said he is going to Detroit this week to confer with automobile manufacturers on war and reconversion problems.

Earlier it was also disclosed that Krug expects to appoint a top WPB official to supervise transition of the auto industry to civilian production. Several months ago Krug said he was positive automobiles could be produced within five months after reconversion is permitted.

Even Distribution Planned

Reduction of war production will be handled wherever practicable in such a way as to distribute the production load evenly thruout the country, he said, and priorities will be given for the manufacture of a "very limited" number of civilian products, such as farm machinery, food containers, transportation

SEC GETS MANY STOCK OFFERING PLANS THIS WEEK

Philadelphia, Pa., April 3 (AP).—An unprecedented number of securities registrations are undergoing action by the securities and exchange commission this week as the result of a rush to take advantage of the "90 day rule" of the securities act.

Under this rule, companies registering securities must include certified financial statements dated within 90 days of the registration. Those who registered by March 31 could include certified statements as of Dec. 31, 1944, from their annual reports, eliminating the cost of additional audits.

An unusual number are offerings registered by corporations but sold by stockholders to reduce or liquidate their interest in the companies. Such offerings apparently were stimulated by current high prices for securities.

Miller-Wohl Stock Offered

Of the seven common and three preferred issues registered by seven corporations at the end of last week and released by the SEC today, five common offerings and one preferred are being offered by stockholders.

The Miller-Wohl company, operator of women's apparel shops, registered 30,000 shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock, $50 par value, and 50,000 shares of $1 par value common stock. Half of the preferred shares are offered by the company and half by its four stockholders. Max L. Tomber, Dave Wohl, Blanche W. Tomber, all of New York, and Jerome I. Wohl of Chicago.

Each of the four is offering 12,500 of individual blocks of 50,000 shares of common stock and will sell Allen & Co., the underwriter, the 10,000 five year warrants held by each. Allen & Co. plans to hold 20,000 warrants for investment and sell the other 20,000 at 10 cents each to Lehman Brothers.

Registers 50,000 Shares

I. K. Porter company, Pittsburgh, manufacturer of industrial locomotives, registered 50,000 shares of 5 per cent $50 par value cumulative preferred stock with nondetachable common stock purchase warrants, and 45,000 shares of $5 par value common stock. T. M. Evans, president, is selling the common shares.

Expreso Aereo Inter-Americano, S. A., Havana, Cuba, registered 300,000 shares of $1 par common, to be sold at $3 each.

URGES TRANSIT CASH BENEFITS FOR CITY ONLY

Alderman Would Curb Authority's Spending

In a discussion at a city council meeting yesterday Ald. Waller [43d] urged that steps be taken to make sure the proposed metropolitan transit authority spends all of the 30 million dollars cash now in the surface lines treasury for the improvement of traction properties within the city, and preferably to benefit surface lines riders.

A bill creating the authority, approved by Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green, is pending before the legislature in Springfield. Under its provisions the elevated and surface lines would be purchased by the authority, unified, and operated by a publicly owned corporation. The cash would be among the assets bought from the surface lines.

Should Be Trust Fund.

"These millions should be a trust fund," he asserted. "Under a franchise ordinance adopted in 1907, the city pledged the use of its share of the street railways of the city. These profits were put into the traction fund and used in building the subway.

"Now there is no limit on what the authority can do with the funds the surface lines own and have set aside for street car and bus modernization; that body can spend where it likes, even tho the surface lines carry 75 per cent of all passengers of local transportation systems and the accumulation came from their pockets."

Resolution Offered.

Waller presented a resolution embodying his views and asked a suspension of the rules to consider it. There was no second and the matter was referred to the committee on local transportation, of which Ald. Quinn [50th] is chairman.

Quinn said a study was being made of the park district's control over boulevards used by buses, with a view to avoiding any conflict over who should grant the authority its powers. This matter is to be considered at a committee meeting Friday.

LOSS TO CITY, CLUB CITED IN ROTARY MOVE

Both Chicago and Rotary International stand to lose if the latter's headquarters are transferred from this city to another farther west, Sherman J. Sexton, president of the Chicago convention bureau, said yesterday.

"While Chicago would be deprived of one of its most constructive forces for community progress and business development if Rotary International should leave here, the biggest loser would be Rotary itself," he declared.

He stressed Chicago's advantages as a business and transportation hub and the innumerable opportunities for contacts of all sorts that it offered.

L UNION O. K.S PAY HIKE OF 2 CENTS AN HOUR

A wage increase of 2 cents an hour, with overtime after 40 hours instead of 44, and other union contract improvements already approved by the Chicago Rapid Transit company, was accepted by an overwhelming majority of the 4,500 members of division 308 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes' yesterday.

William F. Levander, division president, said the union and company would now jointly petition the war labor board for approval of the agreement.
